WHEN a Book pleases us, we are naturally curious about the Author : we love to know the Progress, by which his Mind came into such a train of Thought : and his Story often serves to illustrate and confirm his Notions. This has made me inquisitive, concerning the Character of Professor Franck : and having seen some Papers, in which he himself had described the former Part of his Life ; I thought the Substance of them might furnish a proper Preface, for the following Translation.

AUGUSTUS Herman Franck was born at Lubeck, on the 12th of March A. D. 1663. his Father Mr. John Franck, was a Counsellor at Law ; and his Mother Ann, was Daughter of Mr. David Gloxin senior, Burgomaster of Lubeck.

MR. John Franck the Father, was Syndick of the Chapter of the Cathedral Church, and of the several States of the Principality of Ratzenburgh, at the Time when Augustus was born; but three Years after, he removed with his Family to Gotha, having accepted the Office of Aulic Councillor to his most serene Highness, Ernestus Pius Duke of Saxe-Gotha. He lived but four Years after this removal, and died when this his Son was seven Years old. But before his Death, he had observed in the Child, such early Indications of Piety, and particularly a great love of the Holy Scriptures, that he had designed him for the Church: and his Mother, continuing the same Resolution, had him, together with some Children of the neighbourhood, instructed by a private Tutor.

It is grievous to reflect, how early the Conversation of the World is infectious. Even the little Plays of Children left to themselves, are not harmless. They wrangle, they cheat, and oppress one another: and those of them, who are naturally the most innocent, find themselves not a Match for their Fellows, till by often suffering little Frauds or Violence, they are provoked to practise them in their turn, to do as they are done by, and become unjust, deceit-deceitful, and mischievous, as it were in their own Defence.

THE young Augustus experienced this, as he after acknowledged and lamented; but his own little Deviations proved serviceable, for preventing in a great Measure the like Errors in the vast Number of Children, whose Education has been since committed to his Care by Divine Providence; for it was his Custom always to appoint some sober Person to be present at their Play-Times, to interpose in their Disputes, and moderate their growing Passions with a gentle but unremitted Discipline.

HE had, as was said before, from his Infancy, discovered a great Disposition to Piety and Devotion; which as long as his Father lived, had been cultivated with Care, and fenced from the Contagion of bad Examples; but after his Father's Death, he was left more to himself and Companions of his own Age, with whom he contracted evil Habits, and lost much of that Sense of God which had before prevailed in his Heart.

HOWEVER, about the tenth Year of his Age, it again revived, and he felt (as he himself describes it) a Divine Attraction in his Soul, which made him disrelish and despise the common Amusements of Childhood. He then re-membred the Words of Christ, Matt. vi. 6. When thou prayest, enter into thy Closet, and earnestly desired his Mother to allow him such a retreat. She granted it, and every Day after, when his Tutor dismissed him, instead of going to play, he went to his Closet, and kneeling down, with Hand and Heart lifted towards Heaven, he said his Prayers with great Fervency. He used often to repeat the following Words, which he had never been taught, but were the pure Suggestions of his own Mind, or rather of the Holy Spirit that prayed in him: "Dear God!

 " it is necessary that there should be
 " various Employments among Men,
 " which have their different Ends; yet
 " all finally concur to the manifestation " of thy Glory. I humbly beseech thee,
 " that my Employment may be such,
 " as may tend solely and immediately
 " to thy Glory."

HE was not a little assisted in these good Dispositions by his elder Sister, who had feared God from her Infancy, and was early removed from this World to a blessed Eternity; she had a great Zeal for the spiritual Improvement of her Brother, and for that End, had engaged him, when he was very young, to read the Holy Scriptures, and John Arndt's Treatise of True Christianity, with with other pious Books. Her edifying Conversation, was a daily Lesson to him, and her good Advice, was so authorized and enforced by her good Example, that it had a great Effect upon him.

HE continued to advance very much in his Studies, so that after having been one Year at the great School at Gotha, he was publicly elected for the University at the Age of thirteen. He has since declared, upon mentioning this his uncommon Proficiency, that he has found by a long Experience, that the more assiduous he was in Devotion, the greater Progress he made in his Studies; and that when he neglected his Prayers, he could do nothing well at his Book, altho' he exerted himself with the greatest Application. It should seem, that his Talents, which were destined to the Service of Religion, could not improve under any other Influence.

HE was in a very good Disposition, when he first went to the publick School at Gotha: He was frequent and fervent in Prayer, and particularly, he besought God to grant him the Acquaintance of such Friends there, as had the same Design with himself, to serve God faithfully. But such Friends are rarely found in any part of Life, and more rarely among Boys at School: and he being of a friendly, social Spirit, soon grew familiar and intimate with such as he met with : whose bad Examples had an ill Effect upon him, so that he insensibly lost his former Zeal ; and got worldly Tasts and Desires ; so that his Learning became a subject of Vanity, and his Industry the tool of Ambition.

'Tis the Misfortune of good-natur'd ingenuous Spirits, that they are so easily wrought upon ; their Modesty and Complaisance are often Snares to them : Mr. Franck learnt this by himself, and thence used to insist, with great earnestness, upon the necessity of arming the Minds of young Persons with repeated Advices of the Corruption of the World. Religion in Youth is almost always a singularity ; and he that will maintain it, must dare to be good at the price of being ridiculous.

ALTHO' Mr. Franck was nominated so early for the University, yet he did not go thither till two Years after, and the Interval was employed under a private Tutor in Academical Studies, which for the eight Years following, he prosecuted at the Universities of Erfurt, Keil, Leipsick, and Luneburg, with such Application and Success, that he excelled in almost every Branch of Science, and was, of his Age, one of the most learned

ed Men then living. To the Knowledge of the learned Languages, he had added that of the French, Italian, and English: but his greatest Application had been to the Hebrew Tongue, which he studied under the famous Ezdras Edzard, and in which he perfected himself by teaching it to Mr. Weichmanshausen, since Professor of Hebrew at Wittenberg.

IN the Year 1685. He commenced Master of Arts at Leipsick, and soon after, he was very instrumental in setting up a Society called Collegium Philo-Biblicum. The Intention of this Society was, to cultivate the Knowledge of the Scriptures in the Original Languages: for which End, many Masters of Arts agreed to meet every Sunday after Divine Service, from 4 till 6 in the Afternoon. In these Assemblies was read a certain Portion of the Old and the New Testament in the Originals; and then a Conference was held, in which they proposed severally, what occur'd to them as proper to explain, or illustrate, or apply what had been read. A great Number of the Scholars attended these Assemblies as Auditors: and many of the Professors themselves, honoured them with their Presence. This Society proved a happy Seminary, which produced produced many illustrious Ornaments of the Lutheran Church.

ABOUT this time, there happened an Accident, which seems to have been the occasion of his first becoming acquainted with the mystick or spiritual Writers. The Doctrines of Molinos had been just then censur'd by the Inquisition at Rome, and he condemn'd to a perpetual Imprisonment. The News-Papers, after their Manner, gave some account of his Tenets: and an extract of his Writings, made by his Adversary Segnerio, was insert'd in the Acta Eruditorum Leipsensium. Upon these Materials, one of the Students, without having ever seen any of Molinos his Writings, kept an Act de Quietismo contra Molinosum. The Principles of Molinos had been for some time a common Subject of Conversation, and this Disputation rais'd the curiosity of the Publick, so that there was a general Desire to read the Author himself. A Person of Note desired Mr. Franck, who understood the Italian, to make a Latin Translation of his Writings, which he undertook, with the Approbation and Encouragement of several of the Professors: and after having consulted the Mystic Authors therein referr'd to, and taken pains to make Molinos his Sense as plain as possible, he published in Latin his Spiritual Guide and Daily Communion, with a short Preface, in which he fully declared his own Intention.

BUT some time after, the Adversaries of Mr. Franck took this handle to asperse him, as one that had imbibed the Principles of Molinos, and afterwards instilled them into others. To which charge he made the following Apology.

First, THE reading and translating the Works of Molinos was not the beginning of my Conversion, as I shall relate hereafter more at large.

Secondly, I NEVER said, either in Publick or in Private, that I could approve or defend all that Author saies.

Thirdly, I rather perswade others to read the Holy Scripture, and onely such Books as build their Doctrine upon the sure Foundation of the Word of God. Tho' I do not deny my Abhorrence for the absurdity of those, who condemn this Author without understanding, or even reading him: yet charge him with monstrous Opinions, which most probably never came into his Mind. In opposition to such rash Censurers, I have maintained, that many useful and edifying Observations were contained in his Book, which I never should, or could dif-

disapprove, or condemn. Truth is precious from whatever Hand it comes, and the Scripture commands us to try all Things, and hold fast and adhere to that which is good: Such for Instance, is what he saies of Humility in his third Book, of which I heartily profess my Approbation: Such are the few Admonitions which he gives to the Father Confessors in the second Book, which are generally worthy to be observed: Such also, is his Doctrine of Christ, as the only Way, and the only Door, by, and through whom we are to come to God, and in whose Blood we are to be purified, that we may become acceptable in his sight. Again, the Expressions which are interspersed through his Works concerning spiritual Temptations are grounded upon Experience; whereof a mere animal and worldly-minded Man is not a capable Judge: But those who have tasted of that bitter Cup, will often find them just and edifying. There are many other Passages, which neither I, nor any true Believer can disapprove, because they are grounded upon Scripture, and agreeable to the established Articles of our Church. But if any should find in this Author, something contrary to Scripture, let such know, that I never ver desire to be Partaker of his Error ; yet I shall not, however, to gain any Man's favour, condemn what I do not understand, or reject what I find warranted by Scripture, altho' it comes from a Person of a different Perswasion. It is certainly very unjust, to charge him with the Errors of any Book, who approves what is good in it : you may with as much Reason call him a Heathen, who commends Tully's Offices : Or brand him for a Papist, who takes a good Interpretation of a Scripture Text from Estius, Cornelius a Lapide, or other Commentator of that Communion : Or stigmatize him for a Calvinist, who should confess that the Book called Self Deceit, had discovered to him his sinful State : or that Southom's golden Jewel had awakened his Conscience, or that he had been edified by any of the so called Reformed Books. Those who are so forward to censure others, have seldom any Reason to give but their wicked Suspicion, which rash Judgment, the just Judge will not leave unpunished.

To conclude, I have read and translated the Books of Molinos, without any Intention of making myself a Party in the Dispute : I have approved them no farther, than they are agreeable to Scripture ; so that no Person can pretend that that he has been offended by any Discourse of mine upon that Subject: I appeal to all lovers of Truth, and Men of Conscience: And as to my own particular in this Point, my Conscience applauds me before the righteous Judge of the World.

I HAVE transcribed at length, this Apology of Professor Franck for two Reasons: First, Because many serious Persons have, and may hereafter stand in need of the same Defence against the blind partiality of Sectarian Zeal: And Secondly, Because his acquaintance with those spiritual Writings was soon after followed by his total Conversion, which happened about this time: For hitherto his Studies had been principally directed ad Pompam, as he expresses it; his main Design had been to get Learning, Preferment, Riches, and an easy Life; and tho' he had frequent Fits of Seriousness and Devotion, so that he often began to reform, yet he was still drawn away by the Multitude, and his Knowledge of Divinity proved only a dead and fruitless Speculation. I was (saith he) in my Heart a mere animal Man, who had a great deal in his Head, but was still a Stranger to that real Substance and Truth which is in Christ Jesus.

BUT

BUT at the time abovementioned; which was in the twenty fourth Year of his Age, God was pleased to touch his Heart more effectually, and make him sensible, that a mere speculative Knowledge of Divinity as a Science, was by no means a sufficient Qualification for the Ministry: And that he should impose upon the World, if he undertook the Office of Preaching, before he had himself practised the evangelical Doctrines: And hereupon, he besought the Lord with great earnestness; to work in him a total Conversion. The Effect of this Prayer, was a greater Sense of his depravity and worldly mindedness, and his utter Incapacity to deliver himself by his own Endeavours. Hence he fell into great Perplexities and Agonies of Mind: he felt more and more his own wretchedness: and as his Distress encreased, so did his Desires of Deliverance.

A PROVIDENTIAL Accident at the same time concurr'd to the setting him loose from the World: For the Patron of an Exhibition which he received, advised him to go from Leipsick, to the University of Lunenburg, to hear the Divinity Lectures of the famous Superintendent Sandhagen: This at once broke off all Engagements of Company and old Acquaintance. At Luneburg, he Boarded in a private Family; but spent the greatest Part of his time in his Chamber, where he gave himself continually to Prayer and Meditation.
and

SOME time after his Arrival, he was desired to Preach at St. John's Church, and had a considerable time allowed him to prepare his Discourse, the Text he chose was the 31 Verse of the 20th Chapter of St. John, These are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ the Son of God: and that believing, ye might have Life through his Name. From these Words, he proposed to shew the Properties of a true and living Faith, as distinguished from that which is a mere human Imagination or Presumption. As he was meditating upon this Subject, he reflected that he himself was destitute of the Faith he would describe; this put a Stop to his Study, and turned all his Thoughts upon himself. He fell into great agonies of Spirit, and continued for several Days inconsolable, till at length it pleased the Lord to lift up the Light of his Countenance upon him, and to fill him with that Faith, for which he was rightly disposed by a due Sense of his Want of it.

Two Days after he Preached the Sermon, which he had promised, upon the Text abovementioned: and could truly apply to himself those Words of the Apostle, 2 Cor. iv. 13. Having the same Spirit of Faith, according as it is written, I believed, and therefore have I spoken: we also believe, and therefore speak. “ This (said he) is the time,

“ from which I date my real Conversion; for ever since, I have always “ found it easy to deny all Ungodliness
“ and worldly Lusts, and to live soberly, “ righteously, and godly in this present World. Ever since I have kept “ close with God, and have accounted
“ as nothing all Promotions and Preferences
“ in this World, and the Grandeurs, “ Riches, Ease, and Pleasures thereof. And whereas I had but too “ much idolized Learning, I now perceive that a Grain of Faith far exceeds “ all humane Sciences; and that “ all Attainments at the Feet of Gamaliel,
“ are to be valued like Dung,
“ in comparison of the Excellency of the “ Knowledge of Jesus Christ our Lord.”

Some of that Knowledge, he has endeavoured to communicate in the following Treatise; wherein the Divine Glory of Jesus Christ, is vindicated with such and so many Arguments, that as nothing more need, so little more can, be said upon that Subject. The pious Reader will be particularly pleased and edified, by the Author's large Comment upon the beginning of the Gospel by St. John, wherein the Generation of the W O R D is described, and his necessarily eternal Existence, demonstrated in the clearest and strongest Lights; for it is shewed undeniably, that the Word and Wisdom of God are the same: from whence may be drawn as a certain Consequence, that to suppose God without his Word or Wisdom, is to make him a dumb Idol, which is equally absurd and blasphemous.

BUT to reassume our account of the Author. I have observed in the Lives of holy Men, that tho' they have all the Virtues in some certain Degree, yet commonly each of them excels in some particular Virtue, which constitutes his particular Character. The great Virtue of Faith, seems to have been the distinguishing Characteristick of Professor Franck, as the Reader may have remarked in his Conversion. This Divine Quality prevailed in him afterwards, to a degree that seems miraculous, as will appear by many Instances, in the History of the Orphan-house at Glauca near Hall which is a University in Saxony, but subject

subject to the King of Prussia, by whose Appointment, Mr. Franck was here made Professor of Divinity, and at the same time Pastor of the Parish of Glauca, which is in the Suburbs.

THIS Establishment of this Hospital, as the Faith from whence it sprung, may be compared to the Grain of Mustard-seed, mentioned in the Gospel: Its Beginning was exceeding small and contemptible, but its Progress was surpris- ingly great, and so drew the Attention of the Publick, that in the Year 1700. Frederic the First, Father of the present King of Prussia, gave a Commission to four Privy Counsellors, that they should examine, and bring him full Information concerning it. They, after taking an exact Survey of all the Particulars relating thereto, commanded the Professor Franck, to give them in Writing a full Account of that Affair, viz. by what Means the Hospital was erected and maintained; and to what Uses it was employed. He did so, and the Royal Commission being much talked of, a general Curiosity was raised; and the Professor was importuned by many Persons, to publish the Substance of what he had laid before the Commissioners. To satisfy these, and at the same time to confute many Calumnies and Misre-a 2 presen-

presentations that had been spread abroad; he printed an Historical Account of the whole Affair (as it had been laid before his Prussian Majesty) by the Title of Pietas Hallensis: the Substance of which is as follows.

IN those Parts, the Poor have no Settlement upon Parishes; but it is an ancient Custom in the City and Suburbs of Hall, to appoint a particular Day every Week, whereon the Poor assemble at the Doors of such charitable Persons as are disposed to relieve them.

A RENDEZVOUS of Beggars is a Spectacle, which in the generality of Beholders; moves some superficial Sentiments of Pity, with a Mixture of Ridicule and Contempt. The Professor saw them with other Eyes: he was intimately touched with Compassion for all their Wants, but especially for their gross Ignorance, and want of Religion. Our common Beggars are, generally speaking, the Dregs of Mankind, as well in their Vices, as their Poverty: and their Children, almost fatally engaged in the same Wretchedness, are bred only to make a trafic of their Misery: they are heathenish and brutal, and even lost to all Sense of Shame, that last Defence of Virtue. Such Distress in Fellow-Creatures, cannot but touch the Heart of a good Man, but it is difficult to know how to succour it. Present Relief may serve to protract their wretched Lives, but the only effectual Service that can be done them is, if possible, to reclaim them from their profligate Courses.

THIS was what the Professor had very much at Heart, and to make some Essay towards it, one Thursday (which was the Day of their Meeting before his Door) he called them all into the House, and having placed the grown Persons on one side, and the Children on the other, he in a familiar and engaging Manner asked the latter, viz. the Children, what they understood of the Principles of the Christian Religion, as taught in Luther's Catechism. The elder Persons were not examined, but only attended to what was said: and after the Professor had spent about a Quarter of an Hour in teaching and explaining the Catechism, concluding with a short Prayer, he distributed his Alms as usual: and told them, that for the future, both spiritual and temporal Provision was designed for them, and should be administered after this Manner, at their Weekly Meetings at his House. This was about the Beginning of the Year 1694.

By this practice, the Professor grew more nearly acquainted with the Temper and Manners of this sort of People : and as he was used to consider all Things in their relation to God and another World, he was principally solicitous about their Instruction: But this he found a very hard Task, and, as he expresses it, he scarce knew where to begin the Cultivation of so barren a Soil: His chief Hopes were of the Children, and therefore he resolved to pay for their Schooling: But besides this Expence, he had several poor Housekeepers to support, and his own little Fund soon fell short: So he bought an Alms-Box, and sent it about every Week among the Students, and others that were charitably disposed: By this Means he collected about the Sum of two Shillings.

It is necessary here to inform the Reader, that in that Part of Germany, the value of Money is very different from what it is in England. One Shilling there will go as far as six here: and such Allowance must be made in the Sums hereafter specified.

THE Alms-Box above mentioned, was handed about for some Weeks; but as none were applied to but such as were charitably disposed, the Collections proved so small, as not to answer the Trouble; so that Method was laid aside. What followed upon this, shall be related in

in the Author's own Words. " I fixed
 " (says he) a Box in my own Parlour,
 " with these Words written over it,
 " John iii. 17. Whoso hath this World's
 " good, and seeth his Brother have need,
 " and shutteth up his Bowels of Compassion
 " from him, how dwelleth the Love
 " of God in him? And under it, 2 Cor.
 " ix. 7. Every Man according as he pur-
 " poseth in his Heart, so let him give,
 " not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God
 " loveth a chearful Giver. This was " intended for a tacit Admonition to all " that came in, to open their Hearts to" wards the Poor. The Box was put " up in the Beginning of the Year 1695.

" AND thus I was taken up a great
 " while, with contriving effectual Me" thods to provide for the Poor, and
 " each of them hath been blessed in its " Degree. One Day before I fixed
 " the aforesaid Box for the Poor in my " House, I took the Bible, and as it
 " were by Accident, did light on these " Words: 2 Cor. ix. 8. God is able to " make all Grace abound towards you,
 " that ye always having all sufficiency in
 " all Things, may abound to every good
 " Work. This Sentence made a deep " Impression on my Mind, causing me
 " to think: How is God able to make
 " this? I should be glad to help the Poor,

“ had I wherewithal; whereas now I am “ forced to send many away empty and “ unrelieved! Some Hours after, I re“ ceived a Letter from a Friend, who “ heavily complained that he, and all “ his Family, were like to perish with “ Want; saying he would borrow no “ more, but if any one would for God’s “ sake make him an Object of his Cha“ rity, he should ever retain a grateful “ Remembrance of it. This minded “ me afresh of what I had read a little “ while before, and made still a deeper “ Impression on me, attended with Sighs
 “ and Aspirations. After some debates
 “ in my Mind, I thought on a Project,
 “ how to relieve effectually this poor “ Man in his present Want, and yet
 “ in a Christian manner, and without “ giving the least trouble to any Person “ whatsoever. This then I speedily “ put in Execution, and the said Fami“ ly was so successful, as to get within “ the compass of one Year, about (a) an “ Hundred and Fifty Crowns by this “ Means: And so their falling into ex“ treme Poverty was happily prevented.
 “ This proved a sufficient Demonstra“ tion, how God is able to make us a“ bound to every good Work; which I “ could not forbear here to mention, “ because

“ because it helps to discover, as well
“ the outward Cause, which our Un“ dertaking took its Rise from; as the “ frame of my Mind, which the Lord “ upheld for carrying on the Work.*

THE Children, whose teaching the Professor paid for, were negligent, or neglected at the School: some of them stayed often away, and in general, they made no Improvement: so that he was very desirous to have a School of his own, where they might be taught under his Inspection. And while he had this design at Heart, a certain Person put into the Box set up in his House, to the value of Eighteen Shillings and Six-pence English, this was about Easter 1695. When he found this Sum,

he said in full assurance of Faith:
“ This is now a considerable Fund, wor- “ thy to be laid out in some important “ Undertaking; wherefore I will even “ take this for the Foundation of a Cha- “ rity-School. The same Day, he laid out eight Shillings in Books for the Children to read in: A Room before his Study Door was fitted up for the Charity School: and a poor Student was hired for one Shilling a Week, to teach the Children two Hours a Day. Seven and twenty Books were distributed to as many Children, but only four of these

these returned again to the School: the rest ran away with their new Books, and the Professor heard no more of them. This, instead of discouraging him, convinced him so much the more, of the Necessity there was of endeavouring to reclaim such young Vagrants. So he bought more Books, and got more Scholars; and that he might not again lose both together, he made them leave the Books at the School.

IN this School, he had put up another Alms-Box, with this Inscription over it; For defraying the Charges of Schooling, Books, and other Necessaries for poor Children, Anno 1695. And under it, He that hath pity upon the Poor, lendeth unto the Lord: and that which he hath given, shall be paid him again.

ABOUT Whitsontide, till which time, (as the Professor had before computed) his little Stock lasted; when it was now just spent, some Friends, who came to visit him, pleased with this Essay of Charity, contributed some Crowns to the Support of it.

AFTER Whitsontide, some of the Inhabitants seeing how carefully the poor Children were taught, desired that they might send their Children to the same Master, paying him for his Trouble: so he agreed to teach five Hours a Day, and his Salary was encreased to two Shillings and six Pence a Week.

ALMS were now distributed two or three times a Week to the Children, that they might be engaged to come more constantly to School, and be kept in better Order. And as this little Beginning came to be known abroad, several Persons sent in Money and Cloathing for the Children, thereby to hire them, as it were, to receive Instruction. The Professor already found in part that Promise verified, that God would make him abound to every good Work: since besides maintaining his School, he had wherewithal to assist poor House-keepers; for he disposed of what Providence sent, as fast as it came, without sollicitude for Futurity.

BEFORE the end of this Summer, a Person of Quality sent to the Professor five hundred Crowns, upon Condition, that some Part of it should be disposed of to poor Students in the University. This greatly encouraged him, and he presently enquired after the more necessitous among the Students, to twenty of whom he gave a weekly Allowance. He looked upon this as a Call of Providence, to make indigent Scholars a Part of his Care, which he continued to do, as long as he lived, making an ESta-

Establishment for them in his Hospital, as will be hereafter related.

SOON after, another Person of Quality sent a hundred Crowns for the Poor, and a Friend gave twenty towards the School: “ So that, as he saith himself, “ God mightily supported what was begun, and his Bounty streamed down “ more plentifully, to shew us, that he “ was ready to do still greater Things, “ if we could but believe.

THE Number of the poor Children, and those of the Inhabitants, encreased to such a degree, that in the beginning of the Winter, he was obliged to hire a second Room: and then he separated the Children of the Inhabitants from those of the Poor, appointing each a peculiar Master.

BUT as the spiritual Welfare of the poor Children, had been the first and principal View of the Professor, in the Care he took of them; he found that, after all his Pains, this was little advanced, because the Good they got at School, was lost at Home. This made him resolve to single out some Children, and venture upon their Maintenance, as well as their Education; and this first disposed him to concert Measures for an Hospital, before he knew of any Fund for its Maintenance.

WHEN

WHEN he discovered his Project to some Friends, one of them settled five hundred Crowns, the Interest of which was appointed for the Maintenance of one Orphan; four were presented to the Professor, for him to make his Choice. He ventured (as he speaks) in the Name of God, to take them all four. In less than a Fortnight, he received at different Times five more, and boarded them with Persons that had a good Sense of Religion.

THE Divine Providence eminently concurred with this pious Enterprize: for soon after, above one thousand four hundred Crowns were sent from different Hands. The Professor thus supplied, and encouraged outwardly, and led and supported inwardly, by such sublime Degrees of Faith, as nothing but experience like his can give us worthy Notions of, bought, fitted up, and furnished a House to serve as an Hospital, for the reception of the Orphans under his Care. Their Number was increased to twelve, when they were removed into this House, from the private Families where they had been Boarded.

IN this little Hospital, every Child was laid in a Bed by himself; they were well cloathed, and fed and taught: they were kept in great Order; and a general Cleanliness, that cheap, innocent, and best Ornament, made them a very agreeable Spectacle. The Professor spared nothing that was necessary; for he had sure Confidence in the inexhaustible Fund of Providence; and his only Care was (as he tells us) not to mispend one single Farthing; but provide for his Poor, as Poor, viz. such Things as were absolutely requisite for their Maintenance.

It was said before, that five hundred Crowns had been sent to the Professor, with a desire, that part of it should be applied to the Support of poor Students. This he had interpreted as a Call of Providence, to take them under his Care. He was very sensible of what Importance this might prove to Religion, by the Opportunity it gave him of regulating their Manners, directing their Studies, and forming some among them, to be worthy Labourers in the Lord's Vineyard. And therefore, with their weekly Allowance, he always gave them good Advice: but many, who took his Money, rejected the better Part of the Benefaction; spending even that Money in bad Company. To prevent this, he resolved, in the Name of God, to Board them; and two Tables were daily provided for them in the the Hospital. " I cast myself (says he) upon the Providence of the Lord, hoping that his Bounty from time to time would supply us with such Relief, as was sufficient for them." By these Means, he became nearer acquainted with their Temper and Capacities; they were kept more in awe, and better answered the main Design of fitting them for the Management of Schools, or Parochial Cures. By these Means also, he came to distinguish those who were really in Want, from those who were not: for these latter would not take up with the mean Diet of the Hospital.

THIS extraordinary Progress in good Works, did not make the Professor neglect the Beginning, which had been relieving common Beggars. He had Faith in the Promise, that God would make him abound to every good Work: and accordingly doubled his Care of them: for now two Days in a Week were appointed, whereon all that came were instructed and relieved.

BESIDES this, a Free-School was opened for all Children, whose Parents could not, or would not pay for their Learning: and these, with the Orphans he had adopted, became so numerous, as to employ four Schoolmasters. Another ther little Houfe was added to the former. That too was soon filled, and more room was wanting. The Professor's Charity was not yet fatisfied, and his Faith was equal to his Charity: as he was confcious that God put thefe good Defires into his Heart, fo he trusted in God for the fulfilling them.

SUCH were the Circumftances, which as it were infenfibly engaged the Professor in the Foundation of that famous Hofpital, which has fince been one of the moft illuftrious Ornaments, and Supports, of the Proteftant Religion in Germany: and I have entered into fo minute a detail of thofe Circumftances, becaufe, as I think, they give us jufter Notions of his Character, and better represent his Temper and Frame of Mind, than any other kind of Defcription. For the Sequel of the Story, I muft refer the Reader to the Account wrote by himfelf, and published in Englifh by the Title of Pietas Hallenfis. It will be feen there, how in a fhort time, without any other Fund than his Faith in Providence, and affifted only by fuch feemingly accidental Contributions as thofe abovementioned, he raifed a Building which coft five thoufand Pounds, and peopled it with above two hundred Poor: this was in the Year 1702. four Years

The P R E F A C E. xxxiii

Years after, the State of the Hospital was as follows.

TEN Schools, in which 988 Children were instructed by 72 Masters. The Number of Persons lodg'd and subsisted in the Hospital was 360; and 84 poor Students of the University had their Diet there. Eight poor Widows were maintained, with a Chaplain, and Maid-Servant: and Provision also was made for the Relief of casual Poor.

As the Number of Children in these Schools has been continually increasing, ever since the Year 1702, so likewise has the Number of their Masters and Teachers. At the Conclusion of the Year 1731, the Number of the Scholars and Children in the several Schools of the Orphan-House, amounted to Two thousand three hundred; and the Number of Students who instructed them, to One hundred and sixty.

Now this Argument comprises fifteen important Points.

2. That Christ sends not Men to any other, but calls them to Himself.
3. That the Apostles have required the same Faith in Christ our Lord.
4. That this whole Faith consists of such Particulars, as are not to be attributed to any created Being.
5. That Faith is to be given to Christ, not as a Minister, but as the Lord of our Salvation.
6. That we are commanded to live and die to Christ, is likewise an Evidence of his Divinity.

12. A farther Confirmation hereof is, that we are to serve Christ in Righteousness, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost.

13. That the Honour of religious Worship to be performed to Christ, is also an Attestation of his Divine Glory.

Christus Sacræ Scripturæ Nucleus:

OR,

CHRIST the Sum and Substance of all the HOLY SCRIPTURES, &c.

S E C T. I.

Who is the Sum and Substance of the whole Sacred Writings.

THAT Christ is the Sum and Substance of all the Holy Scriptures, all do indeed confess;
but there are few who understand the Meaning of these Words; fewer labour much to find out this Substance, and know in what manner to make their Inquiry; the fewest of all,
are those who advance so far in it, as truly to eat of this Kernel, or Substance, and use it for the Nourishment and Support of their inward Man.

S E C T. II.

What our Duty is in this important Affair.

S I N C E therefore This is of all others our greatest Concern, 'tis fit the Reader of the Holy Scriptures should in the first Place be admonished, not to stick in the Rind of their external History, Letter, and Words; but that he ought to seek Christ himself, as the Kernel (or Substance) of the Holy Scriptures, and to seek Him in such a manner that he may certainly find Him, and satisfy his Soul with Him.

S E C T. III.

With what Mind, and with what Intention, this Knowledge is to be sought.

T H I S is (אמת כטחוח ובהתם חכמה) Truth in the inward Parts, and Wisdom in the hidden Part *, which is not acquired by loading the Memory only with the various Interpretations and Opinions of learned Men, nor the most acute Researches of

of a natural Understanding: Nor does it consist in bare Knowledge; but is rather first founded in the most ardent Desire, and faithful sollicitude of rescuing one's Soul from Destruction. It creates a Change of the Heart into the divine Nature and † Temper; and declares its high and heavenly Dignity by its divine Light, Operation, and real Virtue and Efficacy; great Peace, continual Joy, purity of Heart, sweet Union with God, Communion in and with God, and the spiritual and heavenly Exercise of Love; (whereby whatsoever Good redounds to the Soul from God, diffuses itself to all others without Distinction) by all these, I say, it declares its high and divine Dignity.

S E C T. IV.

That this Wisdom is of the highest Estimation.

THIS Wisdom far surpasseth all human Wisdom; as Life is preferable to Death, Light to Darknes, Substance to a Shadow. For in this Wisdom alone is Truth, Light, and Life. The most celebrated Arts of all learned Men, compar'd with This, are Smoak. Hence the Scripture faith, * Let not the wise Man glory in his Wisdom.

4 Christ the Sum and Substance

S E C T. V.

In what School this Wisdom is to be learned.

THIS Wisdom is learnt in the School of the Holy Spirit. Unless God himself perform the Office of a Teacher, not even the first Foundation of it can be laid. For Christ says, † No Man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me draw him: And again, it is written in the Prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every Man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me.

S E C T. VI.

In this School no one perfectly learns all Things.

I N this School, no Mortal perfectly and sufficiently learns all Things: But 'tis a Thing very pleasing to God, when we recite to one another what we have learned, as diligent and attentive Scholars. Since he is so merciful as to vouchsafe his Blessing to this Exercise, and to edify and strengthen strengthen one Person by another, tho' it be not lawful for any Man to call himself Master: * for One is our Master.

He that has learned any thing in this School, tho' it be never so small, ought not altogether to conceal it.

AS to my self, I reckon I am but a Novice, and one of the least Disciples in this School; and that I have tasted but some little Drop of this vast Ocean of Wisdom, which is in Jesus Christ, and have greater Cause than † Job, to say; How little a Portion (שמץ רבך) have we heard of him: Yet, with Simplicity of Mind, I adventure to rehearse my Lesson, and impart to others according to my Knowledge, as far as it can be done, in few Words, in what manner they ought to seek, find, and taste Christ, as the Kernel (or Sum and Substance) of the Holy Scriptures; and to nourish, satiate, and sustain their Soul with him, unto Eternal Life.

* Matt. xxiii. 10.

† Job xxvi. 14.

6 Christ the Sum and Substance

S E C T. VIII.

Who must supply Strength for performing this Part.

MAY God, through his infinite Grace and Mercy, bless my Endeavours, and by them bring many into the Way, by which they may have Life, and that they may have it more abundantly *.

S E C T. IX.

What ought to be our Scope in reading the Holy Scriptures.

WHOSOEVER therefore thou art that desirest to come to the true Knowledge of Christ, who is the Sum and Substance of the Holy Scriptures, and to be made a Partaker of him, let it be recommended to you above all Things, to consider for what Reason you do read the Holy Scriptures; or what End you propose to your self in designing to peruse the whole sacred Writings; what it is you seek or look for by it; for every thing is to be referred to its true and full Scope or Intention; otherwise the true and full Fruit thereof cannot be expected. In reading the Holy

* John x. 10.

ly Scriptures, the whole Intention of the Mind must be levelled at this, and no other Scope whatever, That (1) we may come to Christ, and (2) by Christ, to eternal Salvation *.

S E C T. X.

The Means of attaining to this End.

THAT you may well and happily attain this End, by Means agreeable to the Divine Ordinance, and approved of God, you must not set about it, trusting in your own Strength, Wisdom, and Understanding; or imagine, that by diligent Reading, Meditation and Enquiry, you will be able to search it out; or that then you have compassed your End, when you have acquired some external Knowledge of Christ, his Person, his Natures, Offices, States, and all the Degrees of his Exaltation and Exaltation. But you must humble your self before God, like a little Child, and begin all your reading of the Holy Scriptures, with a submissive Acknowledgment of your own Insufficiency, and with serious and most ardent Prayers and Sighs to God; nor ought you ever to desist from such continual Humiliation of your self, though having made some Progress

* 2 Tim. iii. 15. Acts x. 43. John xx. 31.

gress therein, you may find great Knowledge in the Holy Scriptures. But if you became and remained truly humble, and innocent, like a very little Child hanging at his Mother's Breasts, surely the pure Milk of the Gospel would, without Hindrance, flow into you, and would replenish your Heart, more than it might your Memory. Concerning this Wisdom of Babes, See Matt. xi. v. 25, 26, 27.

S E C T. XI.

That this is not to be obtained by Prayers alone, but that Meditation is also requisite.

NEVERTHELESS the Things now spoken, are not to be so understood, as if you were not to read the Holy Scriptures, nor to meditate on what you read. Meditation is of admirable Use, being tinged, as it were, with Prayer, and exercised by the guidance of the Holy Spirit. By Degrees you will learn, howsoever difficult it may seem at first; 1. To attend to the genuine Scope of any entire Text. 2. To weigh rightly the Antecedents and the Consequents. 3. To consider distinctly the Circumstances, viz. Who? What? Where? By what Assistance? Why? How? When? 4. To compare one Sentence with another, ther, the Old, with the New Testament, Moses with the Prophets and the Psalms, &c. to explain some Things by others, the difficult Texts by the more easy ones. 5. To receive the Words of the Men of God, in a Divine Sense, with which they were imbued, (which they have declared more clearly and fully in some Places than in others) not according to their external Sound, nor in a carnal Sense, as the World is accustomed to do. 6. To collect one Truth out of another. And 7. To contemplate with Pleasure, the sweet Harmony and Connexion of Divine Truths; as there is a Handle given in what follows to such salutary Meditations.

S E C T. XII.

What Means may be used, if Meditation does not succeed according to our Wish.

NOR ought you to be too anxious when you begin your Meditations on the Holy Scriptures; for if you join ardent Prayers and a holy Desire of knowing Christ, to your reading of them, the matter will thereupon grow better, you will unawares be conducted by God himself into the most pleasant and sweet Meditation of his eternal Truth, and he will by little

and little, discover to you the inexhausted Profundities and Treasures of Wisdom and Knowledge, that are hid in Christ Jesus *. And for this purpose, a Treatise published by me, and called, A short and clear Instruction for the better Reading the Holy Scriptures with Edification, may be of Service to you. And also my Introduction to the Reading the Holy Scriptures, published in the German Tongue †.

S E C T. XIII.

Also what to be done, if many Places seem difficult and obscure.

N O R are you to wonder, if at first in reading the Holy Scriptures, many things seem to you obscure, and less intelligible, and that it is necessary for you to read the same Chapters again and again, before you find any thing that can, in your own Opinion, assist you in the Knowledge of Christ. Labour not anxiously to understand things that are too difficult for you, but willingly let them pass, until you have your Senses more exercised in the Divine Mysteries. In the mean

* Col. ii. 3. † In this Introduction, there is succinctly shewn the Scope of the Books of the New Testament, and lately published in Latin, with the Scope of the Books of the Old Testament.

mean time you will always discover something that may lead you forwards to the Knowledge of Christ. The few Things which you find to be easy, you may prudently turn to your own Benefit, and may use them to the establishing and strengthening your self in the Love of Christ: Thus difficult Places will, by degrees, become obvious to you. If any Fruit (as says the Reverend Dr. Spener on this Subject, in his Book of the Doctrine of Faith, p. 495.) hang higher than you can reach, you must be content to feed on that which is lower. Perhaps God also keeps secret in your Heart, this or that Passage, which at present you do not perceive or understand, but will afterwards be made intelligible to you, if, like Mary, * you diligently ponder it in your Heart; while you faithfully obey all the profitable Counsel that is given you, the Divine Light will quickly shine forth unto you, and Christ, as the Sum of the Holy Scripture, will disperse the thick Cloud that is on your Mind, and will illustrate all its Chapters, Verses, and Words, that you may discover That in them, which you could not before by any means be perswaded of.

* John xiii. 7.

S E C T. XIV.

By what Degrees an Entrance is made to the Reading of the Holy Scriptures.

BUT that you may have the safest and surest Instruction, how you are to proceed by Degrees, and so the fittest and best Help may be administered to your Weakness, and to your Senses, as yet but little exercised in the Word of God; it is meet, if you desire to seek rightly, and to find Christ in the Holy Scriptures, that you begin with such Things as are most clear and easy in this Point. Now the New Testament, in what it teaches concerning Christ the Saviour of the World, is much more explicit than the old, nay, without Controversy, it is the true Key of the Old Testament; while, 1. He is therein made present to us, who is promised in the Old Testament, and there figured by Types and Shadows; and 2. Whilst the Evangelists and Apostles do hardly any thing else, but (as B. Luther speaks) compel and send us to the Old Testament in Search of Christ. Here then it is supposed, that the whole Bible, or all the Writings of the Old and New Testament, have been once at least read over, and the Course of Things, described in both Testaments, summarily understood by this Perusal; but afterwards, when the more solid, and more proper Knowledge of Divine Truth comes to be difficult by a nicer and fuller Enquiry, from the Foundation now laid, the most convenient Method for understanding the Doctrine, is chiefly, and in the first Place, to begin with the Writings of the New Testament, to meditate upon them with the greatest Industry, and to render them familiar to you.

S E C T. XV.

That great Benefit may be hoped for from comparing the Testimonies of the Prophets, with those of Christ and his Apostles.

I N the reading of the New Covenant, this ought to be always the chief, nay, the only Desire of your Soul, that you may come to the saving and lively Knowledge of Jesus Christ. But that you may arrive at this, it is not only necessary, that you have your Mind and Heart piously and devoutly fixt on the Person, Words and Works, as also on the Passion of Christ, but that you diligently examine also the Words alledged

14 Christ the Sum and Substance

ledged in the New Testament out of the Old, as Testimonies concerning Christ; that you turn to them in the Book of the Old Testament; frequently read over the antecedent and following Texts in Moses, the Prophets, and the Psalms, where the cited Testimonies are adduced, and most humbly pray to God, and earnestly beseech him, that he would open your Understanding to perceive and know, how Christ and his Apostles did interpret the Old Testament. Which Pains if you shall not grudge to take, (since to a Mind desirous of the true Knowledge of Christ, it is rather true Pleasure and Joy, than Labour) you will unawares tread in the safest and most certain Way of coming to true Wisdom. For you will procure Christ himself and his Apostles, to be your Teachers and Instructors, and by them you will, like a Child, be brought into Discipline, you will be instructed, you will be, as it were, led by the Hand to know rightly, how you ought to seek and find Christ, as the Sum and Substance of all the Scriptures, for the quieting and saving of your Soul.

SECT.

S E C T. XVI.

That singular Profit may be expected from such Comparisons.

W H E N you have, for some time, frequented this School of Christ and of his Apostles, and being introduced by these Masters into the Old Testament, that is, Moses, the Prophets, and the Psalms, and shall have well learnt, like a diligent and attentive Scholar, what Places are chiefly alledged by them, for the Instruction and Conviction of Men, concerning the Person of the Messiah, his Office, and Benefits, that Jesus is he of whom Moses, and the Prophets have written, to wit, the Son of God, and the true Saviour of the World; then you ought to mark those Places for Fundamentals, or in them to lay a Foundation of a sure and saving Knowledge of Christ. Which Foundation being rightly laid in the School of Christ and his Apostles, you will, in a short time, better apprehend all their Discourses. For you will perceive, in their very Words, and usual Ways of speaking, that they every where have Respect to the Old Testament, and do, as it were, search into its inmost Vitals, through the Conduct of the Spirit of Wisdom, so that even one little Word (as Luther speaks) shall look through all the Old Testament.

S E C T. XVII.

That we ought to give strict Attention to all the Words of Christ and his Apostles.

WHEREFORE it is not only most necessary to lay very carefully the above-mentioned Foundation, from the Places quoted out of the Old Testament, by Christ and his Apostles, but you must accustom your self to attend to, and consider every Word which they have spoken, and examine diligently whence it is taken, and what particular Emphasis it hath; nay, you must continually accustom your self, by the Help of the Scriptures of the New Testament, to converse with Christ and his Apostles, as your best Friends, and by meditating on their Words and Discourses, to enter upon every Day, as it were a familiar Conference with them.

S E C T. XVIII.

That great Diligence is required in this Meditation on the Holy Scriptures.

AFTER this manner David hath treated the Words of the Law, as is to be be seen in the 119th Pfalm. Hence he could say, * Mine Eyes prevent the Night-watches, that I might meditate on thy Word. How much more does it behove us carefully to ponder the Words of the New Covenant, which declare unto us so great Salvation? and if God so blessed the Meditation of David, can we think he will deny us his Grace? Oh, that the Things we have spoken of, were performed with a Mind, humble, docile, and desirous of divine Grace, with the Blessing of God always earnestly implor'd! we should then be good Proficients; digging thus, we should penetrate deep, lay a firm Foundation, and acquire true Wisdom.

S E C T. XIX.

That we ought always to persevere in Diligence and Humility.

F O R he that watcheth for Wisdom, (ὁ ἀγρυπνῶν, whom the Study of Wisdom hardly suffers to sleep, but takes away his Rest) shall quickly be without Care †. But he that is contumacious and refractory, and behaves not himself in this School, with Lowliness and Humility, but quickly loaths the heavenly Manna of the Words of Christ, the Apostles, and Evangelists; that refuses to examine all Things with a calm Spirit, nor cares to proceed gradually, but presently assumes a haughty Spirit, as those learned Men, who are wise according to the Flesh, are wont to do, such an one will never arrive to any firmness and certainty, nor be made a Partaker of Christ, the very Substance of the Holy Scriptures, to the Delight of his Soul.

It behoves you therefore to observe well the Counsel that has been given you, if indeed you seriously desire to seek and so to find Christ in the Scriptures, that not by unprofitable Science, but by the lively Efficacy of a full and fruitful Knowledge, you may experience him as a true Preserver and Saviour of your Soul.

S E C T. XX.

After a diligent and frequent Perusal of the New Testament, Christ will be clearly discerned in the Old.

M WHEN you have thus rightly learnt to know the Key of the Old Testament, and are taught by Christ and his Apostles, how you ought to use this Key to Advantage; then, and not before, you will proceed in proper Order, to the Reading, Medi-

dition, and more accurate Consideration of the Old Testament; you take as it were a Key with you, as often as you go to the Old Testament; you devoutly compare the Old with the New, the Shadow with the Substance, the Types with the Antitype, Prophecies with their Completion. Thus you will understand for what Reason St. Augustin said, * The Old Testament has no true Relish, if Christ be not understood in it. On the contrary, you will be sensible there is much Joy, Comfort and Delight to be found in the Writings of the Old Testament, (especially in reading those Places which were before wearisome, and almost irksome to you) when you perceive Christ so sweetly depicted there.

S E C T. XXI.

That the Old Testament reflects Light upon the New.

T H E more you are exercised in meditating on the New, so much the easier and quicker will be your Progress in the Old Testament. And as before you were introduced into the Sense of the Old Testament, by Means of the New, so now

Moses, the Prophets, and the Psalms, will, in their Turn, assist you in acquiring so much a more solid and accurate Understanding of the New Testament. The perpetual Harmony and Agreement also between the New and the Old Testament, will cause in you a (πληροφορίαν) great Fullness of Faith, or will certainly very much confirm and encrease the Faith you have.

S E C T. XXII.

That this may be illustrated by Example.

S I N C E all Things are better conceived and understood by Example, than by bare Instruction, we will apply the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, for the Illustration of what we have said. For it cannot be denied, but that this particular Scripture is to be reckoned among the most admirable, and therefore is wont to be laid as a Foundation in all the Doctrine concerning Jesus Christ. Add to this, that it remits us very much to the Old Testament, and for the most part is esteemed hard to be understood. Indeed it is not my Intention at this Time, to lay before you the universal Scope of the Spirit in this Place, the Breadth, Length, Heighth and Depth of it, since this is neither in any

any Man's Power to perform, (because all the Riches of Divine Wisdom and Knowledge are hid in it) nor does the View of this plain Instruction require a Deduction of the Mysteries contained in it, which yet might be made through the Assistance of Divine Grace.

I N the mean time, since my Design is to render the Reader's Meditations on the Holy Scriptures more easy, and especially his Enquiries concerning Christ himself in them, it will be necessary to form divers Meditations from this Subject, viz. the Beginning of the Gospel of St. John, which will be nine.

S E C T. XXIII.

The Words of St. John are recited, on which the Meditations are framed.

H I S Words are these, ver. 1. In the Beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. 2. The same was in the Beginning with God. 3. All things were made by him, and without him was not any thing made, that was made. 4. In him was Life, and the Life was the Light of Men. 5. And the Light shineth in Darknes, and the Darknes comprehended it not. 6. There was a Man sent from God, whose Name was John. 7. The same came for a Witness, to bear Witness of the Light, that all Men through him might believe. 9. He was the true Light which lightneth every Man that cometh into the World. 10. He was in the World, and the World was made by him, and the World knew him not. 11. He came unto his own, and his own received him not. 12. But as many as received him, to them gave he Power to become the Sons of God, even to them that believe on his Name, 13. Which were born, not of Blood, nor of the Will of the Flesh; nor of the Will of Man, but of God. 14. And the Word was made Flesh, and dwelt among us (and we beheld his Glory, the Glory as of the only Begotten of the Father) full of Grace and Truth. 15. John bare Witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I spake, He that cometh after me, was before me (or was preferred before me) for he was before me. 16. And of his Fulness have we all received, and Grace for Grace. 17. For the Law was given by Moses, but Grace and Truth came by Jesus Christ. 18. No Man hath seen God at any Time, the only begotten Son, which is in the Bosom of the Father, he hath declared him.

Con-

Concerning these Words, now follows the first Meditation.

OF the Divine Simplicity which St. John uses in the Beginning of his Gospel.

S E C T. XXIV.

That these are not the sublime Words which St. Paul accounts as alien from the Divine Wisdom.

WHAT St. Paul writes, 1 Cor. ii. 1, 2, 4, 5. holds not good of him alone, but is the true Propriety of all the Apostles of the Lamb. I, Brethren, says he, when I came to you, came not with Excellency of Speech, or of Wisdom, declaring unto you the Testimony of God. For I determined not to know any thing among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified. And my Speech and my Preaching was not with enticing Words of Man's Wisdom, but in Demonstration of the Spirit, and of Power. That your Faith should not stand in the Wisdom of Men, but in the Power of God. If any one therefore think otherwise concerning this Beginning of St. John's Gospel, he knows not the Mind of St. John, who, lying in the Bosom of Jesus, perfectly learned the true Wisdom, and purest Simplicity, of Children. But that he may seem to use a sublime kind of Speech, is to be attributed partly to the Sublimity of the Things which he declares, and to the Efficacy and Illumination of the Holy Spirit, whereof he had been made Partaker; partly to the Perverseness of the (ψυχινῶ) natural Man, unable to judge truly of spiritual Things. The natural Man, when he hears of Simplicity, looks upon it as no better than Ignorance and Foolishness; whereas indeed the divine Simplicity infinitely surpasses the greatest Wisdom of Men. In this Simplicity, the spiritual Man considers only the Matter itself, and is no way solicitous about the Loftiness of Words, and the artificial Ornaments of Speech, which the eloquent of the World are wont to demand. He seeks a certain and firm Foundation of Wisdom, in which he may find true Rest for his Soul; which Foundation when he has obtained, and rests securely upon it, the most simple and common Words, whereby a thing is so express'd, as to be best understood by all, are to him the most grateful and agreeable. Thus ought we to think of the Beginning of St. John's Gospel. Here you have not the exalted Words of Man's Wisdom, nor a pompous and cla-

elaborate Stile, but the greatest and clearest Simplicity, which derogates not at all from the Majesty and Sublimeness of the things themselves; nay, the more sublime the things are which he proposes, the more simple were the Words which he chose to express them by. For St. John was a Teacher of the universal Church, who ought so to order his Ministry for the Interest of the Gospel, that simple and ignorant Men, as well as the acute and intelligent, might enjoy the Benefit of it. And indeed it is the just Appointment of God, that to this very Day the Learned and the Wise should admire the Wisdom of those, who were with Jesus, being ignorant and unlearned Men; as heretofore the Rulers and Elders, and Scribes, and Annas the High Priest, and Caiphas, and as many as were of the Kindred of the High Priest, seeing the Boldness of Peter and John, and perceiving that they were unlearned and ignorant Men, marvelled at them*. Thus those Things are understood to be true which are written: I will destroy the Wisdom of the Wise, and will bring to nothing the Understanding of the Prudent. Where is the Wise? Where is the Scribe? Where is the Disputer of this World?
Hath

26 Christ the Sum and Substance

*Hath not God made foolish the Wisdom of this World ?

S E C T. XXV.

That great Simplicity may be observed in St. John's Words.

I F we consider the very Words of St. John, what I pray do we find in them of the Sublime? Nay, does he utter a single Word, wherein there is not the greatest Simplicity? He speaks of Christ the Son of God, he calls him the Word, attests he was in the Beginning, and that he was with God, his most beloved Father, before the World was made. And since he so attributes Eternity to him, as a Divine Property, and nevertheless affirms of him that he was with God; from whence perhaps it might be collected, that this would clash with the Unity of God, he presently obviates this sinister Interpretation of his Words, by subjoining, that this Word was God himself, and of the same Essence with him from the Beginning. Nay, his manner of Speech was so very pure and genuine, that he repeats what the Wise of this World may not think needful to be repeated: The same, viz. (this Word) saith he, was in the Beginning

* 1 Cor. i. 19, 20. Isaiab xxix. 14. ch. xxxiii. 13.

ning with God. However, this Repetition is not unnecessary. For St. *John thoroughly understood how great Majesty lay hid in this eternal and incomprehensible Union of the Essence and Will of the Father and the Son; and since by the illumination of the Holy Spirit, he had before his Eyes the Glory which the Son had with the Father before the World was. He thus expresses the same thing in the most plain and natural Words: This Word was in the Beginning with God. There cannot possibly be more vulgar, plain, and simple Words than these are; but the things contained and involved in them cannot be considered with Admiration, but by a meek and calm Spirit, which the Holy Ghost hath vouchsafed to illuminate; but by reason of their Profoundness, can never be (thoroughly) understood by any mortal Man. Now let any one also consider the other Words of St. John, provided he bring with him an honest Mind, he cannot well judge otherwise of them, but that they are all plain and perspicuous; for the understanding of which, no one stands in need of the Arts of the learned Men of this World, but 'tis necessary only that a Man should receive these Things so clearly and plainly laid before his Eyes, with Faith and a sincere Mind, that he seek seek for Joy and Comfort from them, and lovingly and thankfully in Spirit and Truth join himself with the most kind and most loving Son of God, as with eternal Life, and the true Light, who did therefore unite himself with Humanity, that he might bring Men into the everlasting and most blessed Fellowship of an incorruptible Life, and of his glorious Light, that they might receive from his Fulness, Grace for Grace. A Concern, which, to the Grief of all good People, the learned Men of the World do exceedingly neglect, when they strain all the Strength only of their natural Wit, (yet effect nothing by it) to attain to the true Sense of St. John's Words. It is a singular Mercy of God, if they do not swerve even from the external Truth, so evident before their Eyes, but maintain from thence the Eternal Divinity, and the true Humanity of Christ, together with the Benefits obtained for us by his Incarnation. For where they act thus, they do not at least deprive others of the only Foundation of their Safety: but they themselves will reap no Benefit therefrom, but will one Day find, by sad Experience, that their Darkness did not comprehend the Light, because they would not obey him, who would have called them out of Darkness into his marvellous Light *. I am

* 1 Pet. ii. 9.

am that Light of the World, says the eternal Word of God; *He that followeth me, shall not walk in Darkneſs, but ſhall have the Light of Life. Wherefore, to the attaining this Light of Life, diligent Search, acute Diſputation, literal Science, and external Erudition, avail nothing; but 'tis neceſſary that you follow the Light of the World (Jeſus Chriſt) with Simplicity of Mind.

What is to be thought of too many learned Men, who often wreſt theſe Words (of St. John) from their natural Simplicity, to a manifeſtly wrong Signification.

I T is meet we ſhould tremble for Fear, and ſtand amazed, when we behold the moſt grievous Judgments of God, viz. How he confounds the Underſtanding of the Learned of this World, whiſt many Perſons, not indeed at all deſtitute of a good natural Sagacity and Underſtanding, are ſo offended at the great Simplicity of the Holy Scriptures, that they have found out divers ways of inverting the Senſe of clear Words, and uſe their utmoſt Endeavours to deny their plain Meaning, draw them to a foreign Sense, or accommodate them to the Taſt of their corrupt Reason, altho' the Words themselves be ſo manifeſtly perſpicuous, as even to glare in their Eyes. The Example of thoſe Men, who look upon theſe Words of St. John as divinely inspir'd, and nevertheless impugn the eternal Divinity and Majesty of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, ought to render us cautious and circumſpect, that we do not pervert the Holy Writings to our own Deſtruction; on the contrary, that we ſtrive with the greater Earneſtneſs to receive the plain Truths of God with plain and honeſt Hearts, and earneſtly pray to him for the true Senſe thereof, that in his Light we may ſee Light.

That there are known Examples of Rationaliſts having been effectually ſtruck and convinced by this Simplicity of the Words of St. John.

SOMETIMES the great Simplicity of Words breaks through all the Bars and Obſtacles of corrupt Reason, and earthly Wiſdom, ſo that it takes away from Men all Contradictions, or at leaſt holds it as it

it were down, by a superior Force. Thus Theophilus Spizelius, in his Scrutiny of Atheism, has recorded of a certain * Man fallen into Atheism, or at least an idle Neglect and Contempt of a Deity; that upon reading only the former Words of St. John's Gospel, which he light upon by Chance, or rather by the merciful Guidance of God's Providence, reflected with great Compunction on the miserable and dan-

* This was Franciscus Junius, a most noted Divine among the Reformed, who (in his Life, premised before his Theological Works printed at Geneva, 1705, in fol. p. 10.) relates at large, that when he was a young Man, he fell under a most grievous Calamity, viz. Atheism, by the Boldness of others, and his own Imprudence, and was so far gone in it, that his Mind was become hardened and insensible. But how he got out of it, he tells us p. 11. in these Words: I happened to open that Book called the New Testament, which was freely offered to the World from God: The Thing that immediately presented itself to my View, whilst I was busied about another Matter, was that most august Chapter of St. John the Evangelist and Apostle: In the Beginning was the Word, &c. I read part of the Chapter, and, during the Time, was so inwardly agitated and affected, as presently to perceive, that the Divinity of the Argument, and the Majesty and Authority of the Writing, did far excel all the lofty Strains of human Eloquence; my Body trembled, my Mind was astonished, and all that Day I was so disquieted, that I hardly knew what I was. O Lord my God, Thou didst remember me, according to thy infinite Mercy, and didst receive the lost Sheep into thy Flock. From that time, when it had thus pleased God, by the Influence of his Holy Spirit, to strike so powerfully upon me, I began to read and treat other Subjects with greater Coldness and Indifference, but to think oftner, and to be more earnestly conversant about pious Matters. Compare herewith the History of Atheism, written by Mr. Jenkin Thomas Philipps, cap. xi. §. 2. where these Words of Junius are also alledged.

32 Christ the Sum and Substance

dangerous Condition of his Soul, and turned himself truly to the eternal and living God. Glory be to the infinite (Φιλανθρωπία) or Love of God our Saviour, who leaves not himself unattested, even to those who seem most alienated from him.

AND I may add, that this Relation of Junius is also copiously recited, in an excellent and useful Book of the late pious and learned Dr. Josiah Woodward, called Fair Warnings to a careless World, very worthy to be read by all that have any Curiosity to know the Sentiments of great Men, relating to Things of the greatest Importance.

S E C T. XXVIII.

That the Mind of St. John was so humble and honest, that we may from thence conclude his Words proceeded from the greatest Simplicity.

BUT if any would know the great Humility, the sweet Simplicity, and Child-like undisguised Sincerity, in the Words of St. John, it is necessary that he implóre and receive God's Grace and Mercy, that he may look into the submissive, humble and

and gentle Mind of the Disciple of our Lord, and from thence judge of his whole Discourse. Surely the Breast of this Disciple was so replenished with the unfeigned Love of the Son of God, that his Spirit seemed intent on nothing else, than how he should most deeply imprint on his Mind, the Glory, the Majesty, and the Fulness of Divine Grace and Truth, that was in the only begotten Son from his Father; and by the Benefit of this most blessed Knowledge, should be more and more united to him. Therefore as this most ardent Love, which St. John had for him, who had *loved him from the Beginning unto the End, led him into a more profound Contemplation of his Glory, and caused him to forget, as it were, every thing else, for the dear Love he bore to him alone; so he had nothing nearer, nothing dearer to him, than how he should declare his Glory unto all Mankind. How therefore could this most flagrant Love of his towards our Saviour, permit him to use any sublime Words (above our Capacity) or render the Thing itself difficult and obscure? But this Love rather suggested to him the Use of the plainest, and most intelligible Words, that so every one might understand him; and unless Men would peevishly resist the Operation of the Holy Spirit, they might obtain the same most precious Faith, for the Deliverance of their Souls from the Kingdom of Darkneſs, and the Tranſlation of them into the Kingdom of the Son of God.

Why this Simplicity of St. John is a little more largely propoſed to Conſideration.

BUT we have therefore entred upon this Meditation concerning the Simplicity of St. John's Words, becauſe Things are almoſt come to that paſs, that learned as well as unlearned Men, do as it were ſtartle at them, and take them for ſublime Words, which are hard to be underſtood, and clouded with ſuch Obſcurity and Darkneſs, that only the moſt excellent and moſt ſubtle Wits ſhould be exerciſed in the Interpretation of them. Certainly this Error carries with it no ſmall Detriment, and therefore nothing is more requiſite, than that we ſhould recommend to humble Minds the great Simplicity of the Divine Word, (tho' there is ſuch a Veil over the Eyes of the Learned, that they will not acknowledge it.) Ho! * cries Wiſ-

Wherefore do ye spend Money for that which is not Bread? and your Labour for that which satisfieth not? Harken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your Soul delight itself in Fatness. Incline your Ear, and come unto me, hear and your Soul shall live, and I will make an everlasting Covenant with you, even the sure Mercies of David.

A Prayer to Christ for the true Knowledge of the Simplicity and Perspicuity of the Holy Scriptures.

O Lord, open Thou our Eyes, that we may discern the most pure Simplicity of thy Word, lest, whilst vainly boasting of its Clearness, we may, in reality, find it cloudy and obscure. Grant that we may rightly attend to thy Word, as to a Light shining in a dark Place, (where not thy Word, but the Place is dark) yea, do Thou Thyself shine in our Hearts, shine in them as the true Day, arise in us like the Morning

ning Star, that we may, in thy Light, see the serene Light of thy Words, which are Spirit and Life. Do Thou incline our Ears to hear, and take away the Veil from our Hearts, that we may, like Thine own little Sheep, hear Thy Voice, and the Voice of Thy Servants; and may follow Thee. Destroy all the Arts of Men, which pervert Thy Word, and hinder us from coming to a clearer Knowledge of Thee. But restore the Simplicity of Thy old faithful Servants, who did with great Humility of Mind acknowledge the Wisdom of God, hidden in a Mystery; and did therein, with so strong and firm a Faith, receive Thee as the Lord of Glory, that they esteemed it matter of great Joy, when they had an Opportunity of glorifying Thee by their Death. Grant, O sweetest Saviour, that we also may be so taught of God, to come unto Thee, (which is the one only and true Knowledge) that we may rightly and savingly understand Thy Word.

The Second Meditation.

I N which the Beginning of St. John's Gospel is compared with the Beginning of the Book of Genesis.

S E C T. XXXI.

That St. John, in the Beginning of his Gospel, doth refer to the Beginning of Genesis.

P R A Y what can be more evident than that St. John, in the Beginning of his Gospel, had his whole Mind intent upon the Beginning of the first Book of Moses? Moses, in describing Eternity, when nothing was yet made, and Time was not begun, said, In the Beginning. St. John, in like manner, lays hold of this Word, and begins his Gospel with it; as if he would say, what then was in the Beginning, of which Moses speaks? In the Beginning, says he, was the Word. For when there was nothing as yet made, to whom, or with whom God could speak, it is immediately said: And God said; wherefore as Moses places the word, said, next to God, (as a word which is in the Mind, is nearest to the Man) so St. John

38 Christ the Sum and Substance

likewise says, the Word was with God, ver. 1. But since Man (such is the Blindness of his Mind) knows nothing but of the human and imperfect word, and therefore easily forms such an Idea to himself concerning the Word of God, as he does, concerning the word of a Man; therefore St. John interprets the Words of Moses, saying, that Word was God, that is, you must not think either that this Word was not God, or that there must needs be two Gods; for that Word was of the same Essence with God, and so was itself in the Beginning, and from all Eternity, by an indissoluble Essence, with God. Moreover, as Moses also testifies through that whole Chapter, that all Things were created by the π̄ dicere, or Word of God, so John also speaks, in like manner: All Things were made by him, and without him was not any thing made that was made. And as Moses said, And the Spirit of God moved upon the Face of the Waters, so the Spirit in St. John testifies, that this enlivening and fertilising Motion or Incubation of the Divine Spirit, or all Life and universal Origin of Life, is in the Word; as Moses also affirms, that all created living Things were produced by the π̄ dicere, or Word of God. When Moses speaks of the Light, which was made by God's saying, And that God saw this Light was good*; St. John testifies that the true Light, and the Origin of all Light, is no other but that essential Word of God, with whom, if that created Light be compared, it will be only a Shadow, an outward Figure and Representation. When Moses says, the Earth was without Form and void, and Darknes was upon the Face of the Deep: but that God created the Light, and divided the Light from the Darknes; calling the Light Day, and the Darknes Night: St. John writes thus, The Light shineth in Darknes, but the Darknes comprehended it not, even as the Night does not comprehend the Day. And because St. John's Concern was so much about the new Creation, whose Image and Figure the first Creation was, he had before his Eyes the 7th verse of the 2^d chap. of Gen. where it is said, The Lord God breathed into Man's Nostrils the Breath of Life, and Man became a living Soul. Therefore saith St. John, In the Word was Life, and the Life was the Light of Men. That was the true Light which lighteth every Man that cometh into the World. From these few Things it may be seen, That the same Word of God, which spake by Moses, does likewise interpret Moses by St. John.

was

by

* Let there be Light.

40 Christ the Sum and Substance

by this short comparing of Moses and St. John, the whole is far from being unfolded; but these Collations comprise a great deal more; for the Words are plain, and agree so exactly, that every one is able to see and understand they do so; but the Mysteries lying hid in them, are profound, nor can they be throughly exhausted.

S E C T. XXXII.

A Prayer to be joined with this comparing of Moses and John.

GRANT to us, O Lord Jesus, most mercifully that same Spirit of Thine, which equally spake and used the same Language in the Old and New Testament; may it be with us, and abide with us for ever, that by this divine Aid, we may attain the true Sense of thy Word.
Amen.

B. John Arndius (with many others) has compared with the Words of St. John;
after this manner, as St. John says : In the Beginning was the Word : so the Wis- dom of God says : The Lord possessed me in the Beginning of his Way. I was set up from everlasting, from the Beginning, or when there were no Fountains abounding with Water, before the Mountains were settled, when he established the Clouds above. 3. As St. John says, All Things were made by him: so says the Wisdom of God: When he laid the Foundations of the Earth, then I was the Framer thereof with him. 4. As St. John says: In him was Life: so here Wisdom says: He that findeth me, findeth Life. 5. As St. John says: The Word was made Flesh, and dwelt among us: so here says the Wisdom of God: I rejoiced in the habitable Part of the Earth, and my Delights were with the Sons of Men. 6. Again, As St. John says: And we beheld his Glory, the Glory, I say, as of the only Begotten of the Father: so here says the Wisdom of God: He that findeth me, shall obtain Favour of the Lord. 7. He whom Solomon calls, the eternal Wisdom, St. John calls the eternal Word of the Father; for the Word, by which all Things were made, is the eternal Wisdom of God, and eternal Wisdom is the Word: and both speak with one Mouth and Spirit, and most sweetly and mutually confer together, as Psalm lxxxv. testifies, that Kindness and Faith are met together, that is, Truth and Mercy. For Truth here meets with Mercy, viz. the Truth of the Promises of the Old Testament, meets with Mercy, or that Mercy, which which God has manifested to us by the Incarnation of his Son; both do, as it were, mutually meet in Christ; therefore St. John declares, that Christ is full of Grace and Truth.

S E C T. XXXIV.

Other Places of Scripture tending to illustrate this Matter.

BESIDES this remarkable Place itself, every one of St. John's Words might be easily compared with peculiar Places of the Holy Scriptures, and illustrated from them. Like as St. John saith: In the Beginning [was the Word] so Micah saith, chap. vi. ver. 2. whose goings forth have been from of old [from the Beginning] from everlasting. Isaiab thus introduces him, chap. xliv. ver. 6. Thus saith the Lord, the King of Israel, and his Redeemer, the Lord of Hosts, I am the first, and I am the last, and besides me there is no God; which Words may also be compared with Isaiab xli. 14. chap. xlviii. 12. Rev. i. 17. chap. xxii. 13. and Psalms cii. ver. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28. Thus it is spoken of him; I said, O my God, take me not away in the midst of my Days: thy Years are throughout all Generations. Of old hast thou laid the Foundation of the Earth: and the Heavens are the Work of thy Hands. They shall perish, but thou shalt endure: yea, all of them shall wax old like a Garment; as a Vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall be changed. But thou art the same, and thy Years shall have no End. The Children of thy Servants shall continue, and their Seed shall be established before thee. With which Words may likewise be compared Heb. i. 11, 12. In which Place, not only the Eternity of the Son of God, but also the Omnipotence, ascribed to him from the Creation of Heaven and Earth, are both confirmed and clearly explain'd; which Things St. John also says: All things were made by him, and without him was not any thing made that was made. And further, He was in the World, and the World was made by him; which St. Paul very emphatically and fully thus expresses: Who is the Image of the invisible God, the First-born of every Creature. For by him were all things created that are in Heaven, and that are in Earth, visible and invisible, whether they be Thrones, or Dominions, or Principalities, or Powers; all Things were created by him, and for him. And he is before all Things, and by him all Things consist *. When the Son of God is by St. John
the

* Col. i. 15, 16, 17.

John called the Word, it is consonant to Pſalm xxxiii. 6. By the Word of the Lord were the Heavens made; and all the Hoſt of them by the Breath of his Mouth. With which Place may alſo be compared 1 John i. 1. v. 7. Apoc. i. 2. chap. xix. 13. Heb. iv. 12, 13. In the Epift. to the Heb. chap. i. 3. he is ſtilled, The expreſs Image of his Perſon, (τὴν ὑποστάſιν) in the ſame Senſe wherein the Word of God is here taken. But he is alſo therefore called the Word of God, becauſe all Revelation is made in and by the Son. Hereto belong the Words of Hoſea, chap. xii. 10. ſay- in which Chriſt, the Angel, with whom Jacob acted as a Prince, who is the Lord God of Hoſts, the Lord is his Memorial, ver. 5. ſaith, I have ſpoken by the Prophets, and I have multiplied Viſions, and uſed Similitudes.

When he is called by St. John, chap. i. 18. ὁ ὢν, which is [in the Boſom of the Father;] that was, ver. 1, 2, 9, 10. and that cometh, ver. 9. (which is to be referred to the antecedent Word Light.) All theſe Things are comprehended in Apoc. i. ver. 4, 8. where it is ſaid: Who is, and who was, and who is to come. When St. John ſays: In him was Life, and the Life was the Light of Men; in like manner, ner, Psalm xxxvi. 9. Life and Light are joined together; with thee is the Fountain of Life, in thy Light shall we see Light. Who is that Fountain or Origin of Life? And wherefore is this Origin of Life said to be with God? Is it not the Word, which is with God, and which is the Life, so indeed, as that Life is the Light of Men? therefore David said, In thy Light we see Light. Thus likewise in other Places he joins together Light and Life, and from thence fetches most effectual and greatest Comfort. *The * Lord is my Light and my Salvation, whom shall I fear? The Lord is the Strength of my Life, of whom shall I be afraid?* Our Saviour himself joins them both together: † I am the Light of the World; he that followeth me, shall not walk in Darkness, but shall have the Light of Life. Moreover our Saviour is said to be the Life and the Light †. And that we may understand, what the faithful Children of God in the Jewish Church have observed, that the Prophets prophesied of a certain, singular, and eminent Light, which was more than a barely illuminated Man, (tho' such an illuminated Man also is usually called Light, because the Divine Light is in him, and others still immersed in the Darkness of Sinners, are enlightened by Means of that Light) St. John stiles him not merely Light, but with a peculiar Emphasis, the Light of Men, that is, with which no other Light can be compared, and which diffuses its Splendor over all Mankind; nay, he here makes mention of that very Man, who he knew was called by Christ himself, a burning and a shining Light *. For altho' John the Baptist was in no wise a false, but altogether a true Light, forasmuch as being internally kindled by a divine Fire, he gave forth a Lustre truly divine; yet in this Place, he utterly (as it were) rejects John the Baptist, and says, He was not that Light, but was sent, that he might bear Witness of that Light; as if he should say, altho' John was the greatest of those that are born of Women, and was so great a Minister of God, that from thence all Men took Occasion to esteem him for the Messiah or Christ; yet there is no Account at all to be made of that Light, when compared with Christ, since in this Place the Enquiry is of the Origin of all Light, essential Light, eternal Light, the Light of Life, from which John the Baptist received both his Light and Life. The Faithful are also called by Christ himself and his Apostles, the Light

*Light of the World; Light in the Lord†; Yea, shining as Lights in the World‡. Like Lights in the Firmament of Heaven, which God created the fourth Day, to give Light upon the Earth ||. But the Holy Scriptures call Christ the Sun, as Malachi  on this Subject prophesies; Unto you that fear my Name, shall the Sun of Righteousness arise, with Healing in his Wings. Therefore, to this Sun is ascribed all Illumination; as St. Paul †† thus summarily comprehends the Prophecies of the Prophets concerning this great Light: Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the Dead, and Christ shall give thee Light. To this Light, he ascribes his own, and the Illumination of others; which also overspread the Face of Moses †† with a typical Brightness: to which also are to be referred, what Job says, Ch. iv. 18. He gave Light to his Angels; (bath shined in their Hearts, 2 Cor. iv. 6.) otherwise, they are liable to be darkned, like the Moon, when it borrows not its Light from the Sun. Moreover, John testifies of Christ, that He came unto his own. If we compare This with the Old Testament, we shall easily see what is to be understood by his own; τα

idm. For the Lord says by Moses, * I will set my Tabernacle amongst you, (the Sons of Israel) and my Soul shall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my People. And in another Place † the Lord says, If ye will obey my Voice indeed, and keep my Covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar Treasure unto me, above all People: for all the Earth is mine. And ye shall be unto me a Kingdom of Priests, and an holy Nation. From this Comparison, it manifestly appears, who it was that spake to the Children of Israel at that time; and who called them his People, and his Propriety; and who He is, whose Voice they ought to obey ‡. That is, it appears that St. John knew by the Holy Spirit, that this was Christ, the Son of the blessed God; as he who made the whole World, and so had Dominion over all People: But when the World, in its Darkness, did not, and would not comprehend him, Darkness and Ignorance overspreading the Nations of the Earth; that he selected one People out of all the rest, the Children of Israel, to be his own peculiar People; to the End that Light should so shine and glitter among them, that other People also might come to this Light, and be made Partakers

kers of the Splendor of it. That therefore Moses and the Prophets bore witness of him, as of the true Light. Yea, that for this Reason, he at length came himself to this his peculiar People, that He might no longer speak to them by his Prophets, but offer his own Voice to be heard by Them, and try whether they would acknowledge him for that Person, whom their Fathers expected should come; and so by obeying his Voice truly, and not in Appearance only, (the same which Moses had inculcated upon Them *) They might become his People, his Peculium, and proper Sheep; to wit, the true Israel of God. When, † moreover, John testifies of the Son of God, that as many as received him, to them gave he Power to become the Sons of God. The Old Testament, in like manner, affirms this: For it is said in Isaiab, ‡ One shall say, I am the Lord's; and another shall call himself by the Name of Jacob: and another shall subscribe with his Hand, unto the Lord, and surname himself by the Name of Israel. titude, and to their Divine Original (even as Manna) is *described. To which Isaiab agrees, saying, † Shall I bring to the Birth, and not cause to bring forth, saith the Lord? Shall I cause to bring forth, and shut the Womb? saith thy God: Which Words afford Light also to the Divine Birth, spoken of John i. 14. where that Evangelist attests of the Word, that it dwelt among us; or, that by his taking of Flesh, He did as it were pitch a Tabernacle among us for himself. The same was denoted in the Old Testament, when it was thus said of the Tabernacle; ‡ Then a Cloud covered the Tent of the Congregation, and the Glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle. And Moses was not able to enter into the Tent of the Congregation, because the Cloud abode thereon, and the Glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle. And when the Cloud was taken up from over the Tabernacle, the Children of Israel went onward in all their Journeys: But if the Cloud were not taken up, then they journey'd not till the Day that it was taken up. For the Cloud of the Lord was upon the Tabernacle by Day, and Fire was on it by Night, in the sight of all the House of Israel, throughout all their Journeys. The || Children of Israel were were to pitch their Tents towards the East, the South, the West, and the North: But all these Tents of the Children of Israel were placed over against the Tent of the Congregation. But the Levites, Numb. viii. 6, &c. had their Tents round about the Tabernacle of Testimony, and the Lord inhabited the Tent of the Congregation in the midst of them, that he might sanctify them. The Words of Baruch * agree also with the Words of John; Afterward he [Wisdom] did shew himself upon Earth, and conversed with Men: With which Words compare the whole xxivth Chapter of Eccles. When John says, We beheld his Glory; this puts us well in mind of Moses's Prayer to the Lord, Exod. xxxiii. 18, 19. I beseech Thee, shew me thy Glory. To whom the Lord answers, I will make (כל טובי) all my Goodness pass before Thee; and I will proclaim the Name of the Lord before Thee. And Exod. xxxiv. 5, 6. this Word of the Lord was fulfilled; for the Lord descended in a Cloud, and stood with him there, and proclaimed the Name of the Lord. And the Lord (whom the Lord himself had called All his Goodness, which he had promised he would make to pass before Moses, chap. xxxiii. 19.) passed by before him, and proclaimed, The Lord, the Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in Goodness and Truth. To this Proclamation of the Lord, Moses boldly appealed, Numb. xiv. when the People had grievously offended God. And now, says he, ver. 17, 18. I beseech thee, let the Power of my Lord be great, according as thou hast spoken; saying, The Lord is long-suffering, and of great Mercy, forgiving Iniquity and Transgression, and by no means clearing the Guilty, visiting the Iniquity of the Fathers upon the Children; unto the third and fourth Generation. Pardon, I beseech thee (he adds, ver. 19. because he had acknowledged Mercy and Forgiveness of Sins in the Lord, as he had been taught by the Lord himself, who was manifested to him) the Iniquity of this People, according to the greatness of thy Mercy, and as thou hast forgiven this People from Egypt, even until now. The Lord also heard these Prayers made to him, in the Name of the Lord, (that is, Christ) saying; I have pardon'd according to thy Word, ver. 20. David, who endeavour'd to know from Moses the Lord and Christ, who, according to the Promise of God, should be one Time born a Man, of his Seed; did not pretermitt this Testimony, deliver'd by God concerning his Son: and rightly consider'd, that it was not so much* Moses,

* 2 Sam. vii. 1 Chron. xxviii.

Moses, as the Lord, who there spake: The Lord, says he, * made known his Ways to Moses, his Acts to the Children of Israel. The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to Anger, and plenteous in Mercy †. But as Moses, when the Lord made his Glory, that is Christ, to pass before his Face, did chiefly acknowledge his Grace and Truth, or his Faithfulness; so John also testifies, that himself, and the other Disciples and Believers, had seen the Glory of the Word Incarnate, as it were the Glory of the only begotten Son of the Father, full of Grace and Truth. And thus also David, by the Holy Spirit, perceived the Manifestation of the Son of God in the Flesh; wherefore he thus begins the lxxxixth Psalm: I will sing of the Mercies of the Lord for ever; with my Mouth will I make known thy Faithfulness to all Generations. For I have said, Mercy shall be built up for ever: thy Faithfulness shalt thou establish in the very Heavens. But that it may be understood, that the Psalmist speaks of no other but the Messiah, who was promised to him by the Lord; he presently subjoins a Divine Answer: I have made a Covenant with my Chosen; I have sworn unto David my Servant. Thy Seed will I establish for ever, and build up thy Throne to all Generations. Selah. And ver. 24. he reiterates the Mention of Truth and Grace; by which Words, the Glory of the Messiah is briefly comprehended. But my Faithfulness and my Mercy shall be with him, and in my Name shall his Horn be exalted. In the cxviith Psalm, David praises Christ, as the Consolation of all Nations, from the same Foundation of the Revelation made unto Moses: O praise the Lord, all ye Nations, praise him all ye People; for his merciful Kindness is great towards us, and the Truth of the Lord endureth for ever. Concerning this Grace and Truth, David in many other Places, and with him also the Prophets, sang. But when John says, The Law was given by Moses, but Grace and Truth came by Jesus Christ; he thereby remits us to Deut. xviii. where Moses brings to the Remembrance of the People of Israel, what they desired of the Lord their God in Horeb, in the Day of the Congregation, saying, Let me not hear again the Voice of the Lord my God; neither let me see this great Fire any more, that I die not. And he remits us to what the Lord answer'd to Moses: They have well spoken that which they have spoken. I will raise them up a Prophet from among their Brethren, like unto thee; and will put my Words in his Mouth, and he shall speak

Speak unto them all that I shall command him. These Words John explains to us, whilst he opposes, and testifies of Moses and Christ together; Moses, as indeed a great Prophet of God, delivering the Law to the Children of Israel; but such a Law, as was an intolerable Yoke unto Men intangled in Sin, and which, when it also threatned a Curse to the Violators of it, was to them a dreadful Voice; therefore God promised them another Prophet, in whom he would discover and make known his Love, Grace, Favour, and his eternal Faithfulness and Truth unto Men; that Men might be led to the Knowledge of his ineffable Love, and by the Benefit of this Knowledge, might be brought to the true Love of God and their Neighbour; which is the fulfilling of the Law. John calls Christ, the only begotten Son, who is in the Bosom of the Father; by this Appellation, he has a respect to Him, whom Solomon the King brings in speaking thus: Then * I was by Him, as one brought up with Him: and I was daily his Delight, rejoicing always before Him: as the Words properly found in the Hebrew; and as I observed before, when I compared them with the Words of John.

What Benefit may be hoped for from such Meditations and Comparisons.

ALL we have hitherto offer'd, in comparing the Words of St. John with other Places of Holy Writ, may be looked upon as a weak and faint Instruction, such as every one should make the first Subject of his Meditations on St. John's Words. For if the Reader will persist in the Way now chalk'd out to him, he will easily find himself to be led from one Scripture to another; and the Consideration of Divine Truths so perfectly agreeing together, will yield the more Pleasure and Delight, Certainty, Efficacy, and Conviction, the longer he shall persevere in such Meditation. Nevertheless, even in these Exercises, Divine Grace is the great Thing to be relied on, which for this End is furnish'd from above, and therefore always to be sought for to Almighty God.

THE FOURTH MEDITATION.

Of the singular Emphasis, and strong Significancy of the Words and Expressions of St. John, in the Beginning of his Gospel.

S E C T. XXXVII.

That many Things remain still hid in the emphatical Expressions which St. John uses.

THIS Meditation will consist only of some of the Words, and Expressions of St.
John, and thereby an Occasion will be given

given to the pious Reader, of considering with greater Exactness and Devotion, as well the Words we now touch upon, as all his other Expressions. In the Beginning was the Word, ἦν, says John, erat, feu existebat, was, or did exist; not ἐγένετο, was made, as it is said ver. 14. The Word was made Flesh, ἐγένετο; but was truly in the Beginning, before all Time, and when nothing was but Eternity. Moreover, in this he differ'd from all created Things, that as soon as the Beginning of any Thing could be said to be, he then existed; and therefore was not made, but was without Beginning. This Word ἦν, erat, was, St. John repeats thrice in the first Verse, and again ver. 2. then twice ver. 4. again ver. 9. and again ver. 10. and 15. and every where the great Emphasis of this Word is to be consider'd. The Word, in Greek ἄλογος, is of various Significations, even in profane Authors; for it not only signifies a Word spoken with the Mouth, but likewise a Word ready to be uttered; nay, that yet rests in the Mind, altho' not vocally deliver'd. A right and just Conclusion also is denominated ἄλογος; nor does it less denote the Faculty itself of Reason and Understanding. It signifies also a Reckoning, an Account of Receipts and Payments: more especially the Cause of every Thing, on which, as on its Foundation,

62 Christ the Sum and Substance

dation, every Thing rests, is expressed by this Word. But Plato has us'd it in a more sublime Sense than the other Pagans, for which Reason he is believed to have heard of Moses, or rather, to have read Moses's Writings, or at least to have borrowed some of his Notions from the Wisdom of the antient Hebrews. But one having well consider'd the great and divine Emphasis of this Word, truly declared, This learned Plato was ignorant of; quick-sighted Aristotle did not see; eloquent Cicero has not expressed. But, on the contrary, St. John, who, without doubt, in the Beginning of this his Gospel, wonderfully accords with the Wisdom of his Ancestors, may rightly be said to have more Understanding than all his Teachers *. The Word λογος indeed is of Greek Derivation, but it has respect to the genuine common Language of the Sons and Servants of God; that is, to the Language of the Holy Spirit, in whose School alone, its sublime and divine Sense is to be learnt, and will hereafter be understood, in its extensive Signification, in the Jerusalem that is above. All our weak Discourses here concerning it, hardly touch its Shadow. We have heard before, that John used the Word (דבר) dixit, He said, in imitation of Moses. We must confess, that that by following the common Rules, which learned Men use for interpreting the Holy Scriptures, we could not have attained the sublime and hidden Signification of even that one Word; which to Reason, destitute of divine Light, might seem to be of very little moment. So great is the Difference between these Things, when a Man instructed in human and philosophical Learning, comes to interpret the Holy Scriptures, and when God opens a Man's Eyes, and the Spirit of Truth, according to the Promise of Christ, leads him into all Truth. But if John, in this one Word beholds Christ, the eternal and substantial Word of God; if he sees the Son in the Bosom of the Father, that eternal Wisdom, and essential Image of the living God, the Origin and Principle of all created Things, the Source of Life and Light, the Fountain from whence all Prophecies were derived; if he there beholds the ineffable Union of that Essence and Love, in which the Father and the Son have existed from all Eternity: if thro' this one Word he looks into the Eternal Generation of the Son from the Father; How great Depths must there needs be in all the rest of the Holy Writings? How clear must the Mirrors be, which represent to us the eternal wonderful Things of God? How imperfect, how foreign, foreign, how remote from the hidden Wisdom of God, must needs be all our reading and searching of the Sacred Scriptures, without the Guidance of the Holy Spirit? O Lord, open Thou our Eyes, that we may behold wondrous Things out of thy Word.

64 Christ the Sum and Substance

S E C T. XXXVIII.

That so great Depths, unfathomable plainly to Reason, lie hid in that one Word λόγος, [or the Word] as ought to increase our Humiliation.

WE, indeed, with good Reason, blush to produce our incongruous Thoughts concerning so profound Mysteries, when we understand so little of the Purport but of a single Word; yet it will be pleasing to God, if the Knowledge which a Man hath in these Matters, be communicated with an honest Mind, and faithfully applied to the Edification of himself and others. This we certainly know, that the Language of the Holy Spirit ought never to be carpt at and censur'd by human Reason. Perhaps a Man not illuminated, would have wish'd St. John had us'd some other Word, which were plainer to him, and easier to be understood: But John, through through the Instinct of the Holy Spirit, utterly refuses to use any other Word in this Place, which he therefore does thrice in one and the same Verse; nor does he change it for another Word, after the manner of the Orators of this Age: and when afterwards, in the 14th Verse, he would express the Incarnation of the Son of God, he again industriously brings forth this his first and most dear Word, to shew that it was his Care and his Delight to use it; nor would he substitute any other in its Place, tho' other Words were not wanting to him. Moreover, in the preceding Third Meditation we have heard, that He did immediately, in the Beginning of his First Epistle; and again chap. v. 7. refer his Readers to this very Word. And what is chiefly to be observ'd, St. John would be known and distinguished from others, by this very Thing, as by a singular Character, that he testifies every where, and proclaims the *Word of God. The strict Meaning of the Word $\lambda\omicron\gamma\omega\varsigma$, may still be better understood from his whole Discourse. If we hear the German Word (Wort, Word) we understand nothing by it, but what comes forth of the Mouth; but the Greek Word, as it is taken from the Hebrew דְבַר does likewise signify the Word pronouncing, or the actual and active Word: And thus by this Word is denoted, not only the eternal Generation of the Son from the Father; but also the Life that is in him, the Almighty Power which gave a Being to all Things, and the Splendor of his eternal and essential Light, as John more particularly declares in what follows:

“ O Lord, grant that we may know what “ Benefits we have in Christ; for this “ will render us truly Pious, and make “ us joyful before Thee!

S E C T. XXXIX.

What Things are further to be consider'd in these emphatical Words of St. John.

AND the Word was God.] These Words are transpos'd in the Greek Text, [ὁ θεὸς ἦν ὁ λόγος, And God was the Word] as is wont to be done on purpose, that some Word may be placed in the Beginning of a Sentence, which we especially, and before all, desire to express. Whence also, in pronouncing a Word of this sort, we are wont to raise our Voice, that whosoever hears, may easily understand our Intention chiefly is to have That Word rightly apprehended. But if the Words were placed in their natural Order in which which St. John would doubtless have put them, if that had not been his chief Design; they would have been thus render'd in the Latin, Illud Verbum erat Deus: which Version also the Greek Article before the Word $\alpha\lambda\gamma\theta$, but not before $\theta\epsilon\omicron\varsigma$, requires: For here his principal Aim was, to assert true Divinity to this Eternal Word.

All Things were made by Him.] John has a peculiar Emphasis (or Meaning) in the Word $\gamma\iota\upsilon\omega\tau\omicron\varsigma$; [were made]. For in this same third Verse he repeats it again, as also ver. 6, 10, 14, 17. Every one may observe, that John has a particular regard for this Word; and that therefore, as often as we find it used by him, we should endeavour by all means to discover the true Sense and Import of it. He says indeed first; All Things were made by the Word, and without Him was not any Thing made that was made. The Word $\gamma\iota\upsilon\omega\tau\omicron\varsigma$ is in the Greek Bible, where וַיֵּבַר is read in the Hebrew; which the Latin renders siebat factum est, [was made] and it often occurs in the History of the Creation. So deeply does John search into Moses, and effectually teaches, That where the Word וַיֹּאמֶר dixit [He said] is used, 'tis to be observ'd that $\alpha\lambda\gamma\theta$, the very substantial Word of God, Christ ought to be acknowledged by it; and where siebat, factum

est [was made] is used, there is to be understood, the Work of the Omnipotence of Christ; for all Things were made by the Word of God, and therefore the Word ought to be acknowledged as the Author and Original of all Things. In the 6th Verse he says, ἔγενετο ἄνθρωπος, [there was a Man] and whilst he here plainly uses the same Word which he did before, when he had said all Things were made by Him, by this he indicates, that John the Baptist was also made by Him. In like manner we ought to apply the Meaning of the same Word in other Places of Scripture. Absque eo factum est nihil, quod factum est, [Without Him was not any Thing made that was made.] In the Greek it has this Emphasis; without Him ἔστι ἔν, was not any Thing [or the least Thing] made, that was made. By which Expression St. John, doubtless with regard to the profound Abyss of Divine Wisdom, but now mention'd, looks back to the first Creation; where God being about to produce something, is alledg'd dixisse, to have said. Hence, when every Day's Work was finish'd, it is written, and God said; and it was so; or, thus it was made: That so John, by this way of speaking, might most earnestly set before our Eyes, and confirm the Majesty of the Word. For let it be said, either dixit [He said],

or fuit [it was], or factum est [it was made], Christ is there always, as we now asserted, and indeed as is shewn by the $\tau\acute{o} \epsilon\sigma\tau\acute{i} \epsilon\nu$: Christ, I say, is to be acknowledg'd without any Exception; all Things and every Thing must acknowledge that one Word for their Creator: that so it might be rightly said, as it is in Pf. xxxiii.

9. $\text{וְהָיָה אֲמַר וְיָהִי}$ Ipsa dicente est quicquid est, ipso præcipiente, existit. For he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast. St. Paul * teaches us more largely, how we ought to know the Meaning, and expound the hidden Sense of those Particles, $\epsilon\nu \epsilon\sigma\tau\acute{i}$.

In ipso vita erat, & vita erat lux illa hominum; [In Him was Life, and the Life was the Light of Men.] In the Greek, $\epsilon\nu \alpha\upsilon\tau\omega\delta \zeta\omega\eta \eta\nu, \kappa\acute{\iota} \eta \zeta\omega\eta \eta\nu \tau\acute{o} \sigma\acute{o}\varsigma \tau\acute{\omega}\nu \alpha\nu\theta\rho\acute{\omega}\pi\omega\nu$. John does not in the first Position of the word $\zeta\omega\eta$ prefix the Article η [the] but in the second Place he adds the Article, to make the Sentence more emphatical. And the Light shineth in Darkness. Et lux ista in tenebris lucet.

John says, $\sigma\alpha\iota\nu\epsilon\iota$ [shineth] not $\epsilon\sigma\tau\acute{i}\nu$ [did shine]: For it is to be observ'd, that in his whole Discourse, he fitly distinguisheth the Times, or knows when he ought to speak in the past, and when in the present Tense: Which if we carefully attend to, we shall much better understand not only this, but many other Places, which otherwise, perhaps, we should overlook, as meeting nothing in them, in our Opinion, worthy our Remark. In this Place, John would speak thus: " This Light is the " Eternal Light, and shines without any

" Intermiſſion, nor does it any way per" mit its Splendor to be obſtructed by " Darkneſs, otherwiſe the Darkneſs might " become more prevalent than the Light
" itſelf." Concerning this Subject, David ſpeaks; * If I ſay, Surely the Darkneſs ſhall cover me: even the Night ſhall be light about me. Yea, the Darkneſs hideth not from Thee, but the Night ſhineth as the Day: the Darkneſs and the Light are both alike to Thee. And St. James the Apoſtle thus; † Do not err, my beloved Brethren: Every good Gift, and every perfect Gift, is from above, and cometh down from the Father of Lights, with whom is no Variableneſs, neither Shadow of turning.
He therefore ſaying that the Light ſhineth, ſpeaks in the preſent Tenſe; that the eternal Splendor of that Light, which no Darkneſs can hinder, may be underſtood, and diſtinguiſh'd from all created Light.

What peculiar Account may be given of the Words, κατέλαβεν, παρέλαβον, and ἔλαβον, or comprehending and receiving.

AND the Darknefs comprehended it not, ver. 5.] This is significantly exprefsed in the Greek, καὶ ἡ σκοτία ἄρτο ἔκατέλαβεν. And the Darknefs discover'd it not. “He that is in Darknefs, and walketh in “Darknefs, and knows not whither he “goes, because Darknefs hath blinded his “Eyes,” thinks indeed, that he comprehends fomething ; but it is—a falfe Light which he comprehends, not ἀπὸ φωτός, that true Light : Nor does he find true Life in the Light which he feems to himfelf to comprehend. Therefore St. Paul writes concerning the Gentiles *, As having the Understanding darkned, being alienated from the Life of God, thro’ the Ignorance that is in them, becaufe of the Blindnefs of their Heart. For wherever the Divine Light is wanting, there alfo the Divine Life fails. Therefore concerning fuch, St. Paul testifies †; that they please themfelves in a voluntary Humility, and worshipping of Angels, gels, intruding into those Things which they have not seen; vainly pufft up by their fleshly Mind. And indeed, they are so far from comprehending the true Light, that they do not know or perceive their own Blindness and Darkness, as may be seen in John ix. 39, 40, 41. They comprehended it not: in Greek, κατέλαβον, [discern'd or discoverd]. Of this St. Paul speaks, Phil. iii. 12, 13. Besides, this Word κατέλαβεν, [comprehended] ver. 5. there are two other Words, ver. 11, 12. each of which has its proper Emphasis in the Greek, which we can't sufficiently perceive in the German, or the Latin Version: These are the two Words, παρέλαβον, v. 11. and ἔλαβον, v. 12. which signify received. The Word λαμβάνειν signifies, to receive in such a manner, as Citizens do their Lord and King into his Kingdom and City, who taking an Oath of Allegiance to him, joyfully wish him a long Life, and all manner of Prosperity; or else, when it is spoken of Christ, it denotes the receiving of Him, with singing the true Hosanna in that Spirit, with which the Prophets utter'd it. As the Prophets also put into the Mouth, and as it were into the Heart of the Daughter of Zion, how she ought to rejoice and be glad at the Advent of her King; and with what Acclamations she ought to receive Him.

Thus

Thus the whole People of Israel ought to have received Christ; and this is that of which St. John complains, saying, the Darknes comprehended not this Light of Life. Indeed our Saviour vouchsafed to separate the Israelites from all other People, to be even as his own Possession; and altho' they killed his Prophets and Servants whom he had sent to them, nevertheless, so great was his Mercy towards them, that he came himself to them, as to his own peculiar People: but they who boasted themselves to be his People, would not so much as acknowledge him; and instead of Hosanna, they cried out, Crucify him; and in such sort did they receive the Lord of Glory, that they fasten'd him to a Cross. The Evangelist goes on, ver. 12. But as many as received Him: Here begins the Separation of Light and Darknes, as at the Beginning, in the first Creation, naturally, so here, in the new Creation, spiritually. Ὅσοι δὲ ἔλαβον, that is, as many (altho' they were exceeding few of this People) as received Him for the greatest Gift of Divine Grace, from the Hand of God; yea, in whomsoever he found such an honest Mind, as not to reject him from being sent by the Father, altho' they received him with great Weakness, and not with that Joy and Chearfulness which the Majesty of his Person, and the greatness of that Salvation requir'd, which he brought along with him; yet he approv'd of them, where he was receiv'd by them without Falshood and Dissembling: he spared them, as a Father is wont to spare his Children; he helped their Infirmary; he did not frown upon them; but by doing them good, and manifesting his Glory, he kindled and strengthen'd their Faith towards him, and so gave them this Power that they should be made the Sons of God. Hereby we shall observe the pleasing manner of St. John's using these three Words, ἔλαβον, παρέλαβον, ἔλαβον; and from thence learn, that there is no juvenile sporting, when the Spirit of God thus makes use of certain Words, but a Thing of the greatest moment; that the Men of God spake not only spiritual Things, but utter'd them also in the very Words of the Holy Spirit; and not so in their own Words, as if it matter'd not much, whether we knew their emphatical Meaning or not.

Why in treating here of the Eternal Word, there is mention made of John the Baptist.

T H E R E was a Man sent from God; whose Name was John, ver. 6. In the Greek

Greek it is thus : ἐγένετο ἄνθρωπος, &c. the Emphasis of the first Word, that it is not said ἦν, but ἐγένετο, was shewn before. The following Word, ἄνθρωπος, has no less an Emphasis. For when he here speaks of the Glory of the Word, and has called him the Creator and the Light of Men; by those very Words he declares that John the Baptist was not Christ, for whom many in his time would have taken him; but a meer Man, whose Light therefore Christ no less was, than that of other Men. The same emphatical Signification is to be found in the Beginning of St. Paul's Epistle to the Galatians: Paul an Apostle, not of Men, neither by Man, but by Jesus Christ and God the Father, who raised him from the Dead: And ver. 11, 12. I certify you, Brethren, that the Gospel which was preached of me, is not after Man. For I neither received it of Man, neither was I taught it, but by the Revelation of Jesus Christ. These Expressions no way derogate from the true Humanity of Christ; but only effectually demonstrate that he was not a meer Man; as St. John, the Apostles, and others also the greatest Servants of God, were in this Regard meer Men. The same came for a Witness, to bear witness of that Light, ver. 7. Here again we must take notice of the great Care of St. John the Evangelist, that he thus

thus expressly makes the whole Office of John the Baptist, to consist in his bearing Testimony concerning Christ; by which he would be meant to say nothing else, but that the same Office was incumbent on John, (viz. the principal Parts of it) which Moses and all the Prophets, by whom God had ever spoken to Men, did discharge, viz. that they should testify of Christ. Christ says concerning all the Scriptures of the Old Testament, They are They which testify of me *. And St. John the Evangelist, names himself to be a Witness of Jesus Christ †, as also Christ himself affirms of all his Apostles, ‡ that They should bear witness of Him. But especially in this Place it is to be observ'd, from this very Testimony, how great a Difference there is between the Dignity and Majesty of Christ, and the Person and Office of John the Baptist. For whereas it was now said; He came for a Witness, viz. to bear witness of the Light, it is presently more clearly explain'd: He was not that Light, but was sent to bear witness of that Light. The holy Love of John the Evangelist in these Words is much to be consider'd, as from which it most evidently appears, with what profound Reverence he contemplated the Glory

Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ; and how his Soul was moved, not only to shew forth that Glory in the most effectual and powerful manner, but also to prevent most carefully their thinking so meanly of the Messiah, whom Israel then expected, as to take John the Baptist, or any other Man, for Him, whose Employment he regarded no farther, than that Men should, by virtue of their Testimony, be brought to believe in the Word of Life, the true Light of the World, and the Lord of Glory. For it is altogether to be imputed to the holy Affection of John the Evangelist, that Verses 6, 7, 8. are inserted in the rest of his Discourse, the better to remove from every one's Mind, any Objection concerning the Authority of John the Baptist. For if we consider the Text aright, there is such a Coherence in his Discourse, that the 5th and 9th Verses are to be connected and join'd together; so the 15th Verse is put between the 14th and 16th by the Evangelist; which two Verses, as to the Matter, entirely agree, and so is to be placed in a Parenthesis, as well as the other three: And since by reason hereof, mention is twice made of the Testimony of John the Baptist, the Evangelist begins at length to relate the Matter more fully, and as Circumstances require. This, as he says ver. 19. is the Record of John,
Etc.

78. Christ the Sum and Substance

&c. which I have twice alledg'd in what went before. But as many as received Him (ver. 12.) to them gave he Power to become the Sons of God. These Words explain the following, ver. 16. And of his Fulness have all we received, and Grace for Grace. For the two Words ἔλαβον and ἔδωκεν, [they received] and [he gave] deserve to be well consider'd together; because the Order of these Words, thro' the Divine Wisdom and Love, is most delightful. God gives, Faith receives; and if Faith receives, God always gives anew. And thus there is continual Interchange of Love and Faith, of giving and receiving, and this is what is called Grace for Grace.

S E C T. XLII.

That there is also a peculiar Emphasis in the Words ὁ λόγος ἐσκήνωσεν ἐν ἡμῖν, The Word dwelt among us.

T H E Word was made Flesh, and dwelt among us, (John i. 14.) That this dwelling among us, refers to the Tabernacle, or Tent of the Congregation in the Old Testament; or rather, that this Tabernacle has, as a Type, respect to Christ, is manifest from the Comparison above made of this Text with the Old Testament. The Signification also of the Greek word ἐσκήνωσεν, has the same Reference, being in Latin, Tabernaculum posuit, he pitch'd his Tabernacle. And 'tis very worthy our notice, that the Greek word has the very same Letters with the Hebrew, מִשְׁכָּן or שֶׁכֶן; That it should be as it were easy even for Children to understand, that the Signification of this Word is to be look'd for in the Type of the Old Covenant. Altho', moreover, the Words of John in the German Translation are not ill render'd, Er wohnete unter uns, i. e. habitationavit inter nos, He inhabited among us; forasmuch as this Consideration, that he was the true Habitation of the Glory of God among Men, and especially among his most beloved Disciples, admirably agrees both with the Type of the Old Testament, and with his humble Conversation in the Flesh; yet this ought not at all to derogate from the Emphasis and proper Signification of the Greek word, by which it may be truly inferr'd from the Mind of St. John himself, that He does also inhabit in us, and there manifests his Glory, Life and Light, with his Grace and Truth to us. The Apostle Paul, in his Epistle to the Ephesians *, expounds the Structure of the Tabernacle and Temple, shewing they had their Completion in Christ. But how does he speak of

* Chap. ii, iii.

80 Christ the Sum and Substance

Christ's dwelling among us? Is it so only that Christ dwells among us in the manner, as heretofore the Tabernacle in a Type? Does he not rather tell us, that Christ may dwell in our Hearts by Faith *. Likewise St. John himself applies this dwelling of Christ among us to that true Communion in the Spirit, which we ought to have with the blessed Son of God, saying: † That which we have seen and heard, declare we unto you, that ye also may have Fellowship with us; and truly our Fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ. He dwelt among us, full of Grace and Truth; and of his Fulness have all we receiv'd, and Grace for Grace, ver. 14, 16. The Words, according to the Greek Text, are so properly conjoin'd, and in the Matter itself so strictly linked together; that their Connexion cannot be separated by the other intervening Words in those two Verses. But that St. John interposes so many Words, ought not to seem strange and incongruous to us. Nor is the same unusual in common Conversation, especially where little regard is had to Art in the placing of Words, but only that the Thing itself may be express'd with the same Concern that lies in the Mind. And thus in this Place, together with the Consideration

* Eph. iii. 17.

† Epist. I. chap. i. 3.

sideration of the Thing propounded, we ought to attend to the Mind of John the Evangelist, who was so filled with humble Veneration, a lively Faith, and a most flagrant Love to his Lord and Master, that he could not speak of him after a meer historical manner, but always declared that most tender and delightful Sense of Him with which his own Mind was imbu'd, that so he might the more sweetly allure others who should read his Gospel, to the same most blessed Communion with the only begotten Son of God. How great an Emphasis there is in the two Words Grace and Truth, cannot be explained in few Words; since from the foregoing Meditation it is plain, that all Things which were foretold of the new Covenant, are contain'd in those two Words. Therefore we refer the Reader for a fuller Understanding of them, to a particular Treatise publish'd by me in the German Tongue, called Grace and Truth.

S E C T. XLIII.

Why the Evangelist returns afresh to speak of John the Baptist, and what is to be understood by ~~his~~,
He cried.

JOHN bare witness of Him, and cried, saying: This is He of whom I spake,

82 Christ the Sum and Substance

He that cometh after me, is preferred before me; for he was before me, ver. 15. Every Thing in these Words is emphatical. In what went before, viz. ver. 7, and 8. he had made mention thrice of the Testimony of John the Baptist, he doth it now a fourth time, and adds emphatically, καὶ κέκραγεν, clamavit, [He cried] that he might express not only his own, but the Love of John also towards the Lord, and declare that John did not bear witness coldly, but used great Earnestness, Zeal, and a wonderful Chearfulness and Freedom of Mind, in giving his Testimony; and that he publish'd it after such manner, that no one might hereafter plead Ignorance of it; yea, that he shew'd effectually that he was appointed to be the Voice, the Publisher, and the Fore-runner of the Messiah; for that he had lift up his Voice like a Trumpet, and proclaim'd the Messiah aloud, in the Hearing of the Jews. But the Evangelist does not stop here, but adds also the Words which John the Baptist spake. Whence it is easily understood, that the very Words of John the Baptist were very dear and acceptable unto the Evangelist. For in this very Chapter he again repeats those Words, ver. 27, and 30. and again explains them in the very Words of John, Job. iii. 28, &c. But what Occasion was there for the

the Evangelist to alledge these Words in this Place, when he intended afterwards to relate the whole Matter, and to recount more largely both the Words, and the Occasion of using them? This was the Reason; because hitherto having witnessed the true Godhead and Incarnation of the Messiah, both which were briefly comprehended in the Testimony of John, he thought it necessary to alledge this Testimony of the Baptist for an Argument, and as it were a short Compendium of those Things which he had hitherto spoken of Christ: Which was enough for him to insert in this Place, and so to finish his begun Discourse, reserving still to himself a more large Account of the Testimony of John, which was of so great moment.

S E C T. XLIV.

In what the Testimony of John the Baptist consists.

W H E N John says, ver. 30. This is he; hereby he shews, that he is about to publish somewhat very surprizing, which at first may seem strange and wonderful; or in which such Things may be found, as seem not to cohere and to agree well together. And John frequently us'd the same Paradoxical Manner in speaking of Christ. For he did not then first use that Expression when he saw Christ coming towards him, and pointing at him, said: Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the Sins of the World; This is He, &c. as you may read, v. 29, 30. But the same Words, This is He, who cometh after me, and who was before me; He had us'd the Day before, to them who were sent to him from Jerusalem. Whence 'tis the less to be doubted, but that he often before said those Things to the People, and principally to his Disciples. For his (John's) Testimony was then so publickly known at Jerusalem, that the Jews were mov'd thereby to send Priests and Levites to him for farther Information. But he spake nothing new to them, and only professed what he had before very boldly and freely declar'd to the People, and to his own Disciples. In which 'tis sweet to observe, that the Evangelist, out of all the Testimonies given by John the Baptist concerning Christ, chooses this which was spoken by the Baptist, when with his own Eyes he beheld Christ, the Lamb of God: by which, he was particularly desirous to declare, that, as a Fore-runner formerly in his Mother's Womb he leap'd for Joy, when the Lord came to visit him in the Womb of his Virgin

84 Christ the Sum and Substance

Virgin Mother; so now this his Joy was as it were renewed, and even compleated, when* he saw Jesus come towards him; whereby he was so inflam'd, that he cried out with greater Earnestness than ever before, and congratulated Him as the true Bridegroom, and raised the Attention of all his Disciples and of all the People about Him, that now they should behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the Sin of the World: that then he cried aloud, that all might hear Him; This is He, viz. ὁ ἐρχόμενος, He that was to come, nor besides Him shall you expect any other: That thereby he might remove all Doubts from Mens Minds, and that they should all of Themselves believe † that this is He, of whom Moses and the Prophets wrote, and to whom his whole Function belonged. But when the Discourse he was wont to have of the Messiah was known, and publish'd among his Disciples, and to all the People, he hereby marked out Christ to them, and withal gave Testimony, first of his true Humanity, and the Administration of his Office in this his State of Humiliation, according as he had said; this is He, who cometh after me: Then also of his Eternal Divinity, when he affirms of Him who was to come after him, that he was before him, and then subjoins that he was before him. Which Words, in this Place, do not only denote his Pre-rogative of Dignity (as what John the Baptist expressly declares in another manner, when ver. 27. he professes himself not worthy to unloose the Latchet of his Shoes, and still more largely and plainly, chap. iii. ver. 27---36.) but of Time also.

S E C T. XLV.

What is to be observed concerning Grace for Grace, and comparing of the Law, and Grace and Truth, one with another.

A N D of his Fulness have all we received, and Grace for Grace, ver. 16. The Greek Particle $\kappa\alpha\iota$ [and] set before $\chi\alpha\rho\iota\varsigma$ $\alpha\upsilon\tau\omicron\upsilon$ $\chi\alpha\rho\iota\varsigma$, [Grace for Grace] has something more emphatical than the Translator hath express'd in our Mother Language (German). The Sense of the Words [and of his Fulness have all we received] may be explain'd thus, i. e. " Whatsoever
 " Good we have, it is not from ourselves,
 " but as he is full of Grace and Truth, so
 " hath he imparted somewhat to every " one of us; that out of his infinite Ful-
 " ness, without any Diminution to Him" self,

“ self, we all have received something,
 “ and indeed (or, yea and) Grace for “ Grace.” We have before shewn the Signification of these Words, Grace for Grace. It is said moreover, (ver. 17.) for the Law was given by Moses, but Grace and Truth came by Jesus Christ. Here, in the Words ἑδόθη, data est [was given] and ἐγένετο, præstita seu facta est, [was performed, or derived] lies a singular Emphasis.
 The Law was not made, but given by Moses, as by the Hand of a Mediator* : But Grace and Truth were not only given by,
 but proceeded from Jesus Christ; since by his Suffering and Dying for us, He hath recover'd the Grace lost by Adam's Fall, and applies it to our Hearts by his Spirit, and thereby renews and restores in Them the divine Image in Righteousness, and in Holiness of Truth. It would be too much to ascribe to Moses the Word ἑγένετο, the making of the Law, (for the Law was not made by him) and it would be much too little to apply to Christ the Word ἑδόθη, the giving of the Law. For this Man was counted worthy of more Glory than Moses, inasmuch as he who hath builded the House, hath more Honour than the House. For every House is builded by some Man, but he that built all Things is God. (N. B. God was that

S E C T. XLVI.

How great Sense is comprised in the 18th Verse, where there is so notable mention made of the only begotten Son, who is in the Bosom of the Father, and hath declared Him.

*T H E only begotten Son. John had before called Christ λόγον, the Word, and in the 14th Verse μονογενῆ, the only begotten; now adds the word υἱός, and calls Him the only begotten Son; which Word he afterwards frequently uses in his Gospel. But as he had before said concerning the Word; The Word was with God: so he now subjoins, who is in the Bosom of the Father. These last Words were before compared with Proverbs viii. from whence may be understood, the great Importance of them. Now it is farther to be observ'd what John says here, ὁ ὢν, [who exists] who was from*

* Chap. iii. 3, 4, 5, 6.

from Eternity, and is, and shall be. So Christ saith, * No Man hath ascended up to Heaven, but He that came down from Heaven, even the Son of Man, (ὁ ὢν, truly existing) which is in Heaven. And again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Before Abraham was (or was born) I am †. He does not say, I was, or ἐγνόμην, I was made, but I am; that he might thereby declare not only his Existence, or his Being before Abraham, but his eternal and immutable Essence also. Psalm cii. 27. expresses this by אַתָּה הוּא, Thou art the same: with which compare Heb. i. 12. and xiii. 8. It may be yet farther noted, that in the Greek it is not said, ἐν τῷ κόλπῳ, but εἰς τὸν κόλπον, within the Bosom, comparing the Particle εἰς with what he had expressed by the Particle μετὰ, with, in the 1st and 2^d Verses (of John i.) This Expression may be thus interpreted: The Father and the Son are so closely united together, that this Union has not only been from Eternity, but will also endure to Eternity; and the Son is always with, and in the Father, in an indissoluble Essence of the Godhead; so that even the Incarnation of the Son cannot destroy this Union. He hath declared him to us, ver. 18. (Ἐκεῖνος) He it is, and no other. For by this most emphatical Word, he would transfer our Heart, Mind, Soul, and all our Thoughts upon the Son. Ἐξήγοσα, declared: this not only signifies, as the German Version has it, Er hat es verkündigt, nuntiavit, declar'd; but as it is render'd in Latin, expofuit, deprompsit, set abroad in view, brought forth; He, as a Store-keeper, (viz. from the Bosom of the Father, from the most profound and most secret Divinity) expounded and brought to Light, Things which otherwise had remained hidden and obscure. By this word, declared, he also shews why Christ is called λογος, (the Word) viz. not only because he is the Image of the Father, as Speech is the Image of the Mind; nor therefore only, because from the Beginning God spake by Him to the Prophets: but for this Reason also, because 'tis he himself who makes known, and manifests to us the Mind of God, and sets before us, and grafts into our Hearts that Grace and Truth which himself procured for us. There is a fourth Reason why He is called the Word, viz. because He is our Advocate, and Intercessor with the Father *. In the Greek, ver. 18. the Word ἡμῶν, nobis, to us, is wanting; it is only said, Ἐξήγοσα, he declared: which Omission of a Word used in other Places, and often not without Emphasis, ought not to be thought in vain, or unadvised.

90 Christ the Sum and Substance

The FIFTH MEDITATION.

Wherein Six ARGUMENTS, proving the true Divinity of Christ, which occur in the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, are diligently examin'd.

S E C T. XLVIII.

The First Argument.

“ HE, to whom Eternity is so ascribed, as to have no Beginning, is together with the Father, the true and essential God. But such an Eternity is ascribed unto Christ: therefore Christ together with the Father is the true and essential God.”

The major Proposition is true beyond all doubt; it being against common Reason to attribute to any Being that Eternity which is without Beginning, and yet not acknowledge It to be the true God. Wherefore no Man of Sense will require a Proof of this Proposition. But this is to be demonstrated, that That Eternity which is without any Beginning, belongs to Christ, and then it follows of itself, that Christ is the true and essential God. But this is affirm'd by the Evangelist in plain and clear Words: For he says concerning the same Christ, who walked about among Men

94. Christ the Sum and Substance

Men on the Earth, being made visible to Men in the Flesh, that He is the Word, viz. which was in the Beginning, or then existed, when the Beginning of any Thing could be said to be. The Emphasis of the Words of John (especially of the Word in, was, signifying, that that Word had no Beginning, but did really exist before the Beginning of Time, beyond which there is nothing but Eternity) I say, this Emphasis, together with the Places of Scripture wherewith it has been compar'd, is to be remembered here from the preceding Sections. We only add the Words of St. Augustine in Epist. LXVI. It is not said, as in the Beginning, God made Heaven and Earth, so in the Beginning he made the Word; but, in the Beginning was the Word. In this Place, John was wholly intent, to set before our Eyes the Glory of the Son of God from the very Beginning of Genesis, that He might at once give us a Key, how we ought rightly to seek and to find Christ, as the Substance of the Writings of Moses and all the Prophets, from the genuine Foundation of the secret Depths of God's Wisdom. Otherwise some other Form of speaking might have expressed the Eternity of the Son of God, as he uses in other Places; when for Example, 1st Epistle i. 2. he calls Him, that Eternal Life which was with the Father, ther, (as he also calls Him 1st Epist. v. 20. Eternal Life) whereby he explains the very Words which he uses in this Place, by an Expression of like Import: for he here says, In the Beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. But in his Epistle it is: that Eternal Life (which in the preceeding Verse, as well as in his Gospel, he had called the Word) was with the Father. What can be clearer than that St. John shews it is the same Thing with him, whether he says, He was in the Beginning, or else says, He is eternal; for He is the best Interpreter of his own Words? Hence it is unreasonable to object, why does he not write expressly, The Word was from Eternity; then the Thing would be plain, and need no farther Proof. For it must be considered, that St. John's Design here is to explain the Words of Moses, for which we ought to be thankful: and since the Thing has been deliver'd thus by Moses, he follows Moses's Words, and seems to be delighted with the Expression, as appears by his frequent using thereof. And he is not only studious in interpreting Moses, but also refers us to the Testimony of Moses concerning Christ; wherefore he does industriously keep to his Words, as the most proper for him to use in writing his Gospel, especially against the Errors

rors of Ebion and Cerinthus. Moreover, the Eternity of Christ is by these Words so plainly set before our Eyes, that who-soever will calmly consider them, can have no Doubt in his Mind concerning them. But because the Heart of St. John was full of this Matter, he explains his own Words largely, as he had explain'd the Words of Moses. Why therefore should we not acquiesce in what he sufficiently signifies, that the Words, He was in the Beginning, and He is Eternal, have the very same Sense and Meaning? Nor are there wanting in the Holy Scriptures, other Testimonies of the like Nature, which can fully satisfy thy Desire, or most clearly, as thou couldst wish, set forth the Eternity of Christ, so as thou mayst have no longer any room for evading the Testimonies for Christ's Eternity, from which his true and essential Divinity must be acknowledg'd without any Contradiction. For what can be more evident, than that Micah the Prophet, foretelling that Christ should be born at Bethlehem, declares Him to be the Person, whose rising or goings forth (מוצאתיו exitus) have been from of old, (from the Beginning) from everlasting*. Which way of Expression is much more prevalent, than if he had only said, that Christ was from Eternity.

* Micah v. 2.

But what else does Micah say, but that He, who at the Time appointed by God, should be born at Bethlehem, was not then first to have his Beginning, but that He was without any Beginning; which can be attributed to none but the true, the living, and eternal God. If any one be not satisfied with this clear Testimony, there are not wanting in the Scriptures many others to convince him. But he that will not give his Assent to the plain Word of God; and tho' the strongest Proofs be laid before him, labours still to call them into question, and to put another Sense into the Word of God, than that which the Spirit of God has supplied us with, and (as it were) imprinted upon us, (so that we have no occasion to interpret It by our own, but are able to do it by the very Words of the Spirit of God). How can he possibly be convinced? since he makes God a Liar, because he believeth not the Record that God gave of his Son. And this is the Record that God hath given to us, Eternal Life, and this Life is in his Son *.

H

SECT.

* 1 John v. 10.

S E C T. XLIX.

The Second Argument.

- “ HE whom the Holy Scripture itself “ calls God, and that without any Limi“ tation, and consequently without any “ Difference (as to Essence and divine “ Property) from Him who made Hea“ ven and Earth, or from Him whom “ we adore as the true, eternal, and liv“ ing God, He is the true and living God:
 “ But Christ is thus called God in the “ Holy Scripture, therefore He is the “ true, essential and living God.” The major Proposition wants no Proof. For if any one should object, that many in the same Holy Scriptures are called Gods, who are not the only, true, and living God,
 and the Creator of Heaven and Earth;
 the Word of God is described after so sublime a manner, in the major Proposition, that this Objection deserves no regard here.
 But as to the minor Proposition, that lies plainly before our Eyes in the very Beginning of St. John’s Gospel: For there the Discourse is manifestly of no other Person, but of the Word that was made Flesh, or of Jesus Christ, concerning whom John wrote his Gospel. Here therefore He is not only by him called the Word which
was

was in the Beginning, and was with God; but he says also in the clearest and plainest Words, such as every one may understand, θεὸς ἦν ὁ λόγος, Deus erat illud Verbum, God was the Word. It was observed by us in the former Meditation, that these Words, if they were plac'd in their natural Order, ought to be render'd, the Word was God. That this Acceptation of the Words cannot seem improper to one that has but small Knowledge of the Greek Tongue, among other Things, appears from hence, that a certain Person, who translated the New Testament into the German Tongue, and not a little perverts those Places which speak of Christ, translates the Word λόγος, not Verbum, [the Word] but Rede, sermo, [Speech] and yet thus expresses the Greek Words, according to their natural Position: Die Rede war ein Gott, i. e. Sermo erat Deus aliquis, Speech was a (certain) God. By which indeed the Interpreter confesses, that the Words ought so to be taken according to their natural Order, that God may be the Predicate, or that which John would here say and affirm concerning the Word, viz. that He is God; yet nevertheless he perverts the Text, when he thus translates it into the German, Die Rede war ein Gott, Sermo erat Deus aliquis, Speech was a (certain) God: without doubt for this End, that the Readers of this Version might think, that Christ indeed is God, but not the true and essential God. But now no Man can offer the least Colour from the Greek Text, to make it only probable, that it ought to be thus interpreted; the Speech, or the Word, was a (certain) God. For when 'tis said before, Verbum illud erat apud Deum, the Word was with God; and it immediately follows, Et illud Verbum erat θεός, Deus, and the Word was God; it being presently added, Hoc Verbum in Principio erat apud Deum, this Word was in the Beginning with God: it plainly enough appears, that the word θεός, God, put in the first and third Place, ought altogether to be understood of the true and essential God; but in the middle Place, where it is said, the Word was God, after the same manner, and with the same Term, and the Name θεός is assigned to the Word without any Limitation, (especially when the Nature of the Predicate θεός, God, placed emphatically before the Subject ὁ λόγος, the Word, requires no Article before it:) Certainly we should do violence to the whole Context, if here, where the Word is called God, we should not understand it also concerning the true and essential God: This is an Example, what miserable Shifts corrupt Reason finds it necessary to use ; when once departed from the clear Word of God, it finds the Letter opposite to it, and notwithstanding desires to defend an erroneous Opinion once formed. Thus in his Translation, the first Artifice was to put the word Rede, Speech, instead of Wort, Word ; and when that would not suffice, he has another way of wresting the Text, to make his Opinion prevail. Certainly an honest and upright Mind, ignorant of those Artifices, could never fall into such Imaginations upon reading St. John's Words. Wherefore we have subjoin'd that Instance for an Admonition, that the Falshood of those Things, which are wont to be brought against the Divine Glory and Majesty of our Lord Jesus Christ, may be the better known and avoided. For to attain the Knowledge of Christ's Godhead, there is no need of far-fetcht Interpretations ; the plain Word of God is before you, which 'tis fit you should believe, and adhere to with Simplicity of Mind. But to pervert plain Words, recourse must be had to human Arts, and a laborious Exercise of Wit. Concerning the abovemention'd Version of the Text, the Word was God, 'tis to be noted, that there is nothing new or strange in that Expression : For so have the Dutch, the English, the French, the Bohemians, translated these Words in their Bibles, and Piscator has so render'd them in his German Translation. From whence it may at least be understood, that this Acceptation of the Words appeared to be the plainest and most proper of all to the best Interpreters. And that this is the true Acceptation, may appear from the Intention of St. John by them, viz. that the Word was, before the Beginning of any Thing, or it was from Eternity; so as no Time can be assign'd when he began to exist. But if you inquire, where then was the Word, if thus set beyond Time and Place, and any Conception that Man can form of created Beings? It is answer'd, He was from Eternity with God, and before or in the Presence of God, as the most beloved Son his Delight and Joy is in the Presence of his Father*. If you further ask, Was the Word of another Essence from God? was he any way in respect of his Essence different from God? It is answer'd, No. That same Word was God. If you still urge, Was there then no Difference between the Word and God? It is answer'd, None at all, in regard of Essence, but the Word was in the Beginning with God, as it was said in the first Verse, and again repeated (in the second) that you may observe there is no Difference in the Godhead in point of Essence; sence; and yet nevertheless that there is such a Difference, that the Father and the Word should not be confounded, but (that in regard of Essence they are One, and in regard of Personality they are Two: which Distinction holds also as to the Holy Spirit: wherefore St. John might truly say, that They are Three; and that these Three are One. Why therefore, O Man, dost thou go about to wrest those Words, which the Scriptures make plain and consonant? But if any one induced by the least Colour of Reason, scruples to acquiesce in a clear Version generally received by such Numbers of intelligent People, and is not satisfied with what is alledged before concerning it, let him know, that this is no Derogation at all to the Truth itself. Let the Version be retained as it stands in our German Bibles, und Gott war das Wort, i. e. & Deus erat Verbum; and God was the Word: Taking it in this manner, pray what is wanting to a Demonstration of the true and essential Godhead of our Saviour? John says, the Word was with God. Some may have concluded perhaps from these Words, that because the Word was with God, it was therefore not God, but some other Thing beside God: John therefore answers, Gott war selbst das Wort, i. e. ipse Deus erat illud Verbum, God himself was the Word. And when it may be retorted; Are They then in no respect Two; and is all Difference (even Personal) taken from Them? St. John for that Reason repeats what he had said, and saith; $\delta\upsilon\tau\theta$ the same (i. e. $\lambda\omicron\gamma\theta$ the Word; by which Term at the very Time he expresses some Personal Difference) was in the Beginning with God. Which way soever therefore our Antagonist turns himself, he will not at all advantage his Cause; for the Words of St. John are so clear, so convincing and piercing, that they cannot possibly be so far wrested, but that the simple and plain Mind of John, must needs be acknowledged by him who will not choose to be blind, with his Eyes open. They most effectually confute Arius, as well as Sabellius; the first, in his oppugning the true Divinity of Christ; and the other, in taking away the Distinction of Persons in the Godhead. But when we speak of the Difference of Persons, this is not to be understood in a gross manner, and such as is suitable to created Beings: for corrupt Reason easily sinks so low, as to form to itself such a Personality in the Mind, that may also involve a Difference of the Essence. The Words of St. John directly oppose this gross and false Conception of the Personality, and all Things are therein delivered in a most plain and simple manner, in which every one may safely acquiesce; nor is there Reason why any one should be offended with the word Personality, so it be not hurried by corrupt Reason into a perverse Sense. Since therefore the Words of John are so clear, and attribute the same Divinity to the Word, or the Son, as belongs to the Father; nothing more can be required to the former Proof of the minor Proposition of the second Syllogism, than that every one should be referred to the Words of John, without adding a single word to them. But it was thought convenient to produce some Arguments for their sake, who will not be content with plain Words. And if there be any who will not yet be satisfied, nor admit the Things which St. John affirms in express Words, but will still require some other Demonstration of the true and essential Divinity of our Lord Jesus Christ: In order to gratify such a one farther, we shall quote the 1st Epistle of John, chap. v. ver. 20. in which John interprets himself, saying, We know that the Son of God is come, and hath given us an Understanding, that we may know Him that is true: and we are in Him that is true, even in his Son Jesus Christ. This (is) is the true God, and Eternal Life. Of whom is the Discourse here? Is it not of Jesus Christ? who is that true One, in whom we are?

* 1 John i. 2.

are? Is it not Jesus Christ? Here therefore this Jesus is said to be the true God; whereby John declares, how He would have it be understood, that in this same Verse he calls Him ὁ ἀληθινός, Him that is true, surely in such a Sense, as that He is the true God. And who, I pray, is it, that in the Holy Scriptures is called Eternal Life? Is not this the Name that belongs to the Son of God? and is every where given Him. Does not John himself, 1st Epist. i. 2. call Him that Eternal Life, which was with the Father? Does not he tell us, Chap. v. 11, 12. of the same Epistle, that Eternal Life is in the Son; that he that hath the Son, hath Life; and he that hath not the Son, hath not Life? And behold, he not only affirms of this same Jesus Christ, that He is Life Eternal, but says, ver. 20. This is the true God, and Eternal Life; and adds, Little Children, keep your selves from Idols: That he might thereby every way attest, that the true and essential Divinity of the Son of God, ought to be acknowledged by us. For if John, as is well to be observ'd, had so great a Care of the Churches, as to admonish Them to beware of Idols, how could he prevail upon himself to give the greatest Occasion of all for Idolatry? But he would certainly have given it, had he declared those Things of any Created Being, ing, which he has spoken concerning Christ, in his Gospel, his Epistles, and Revelation. Moreover, those Things should be well consider'd, which are written, John xiv. 8, 9, 10, 11. Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us. Jesus saith unto him, He that hath seen me, hath seen the Father; believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me. Now what else in effect does Christ say here, but that He and the Father are One? Can it be thought the Inquiry in this Place was about the Unity of Will and Affection? No, by no means. For how can you find this Sense in the Words of Philip, and how could the Answer of our Lord suit with the Request of Philip, if he would thereby have declared nothing to him more, but that He and the Father were so united by Consent of Will and Affection, as two Friends are united together, or as every Believer is joined with God, by an Union of Will. Wherefore this is the obvious Meaning of John's Words, that the Son is of the same Divine and Individual Essence with the Father. St. Paul also calls our Lord Jesus Christ, God over All, blessed for ever *. What other lofty Names are in many Places of Scripture attributed to Christ, agreeing to the one, true and essential God, and that He

* Rom. ix. 5.

He is particularly called Jehovah, that is, the Essential God, subsisting by Himself, may be seen hereafter in the INDEX of the Divine Names or Titles of Christ; in which, nevertheless, for Brevity's sake, there are but few of them enumerated: whereas it could be easily shewn, that Moses, the Prophets and the Psalms, are full of clear Testimonies of the Divinity of Christ. May it please God to open the Hearts of many to attend diligently to this important Affair. But from what hath been said, it is abundantly manifest, that the Conclusion above made remains firm, viz. That Jesus Christ is the true, the essential, and living God; because it appears clearer than Meridian Light, not only from the plain Words of John, (which way soever they are placed and turn'd) but also from the universal Testimony of all the Holy Writings. Why therefore doth blind and wretched Reason take such Pains to depreciate and deny the Lord, by whom are all Things, and we by Him *? May we not hence conclude, how fearful and dangerous it is for any one to go about to read the Holy Scriptures but as an humble and meek Disciple, whose Part it is, without Contradiction, to believe the Things which the Scripture delivers us in clear and perspicuous Words. But tho' the

* 1 Cor. viii. 6.

the two Arguments now alledg'd, are abundantly sufficient to convince and satisfy the Mind, concerning the true and essential Divinity of Christ; yet there still remain, in the Beginning of this Gospel, many more of no less Conviction to the Heart, which now follow.

The Third Argument.

“ H E, by whom all Things were made,
“ and without whom nothing was made,
“ that was made, is equally with the Fa- “ ther the only true and Almighty God.
“ But Christ is He, by whom all Things “ were made, and without whom nothing “ was made that was made: Therefore “ Christ is the only true and Almighty God.”
No Man hath any Reason to doubt of the Truth of the major Proposition; for every one can easily understand, that He, by whom all Things (that are out of God, or may be said to be created) were created, cannot possibly be any other, than the true, essential, and Almighty God. But perhaps Reason will seek for a Subterfuge in the word By, and say, that He who Himself created All Things, must indeed be the only true and Almighty God; but that He by whom all Things were created, must

110 Christ the Sum and Substance

must be said to have first received Power and Efficacy from One Higher than Himself, by the Advantage whereof afterwards, and so not from his own Power and Vertue, nor from Divine Omnipotence properly so called, created all Things: Therefore that He cannot be called the True and Almighty God, by whom, as by an Organ and Instrument, all Things were made; but that the True and Almighty God made use of Him as an Instrument, and so created all Things by Him. That this Objection may be the more solidly answer'd, the major Proposition might thus have been formed, with so much the greater Emphasis: "To whom the Creation of " Heaven and Earth, yea, the Creation of
" all Things that are in Heaven and Earth,
" without Exception of any Thing crea" ted, is ascribed, not so only as effected
" by Him, but as to the Creator Himself;
" and indeed in such a way, that it could " not be assigned to any other after a more
" sublime manner: He is the only True,
" Omnipotent, and Essential God." Every one sees, that This cannot be said of an Angel, nor of any Thing else, that may be used as an Instrument; but 'tis manifestly clear, that This is affirmed of Christ in the Holy Scriptures. Therefore as St. John says, all Things were made by the Word, and without Him was not any Thing

Thing made, that was made; so St. Paul declares these Things more at large: * By Him were all Things created, that are in Heaven, and that are in Earth, visible and invisible; whether they be Thrones, or Dominions, or Principalities, or Powers: all Things were created by Him, and for Him. And He is before all Things, and by Him all Things consist. Note here in the first Place, for hence it may thoroughly be understood, that such Things as these cannot be spoken of a meer Instrument, nor of an Angel, nor of any other Thing which is not God Himself. For He, by whom not only all Things, but for whom all visible Things were created, nay, who is before all Things, and by whom, or in whom all Things do consist, (or are preserv'd in their Being) He, I say, can by no means be created, but must Himself be the essential God: and this is Christ himself. Note then, that as St. Paul says by whom also (in the oblique Case) he made the Worlds † (τῶς αἰῶνας, secula, the Ages, whatsoever is in any manner circumscribed by Time:) So he presently after affirms of Him, (in the Nominative Case) that He, as the Brightness of his Glory, and the express Image of his Person, upholdeth all Things by the Word of his Power; so that nothing can subsist, unless

* Col. i. 16, 17.

† Heb. i. 2.

112 Christ the Sum and Substance

unless it be supported by his powerful Word; which certainly is not the proper Work of any created Being, but of the living God alone: For he does not here say by whom, but who (the Son, there spoken of) upholds all Things by the Word of his Power. And if you still desire farther Proofs, turn your Eyes immediately to the following Quotations, and observe, that the Holy Spirit does not so tie himself to the Use of the Particle by, but attributes unto Christ the Work of Creation simply, in the Nominative Case, speaking of the Son thus: Σὺ κτίεις, * Thou, Lord, in the Beginning (or of old) hast laid the Foundation of the Earth, and the Heavens are the Work of thy Hands. They shall perish, but thou shalt endure (but thou remainest) and they all shall wax old like a Garment, and as a Vesture thou shalt change them, and they shall be changed. But thou art the same, and thy Years shall have no End. Therefore is not He, who laid the Foundation of the Earth, and whose Handy-work the Heavens are, who shall change the Heavens themselves, and who always remains the same; the Eternal, the Living and Almighty God, with whom is no Variableness †? Now it is evident beyond all Controversy, that these Things are spoken of Christ, for the Epistle

* Psalm cii. 25, &c.

† James i. 17.

Epistle to the Hebrews avers it in express Words; and it is acknowledg'd by All, that the cii^d Psalms is to be understood of the Messiah. If any one shall object, that these Things are spoken of the New Creation; he should know, that neither the τὸ πρῶτον ἀρχαίς, in the Beginning, nor this Change or Transmutation of Heaven and Earth, nor the Things that go before, can suit with such a Suggestion. But if Christ be He that laid the Foundation of the Earth, &c. what, I pray, can be more evident, than that Christ himself is the true, essential and Almighty God? May we not say to Him; * O Jehovah, thou art our Father: we are the Clay, and thou our Potter, and we all are the Work of thy Hand? Canot we perceive that it is Christ, of whom it is said, † Thy Maker is thy Husband, (the Lord of Hosts is his Name) and thy Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel, the God of the whole Earth, shall He be called? Behold! thus the Prophetick Spirit speaks of Christ, and instructs us how we ought to celebrate and resound the Glory of the Son of God, with a Name and Titles worthy of Him. For who, I beseech you, is the Husband of the Church? Is not Christ so denominated in the very Institution of Matrimony? Does not St. Paul say, * This is a great Mystery : but I speak concerning Christ and the Church. And I have espoused you to one Husband, that I may present you as a chaste Virgin to Christ †? It is manifest that That Man does not understand the whole Oeconomy of God in the Old and New Testament, nor has he perceiv'd the Mystery of Christ in the Scriptures, who denies, that Isaiab doth comfort and encourage the Church, by representing Christ to her as her Husband, who is likewise her Maker, and not only as her Husband, but also her Redeemer, טוּן לְנַג which is the proper Work and Office of Christ, and shadowed in the Law by Types. Compare also here Isa. lxii. 5. but he calls this Person, from the Work of Creation, the God of the whole Earth; yea, he affirms that this their Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel, should be called the God of the whole Earth, whose Name he had called יהוה Jehovah, the essential God, the God of Hosts. And the Holy Scriptures are full of the like Expressions, wherein the Messiah is set before us as Creator; but there is not so much as one Text in all the Sacred Writings, in which Christ himself is said to be a Thing created, or that He was made by God. Jerome has most fully vindicated, by rightly tran-translating one Word of the authentick Hebrew Text, that Place in Prov. viii. 22. which Arius hath very much abused. For whereas Arius out of some Copies of the Version of the LXX Interpreters, reads it thus; Κύριος ἔκτισέ με ἀρχὴν ὁδῶν αὐτοῦ, i. e. Jehovah creavit me initium viarum suarum, i. e. The Lord created me the Beginning of his Ways: Jerome has to this most rightly opposed the Hebrew word יָנִי (to which the Translation ought to have been entirely agreeable) which Hebrew word does not at all signify creavit me, created me, sed possedit me, but possessed me; by which Interpretation he has also answer'd that Place in Ecclus. xxiv. 9. Πρὸ τοῦ αἰῶνος ἀπ' ἀρχῆς ἔκτισέ με: Ante seculum à Principio creavit me, i. e. He created me from the Beginning before the World; inasmuch as this was taken from the wrong Version of the Hebrew word just mention'd. [Note, the English Translation runs thus: Prov. viii. 22. The Lord possessed me in the Beginning of his Way, before his Works of old.] If a Man's Mind be so enlighten'd by the Lord, that he comes to understand the Prophecies concerning the Messiah, or the Scriptures which speak of Him, he will then easily know, that the cth Psalm is nothing else but an Acclamation of the Prophetick Spirit, which relates to the Messiah; saying, Make a joyful Noise unto the Lord, all ye Lands: serve the Lord with Gladness, and come before his Presence with Singing. Know ye that the Lord he is God, it is He that hath made us, and not we our selves; we are his People, and the Sheep of his Pasture. He will then also easily understand that Moses sang not of any other Person: Psal. xc. 2, 3. Before the Mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the Earth and the World: even from everlasting to everlasting thou art God. Thou turnest Man to Destruction, and sayest, Return ye Children of Men. Is it not the Voice of the blessed Son of God, which the Dead in their Graves are one Day to hear, and come forth? And if there be any one, to whom these especially, or any other the like Places of Scripture may not seem so clear and perspicuous, as to be convinced immediately from them of the Omnipotence and Divine Glory of Jesus Christ; he ought not from hence to conclude, that others may not have a greater Conviction of Mind from them, but he ought humbly to pray to God for a better Understanding of his Word: so He will in due time open his Eyes more and more, that he may be able to find every where in Moses and the Prophets, the clearest Testimonies timonies concerning the Omnipotence and Majesty of Christ; as St. John in the Beginning of his Gospel, already considered by us, furnishes an Example of this Matter from the first Chapter of Genesis, where certainly another Person, who by his own Reason, void of Divine Light, should attempt this, will not be able to discover from thence the Eternal Divinity and Omnipotence of Christ. In the mean time, it is the Duty of every one to be contented with those plain and open Testimonies which we have produced above, and most carefully to beware that he deny not any Thing to Christ, which the Holy Spirit adjudges by clear and evident Words to belong to Him. Therefore although from this manifest Proof of the minor Proposition, the Conclusion stands firm and uncontrollable, that Christ, being the Maker of Heaven and Earth, is the True and Almighty God; yet still this Scruple, which some may perhaps have, is to be more solidly removed. It is asked, but why does John use the Particle by; or why does he say, all Things were made by Him, and not rather, He made all Things? And for what Reason does the Scripture also elsewhere in this very Matter use this Particle by? To which it is answer'd, that this was not done in any wise to derogate from the Majesty of Christ,

* Isai. lxiv. 8. † Isai. liv. 5.

118 Christ the Sum and Substance

Christ; whereto corrupt Reason most shamefully bends; forasmuch as without any Controversy it is written of Almighty God, * Of Him, and through Him, (or, by Him, δι' αὐτοῦ, per eum) and to Him, are all Things; to whom be Glory for ever. Amen. In like manner it is written; † It became Him, for whom are all Things, and by whom are all Things, in bringing many Sons unto Glory, to make the Captain of their Salvation perfect through Sufferings: Not to mention now any more Places of Scripture. But the Holy Scriptures do the rather use this Particle, that we may thereby acknowledge the Glory of Christ: as also the Scope of this Particle by is manifest from Col. i. 16—20. This is most evidently seen in St. John: For after he had assigned Eternity to Christ, and had declared Him Equal to the Father in his Divinity, as being of the same Essence with Him, he ascribes also the same Omnipotence to Him, which is due to the Father, and makes not the Particle per, by, to derogate more from his Divine Majesty, than the Particle apud, with, which he uses in the 1st and 2^d Verses of his Gospel. Nay, when he had already in express Words assigned to the Son Eternity, and the true and essential Divinity, he knew well, that the Sense of the the 3^d Verse could not be understood of any other than the divine Omnipotence. But by reason of the Mystery of the Father and the Son, * who are of the same Essence, but distinct in their Personality, he uses in this Place the Particle αὐτός, with, as well as that of διὰ, by, and makes Christ himself to be his own Interpreter, † saying to the Jews; My Father worketh hitherto, and I work. But to the Jews, who easily perceived from this Saying, that he did not call God his Father after a common way of speaking, but that He made himself equal with God; He said moreover, Verily, verily, I say unto you, the Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do; for what Things soever he doth, these also doth the Son likewise. By which Words indeed Christ honoureth his Father, but teaches at the same time, ver. 23. that all Men should honour the Son, even as they honour the Father. He that honoureth not the Son, (understand, even as he honoureth the Father) honoureth not the Father which hath sent him. Likewise in St. Paul's Epistles, when the Particle διὰ, by, is used concerning the Son, it is so clearly signified by other Words, and so sublime a Sense is given to it, that any one may easily perceive he does nothing else, but propose the Order of the divine Operations, and declare, that all Manifestation of the Father, both in the Kingdom of Nature and Grace, is made by the Son, and in the Son, as the eternal Word of God. And as long as this is not understood from the Word of God, so long also it is not understood as it ought to be, what Christ is, and what is obtained by Him.

S E C T. LI.

The Fourth Argument.

“ THE first Principle or Cause
 “ Original of Life is the true and essen“ tial God: The Word, as by which all “ living Things were created, is the first “ Principle or Cause Original of Life;
 “ therefore the Word is the true and es“ sential God.” Or, “ He by whom all “ created Things do live, and who gives “ Life to all created Things, must be God:
 “ The Word gives Life to all Creatures;
 “ Therefore the Word must be God.”

By this twofold way of Reasoning, the Reverend John Arndius forms his Conclusion from the Words of St. John. No one could doubt of the major Proposition, who would but a little consider it. For indeed a Man's Reason cannot conceive, how to be the first Original or Principle of

of Life, or to be Him by whom all created Beings do live, and who gives Life to all created Things, can be assigned to any other than the living God. Whence God is not only wont to be called in the Holy Scriptures the living God *, but the Origin and Fountain of Life is also attributed to him alone, as David says; † With thee, (עִמָּךְ אֱלֹהִים וְעִמָּךְ, with God, Joh. i. 2.) is the Fountain of Life. By which Fountain of Life, no other indeed but Christ is in this Place to be understood. But if any one should not be perswaded of this, yet he cannot deny but that the Fountain and Beginning of Life is to be ascribed to God alone, all other Beings, which cannot be said to be God, being excluded: With which Place ought to be compared, Jer. ii. 13. where it is said, They have forsaken me, the Fountain of living Waters; which it is manifest can't be understood of any other, but of the living God. As to what now belongs to the minor Proposition, we are plainly enough taught in the New Testament, where we ought to seek this Fountain of Life, or Source of living Waters. For thus Christ says to the Woman of Samaria, John iv. 10. If thou knewest the Gift of God, and who it is that that saith to thee, Give me to drink, thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee living Water: and ver. 14. Whosoever drinketh of the Water that I shall give him, shall never thirst; but the Water that I shall give him, shall be in him a Well of Water springing up into everlasting Life. This is what John saith: In Him was Life, (Joh. i. 4.) If any one would so understand these Words, as if nothing else were meant by them, but what is wont to be said of any other living Thing, to wit, that there is Life in it, it is most evident, this was not the Thing that John was concern'd about: For what had he said worthy the mentioning? How would this agree with what he had said before? How with what follows, where this Life is called the Light of Men, (Joh. i. 4. latter part): Wherefore by this Expression, [that in Him (i. e. in Christ) Life is said to be] something more sublime must necessarily be denoted, to wit, the very Origin of Life, which cannot be in any created Thing, but is in Christ, as the true and essential God. But if some would still interpret these Things no farther than that therefore only there is Life in Christ, because He hath taught other Men the Way of Life, every one must perceive that such an Interpretation is very far from reaching the Intention of St. John, since neither

neither this so agrees with the preceding and following Words, that it should be taken for their adequate Meaning. And might not the same Thing have been said in this Sense of John the Baptist? But since this remarkable Predicate is plainly in the Text denied to John the Baptist, but is given to Christ, tho' John, by the Testimony of Christ himself, was the greatest that were born of Women; certainly 'tis evident, that by this the Text instructs us, that Christ is more than a meer Man; that the Principle of Life is to be sought for in Him, and cannot be looked for in any created Thing. Truly these, and other the like Interpretations, are so managed, that it is easy for every one that considers them without prejudicate Opinions to know, that the sublime Declarations which are here made of Christ, are by such Interpretations extremely, and as far as can be done by corrupt Reason, industriously extenuated. Therefore let the Matter be consider'd as it plainly appears in the Text with its Connexion, and it will be easily and without Trouble perceiv'd, (1.) That these Words, In him was Life, flow from the antecedent Words. Now in the former Words, the Eternity of the Son, his true and essential Divinity, and his Omnipotence, are by John in plain Words set before our Eyes, (of

124 Christ the Sum and Substance

(of all which we have already discoursed) from Thence therefore now properly follows what St. John here affirms concerning the Word, to wit, that in Him was Life, as in the Eternal, Essential, and Almighty God, together with the Father. But especially this latter Assertion, (in Him was Life) is most closely conjoined with his Omnipotence, which shews itself in the Creation of all Things. And hence (2.) it clearly follows, that St. John's Meaning was this: As all Things were made by the Word, and without Him was nothing made that was made; so neither was Life made or produced in any created Thing without the Word of God, in whom the Fountain and Origin of Life in such a manner is, as out of Him to transfuse itself into Things created, and thereby to impart Life to them: Which if we diligently consider, we shall easily perceive (3.) This also to lie hid in the Words of John; that the Son of God, in his eternal Generation from the Father, in which he has his Divine Essence, had Life also from Eternity, as he himself says; Joh. v. 26. As the Father hath Life in Himself, so hath he given to the Son to have Life in Himself. Therefore this Fountain of Life, the Word of God, which hath imparted Life to his Creatures, is an eternal Fountain flowing out of the eternal

eternal Generation from the Father. On which Subject the Reverend Dr. Spener hath discoursed with great Solidity, in his Sermon concerning the eternal Generation of the Son of God. Wherefore (4.) this also is contained in the Words of John: that this Life, which flowed from this eternal Fountain into Things created, does also preserve the Things that are created; as for that Reason St. Paul says, * by Him all Things consist: and † He upholdeth all Things by the Word of his Power: And from the same Foundation, ‡ Thou hidest thy Face, they (the Things created) are troubled; thou takest away their Breath, they die, and return to their Dust. Thou sendest forth thy Spirit, they are created: and thou renewest the Face of the Earth. Hence also the Son of Sirach introduces this Word of God speaking in this manner: || I came out of the Mouth of the most High, and covered the Earth as a Cloud. I dwelt in high Places, and my Throne is in a cloudy Pillar. I alone compassed the Circuit of Heaven, and walked in the Bottom of the Deep; in the Waves of the Sea, and in all the Earth. The Reverend John Arndius, in his Evangelical Postill, writes excellently on this Subject: “ All Things are full of God, and they live, are,

“ need of a sublime Understanding, to “ know how all Things live in the Word,
“ by the Word, and from the Word, as St.
“ Paul tells the Romans, Chap. xi. 36. For
“ of Him, and through Him, and to Him
“ are all Things.” And the same Author,
Lib. IV. c. 6. concerning True Christia- nity, says thus: “ This Virtue and enlive“ ning

ning Power of God, is that Word, by which all Things were created. By the Word of the Lord, the Heavens were created, and all the Host of them by the Breath of his Mouth, Pf. xxxiii. 6. This Word which God spake, did not vanish away, and was not a meer Sound only; but was the Life of all created Beings, remaining with them, and is that Power which preserveth all Things; according to that of St. Paul, Heb. i. 3. The Lord upholdeth all Things by the Word of his Power. For as the Shadow depends upon the Tree, so does our Life depend upon God. Herein consists the Foundation of all true Wisdom; so that whatsoever obtains the Name of Wisdom, is counterfeit and vain, unless it has Christ for its Foundation, as the Principle of all Life, and by whom all Things consist. Wherefore St. Paul having laid this Foundation in his Epistle to the Colossians, ch. i. ver. 15, 16, 17. admonishes them thus, chap. ii. 8. Beware lest any Man spoil you through Philosophy and vain Deceit, after the Tradition of Men, after the Rudiments of the World, and not after Christ; and he subjoins the Cause; for in Him dwelleth all the Fulness of the Godhead bodily: and ye are complete in Him. Of so great moment is it, that in Christ Life is said to have been, to be, and always will be; and that that without Him all Things are dead: from which Doctrine, we must of necessity come to the Knowledge of his supernatural Glory. But as our natural Life has its Origin from the eternal Word of God, and is preserved by It alone, so (5.) the same Word is also the Fountain and Beginning of spiritual Life: For we are all by the Fall of Adam liable to Death, as St. Paul expressly teaches, both in his Epistle to the Ephesians, chap. ii. and in that to the Colossians, chap. ii. Therefore Christ is not only the Way, by which we escape to Life, nor only the Truth in which we reach to it, but He is also the Life itself; or Life is so in Him, as John speaks, that He raises and revives from spiritual Death (Ephes. ii. 1.) yea, that He not only bestows Life, but also is Life itself, and remains in them who believe in Him. Hence St. Paul says; * I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: And, † To me to live is Christ. But altho' this spiritual Life is properly the true Life, and natural Life, being subject to Corruption, and a Curse, cannot be said to be the true Life; but rather Man, considered according to Nature, as the Son of Wrath, is alienated from the Life of God; ‡ Yet this spiritual and in itself truest Life, is hid with Christ in God, until Christ our Life shall be be made manifest, and then also we being made manifest with Him, shall become glorious *. Wherefore (6.) also the Life of Glory is in Christ, I say, of eternal and infinite Glory, when Christ shall be glorified in his Saints, and come to be admired in all them that believe †. This Life is in the Son, as John declares. Therefore from all that has been said, the Argument of this Section runs the more clearly thus. “ He in whom as the eternal Son of God, and the Creator of all Things, is the Beginning of all natural and spiritual Life, yea, the Life of future Glory, and in whom all natural and spiritual Life, as likewise the Life of eternal Glory, does consist; He is the true, essential, and the living God. All these Things are most clearly demonstrated concerning Christ out of the Holy Scriptures: Therefore Christ is the true, essential, and living God.

† 2 Theff. i. 9, 10.

130 Christ the Sun and Substance

“ John the Baptist (who otherwise was a “ burning and a shining Light) ought to “ be reputed as no Light at all, or as a “ Shadow only; and who is the Origin of “ Light, and the true Light of Life, with“ out whom all Things remain in Death
“ and Darkness; He, together with the “ Father, is the true and essential God, “ Christ is that Light, of which all these “ Things are clearly expressed in Holy “ Scripture: Therefore Christ, together “ with the Father, is the true and essen“ tial God.” The first Proposition likewise can't be denied: For altho' otherwise the word Light in the Holy Scriptures, is sometimes taken, not only for that Light, which God created on the first Day, and for the Light of the Sun and of the other Stars, as also for the natural Light of the Day, but also in a spiritual Signification, for Men divinely enlightned, especially for those whom God makes use of as Instruments for the Conversion and Illumination of many other Persons: yet
the Description of Light abovemention'd, is so framed, that it cannot possibly suit with any Man, or Angel, or with any other created Being whatsoever. Yea, in these two Denominations of Life and Light, (if they be described after so sublime a manner, as Life is described in the former Argument, and Light in this) the whole

whole Work of Redemption is founded, or all Mankind are deliver'd from Death and Darknes, and translated into the Kingdom of Life and Light. Which great Work, no created Being could by any means, much less by itself, possibly achieve; as neither is it assigned to any created Thing in all the Holy Scriptures. Since therefore it most evidently appears, that Christ is that Light which illuminates all Men, and from which all other Light is deriv'd, as from its Fountain, and which translates from the Darknes of Death into the Light of eternal Life, and does all this by itself; the Conclusion remains firm; that Christ, together with the Father, is the true and essential God. Now here St. John witnesses concerning Christ, that He is the Light of Men; and he explains himself by saying, that this Light illuminates all Men: (Joh. i. 9.) Nay, he does not simply affirm of Christ, that He is the Light of Men, but after he had described his Eternity, his true Godhead, and his Omnipotence in the Work of the Creation, and from this last Attribute especially, had propounded Him as the Origin of Life; he adds, with a wonderful and holy Emphasis, And the Life was the Light of Men, (Joh. i. 4.) By which he teaches, that Christ as the Light was then present in the Beginning, and as soon as Men were made, (and so before the Fall) he was the Light of Men. And when this Light (Christ) seem'd to have disappeared after the Fall, yet nevertheless this Light still shineth (παύει) in the Darkness, altho' the Darkness comprehend it not. This sublime Predicate by the Word Light, obtains now a higher and more excellent Signification, than it carries with it in many Places of the Holy Scriptures. For Things created are indeed called Lights; but where is it said of Man, or of any other created Being, that in it is Life, and that this Life is the Light of Men, which shined in them before the Fall, and that after the Fall it remained always the same, and of itself immutable; that it shines, tho' the Darkness comprehend it not: the Light of Men before the Fall, and a Light illuminating them again, and rescuing them out of Darkness after the Fall? We may from thence draw such a Conclusion, as *St. Paul does in arguing the same way, when he would make known the Divine Glory of Christ from hence, that God in all the Holy Scripture is never said to have spoken so to any Angel, as he spake to Christ. (Psal. ii. 7.) wherefore this Expression of St. John now mention'd, clearly imports, that Christ is also the Origin of all

132 Christ the Sum and Substance

* Heb. i. 3.

all Light. For as it naturally follows from his Power of creating, that in Him is not only Life, but the Principle of Life; so from the same Power, it no less naturally follows, that He is not only Light, but also the Principle of Light: from whence also 'tis attributed to Him, as the Origin of Light, that he illuminates all Men. And tho' it might have been sufficient for St. John to have testify'd so plainly and clearly of Christ as the Eternal Light, the Source of all Light, the vivifying Light, and the illuminating Life; yet we find, it was his chief Concern, after he had once called Christ the Life and the Light of Men, to describe this Light more fully, that it might be understood in so sublime a Sense, as cannot be referr'd to any created Thing. Therefore in the first Place he alledges John the Baptist, who appeared so great a Light among the People of the Jews, that there went out to Him Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the Region round about Jordan; and were baptized of Him in Jordan, confessing their Sins *. Nay, that not only the People thought highly of Him, so that even the Scribes and Pharisees were afraid to say that his Baptism was of Men †; but that also Christ himself called him λύχης, a

134 Christ the Sum and Substance

Light, and indeed with a great and singular Emphasis, a burning and a shining Light, (Joh. v. 35.) Moreover, it deserves well to be minded, that a long time after our Saviour's Resurrection, the Effusion of the Holy Ghost, and the first Publication of the Gospel, there were many Persons, who were taught only the Baptism of John, so that Apollos himself, an eloquent Man, mighty in the Scriptures, and also fervent in the Spirit, who spake and taught diligently (ἀκριβῶς, accurate, accurately) the Things of the Lord, is said to have known only the *Baptism of John: In like manner St. Paul at Ephesus, † found certain Disciples, who had not so much as heard, whether there were any Holy Ghost, being baptized unto John's Baptism. Which singular Circumstances, and many others, may teach us how great, and how excellent a Light John the Baptist was, and that his Reputation among the People, (who would have had Him for their Messiah, which he altogether declined) did not expire with his || Life. Whence it may more easily be understood, what Motive occasion'd the Evangelist so industriously to name John the Baptist, and to give Him his due Praise; yet so to circumscribe it, that thereby there should be

be no Derogation to the Glory of Christ: For of Him (viz. John the Baptist) tho' otherwise a great Light, he absolutely denies that He was that Light, but that he only bore witness of that Light. For it had by no means been sufficient to have said here, that Christ was a greater Light than John: but in this lay the Stress of the whole Matter; who is the Light of Life, the Origin of Light, the true Light of the World, that Light, without which all other Persons, and even John himself, tho' in some respects called Lights, are meer Darkness; who, I say, is this Light, which delivers from Death and Darkness; the saving, vivifying and eternal Light? Wherefore he simply says, that John was not that Light; which he could not have said, unless it had been his Intention to shew that he spake in this Place of Light, in a much more sublime Sense, than could be applied to any created Being. Nor thought he it sufficient to say, that John was not that Light, but shews that the whole Business and Office of John, was only by his Life and Doctrine to bear witness of that Light, and to point out as it were with his Fingers that Light, by which every mortal Man must be illuminated and enliven'd; which Power could neither be expected from him, nor from any other Creature. Nor does the Evangelist stop here, but adds, that Christ is that true Light, which illuminates every Man, (Joh. i. 9.) But it may be asked, Was John then not a true, but a false Light? or, was that Light which God created on the first Day not a true Light? It was without all Doubt: therefore in this Place, the Word ἀληθινόν, [true] ver. 9. ascribed unto Christ, is to be received in a more sublime and excellent Sense; as He is called the true Bread, which came down from Heaven, and giveth Life to the World, that whosoever believeth in Him should not die; whence also He is said to be the living Bread, and to be Meat indeed, and Drink indeed *; as He is also called the true Vine †: and so in many other Examples. For Christ is the Truth itself ‡, and in Him is the Fulness of Truth ||. Nay, by those Words which we now chiefly consider, St. John explains himself, why he calls Christ the true Light, viz. because He illuminates every Man; which cannot be said of any other Light, howsoever in its kind It be not a false, but a true Light. But in all these Places, the Evangelist makes this Difference between Christ as the true Light, and John, or any other Light, that Christ, as the true Light, illuminates Men of himself, or infuses Light

into their Minds, or kindles and excites it in them, which cannot be affirmed of any other Light, or of any created Thing. For that Reason he had said before, * In Him was Life, and the Life was the Light of Men. Therefore as He hath Life in himself, so likewise hath He Light in himself; and as He can give Life to whom He will, so He can illuminate whom He will: By which Expressions there are no Limits set to his universal Love, but his Glory is extolled. And as He is said by himself to have purged our Sins †, (which is a mighty Testimony of his Divine Glory) so He may be said no less truly, and from the same Principle, to illuminate Men by Himself. But concerning those who are meer Men, St. Paul speaks plainly otherwise; saying, ‡ God, who hath said, that Light should shine out of Darknes, is he who hath shined in our Hearts, to give the Light of the Knowledge of the Glory of God, in the Face of Jesus Christ. As in like manner Job saith, || He puts Light in his Angels. Hence therefore it farther appears, that Christ is called Light, by no way that can agree with Things created, but that He is the eternal and essential Life, and the saving Light; and so that this Appellation, as it is given to Him by

St. John, cannot possibly be assign'd to any other, but only to the true, eternal, and essential God. But tho' St. John may seem abundantly to have shewn in how sublime a Sense he called Christ the Light, and that hereby he distinguishes Him from all created Beings; yet advancing farther, he makes this Matter still more evident: for he says of Christ, as the true Light, enlightning every Man, That this Light (as the comparing of the whole Context in Greek, and of other Places, especially Job. iii. 19. and chap. xii. 46. so requires) came into this World, to wit, as the Light of the World, * to enlighten and save it, or rescue it from Death and eternal Destruction, † to which it is subject. As afterwards it is said, He came eis na' israhel, ad sua, ‡ unto his own, that is, the House of Israel. Therefore, altho' this Doctrine that He came into the World as the Light of the World, be so expressed, as that his Divine Glory ought thence to be acknowledg'd, yet because some may perhaps wrest these Words contrary to the Mind of St. John, and falsly conclude from them, As if when Christ came into the World, He himself began Then to exist; he therefore presently subjoins, He was in the World; and by always adhering to the word Light, he most most clearly affirms concerning Christ, that He did not Then begin to be the Light of the World when He came into it, but that He was the Light of the World before He came into the World; which cannot be asserted of a meer Man, or of any created Thing. For John hereby plainly teaches, that Christ is the Eternal Light, (even as He is the Eternal Life. * And this Life (viz. this Eternal Life) was also the Light of Men, and was in the World;) by which Words there is a clear Testimony given to the true Godhead of Christ. Moreover, he adds, and the World was made by Him, (Joh. i. 10.) And thus again he uses the word Light; and calls this Light the Maker of the World, as he had before said of the Word, that all Things were made by Him: And when he subjoins, but the World knew Him not, he manifestly uses the same Complaint which the Prophets often made, that mortal Men would not acknowledge their Creator and Preserver. Thus, among others, Isaiab begins his Prophecy; ch. i. 2, 3. Hear, O Heavens, and give Ear, O Earth, for the Lord hath spoken; I have nourished and brought up Children, and they have rebelled against me! The Ox knoweth his Owner, and the Ass his Master's Crib: but Israel doth not know, my People doth not consider. Pray, who can turn his Thoughts in any measure to the Consideration of these Things, and not presently perceive how powerful an Argument of the Divine Glory of Jesus Christ is to be found in the Words of St. John, when he says; The World was made by Him, but the World knew Him not? But as John attributes to Christ, as the Eternal Light, the Creation of the World, and consequently Omnipotence; so Paul represents Christ, as the Word of God, and attributes to him Omniscience, as to the essential and eternal Light, glittering and shining every where, even in Darkness, and says, *that He is a Discerner of the Thoughts and Intents of the Heart. Neither is there any Creature that is not manifest in his Sight: but all Things are naked and open to the Eyes of Him. Which Assertion cannot be used of the written Word; and therefore he adds, with whom (to wit, Christ, the eternal Word of God) we have to do. Therefore when Christ is said to be the Light, his Omniscience is thereby comprehended, (which also his Disciples acknowledged, and professed to be in Him; which Christ would not have suffered them to do, if it had been an Error in them: see Job. ii. 24, 25. chap. vi. 64. and xvi. 30. See also a most clear Testi-

Testimony of his Omniscience, in Rev. ii. 18, 19. where the Son of God speaking, ver. 23. says, that He is the Searcher of the Reins and the Hearts, which in all the Holy Scriptures is wont to be alledged as the peculiar and chief Property of God †. This again is a most evident Testimony of his true and essential Godhead. Wherefore also St. Paul, in the Place now alledged out of his Epistle to the Hebrews, distinguishes Him from all created Beings, nay, he puts all Things that are created before his All-seeing Eye as their Creator, who throughly inspects all Things. Who dares affirm this of any Thing that is created? But if any one will here consult the Collation above made of the Words of St. John, with other Places of the Old and New Testament, he will be so much the more convinc'd of the truly Divine Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ, and will thereby the more readily obey Him, who cries out, and says; *He that believeth on me, believeth not on me (only) but on Him that sent me. And he that seeth me, seeth Him that sent me. I am come a Light into the World, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in Darkness. And I am the Light of the World: he that followeth me, shall not walk walk in Darkness, but shall have the Light of Life * : which Words cannot be understood, but of the Origin of Life and Light, and consequently of the true and essential Godhead of Jesus Christ our Lord.

The Sixth Argument.

“ HE, of whom St. John, and with “ him all the Servants of God, in the “ Old and New Testament, unanimously “ testify, that all Men ought to believe
“ in Him, and that after so excellent “ a manner, as no other Thing can be “ believed in without the most heinous “ Crime of Idolatry; since the Faith
“ required to be in Him, comprehends
“ all the Duties, which are to be per“ form'd to the living God alone: He, I “ say, is with the Father, the true, the “ living and essential God. But in Christ
“ such a Faith is required: Therefore “ Christ is with the Father the true, the “ living, and essential God.” The major Proposition is without all Doubt and Con-troverfy; for God cannot be repugnant to himself: and since in his Word he names the Crime of Idolatry among the most grievous and detestable Sins, it cannot reasonably

* John viii. 12.

sonably be imagin'd that all his Servants and Witnesses, sent and instructed with Evidence by himself, should set up and unanimously establish the superstitious Worship of any created Thing. Therefore in the major Proposition it is only to be observ'd, that there is no Question here, whether Faith is to be given to a Man, or to a created Being; or whether 'tis not so far lawful to believe in any of God's Messengers, that one may receive their Words as true, and use them for Doctrine, Reproof, Correction, and Comfort. For every one already knows, that this Faith is rather commanded by God; and therefore 'tis not to be looked on as Idolatry, if in obeying the Divine Command, we believe the true Prophets of God, and the Servants sent by Him: Nay, God will not suffer him to go unpunish'd, who refuses to do this. Therefore in the major Proposition it is most clearly shewn, what Faith is required, to wit, such a Faith as is not to be given to any created Thing, without the Crime of Idolatry, and which comprehends all the Duties which are to be paid to God alone. When therefore it is evident, that such a Faith in Christ is required in the Holy Scriptures, certainly it cannot be, that any Man should conclude otherwise, than that Christ, being of the same Essence with the Father, is to

144 Christ the Sum and Substance

to be honoured and adored with the same Worship. This is therefore what is now to be demonstrated;

That we ought to believe in Christ;

This Belief all the Holy Scriptures inculcate:

But Christ calls Men to Himself, the Apostles in like manner exhort them to have Faith in Him alone;

But the whole Scripture requires,
That we should so believe in Christ,

As to live and die to Him alone:

That we commit our Souls unto Him;

That for his sake we renounce all Things;

That we love Him above all Things;

That we place our Trust in Him, as in God himself;

That we devote our whole Heart unto Him:

That we serve Him in Righteousness, Peace, and Joy through the Holy Ghost:

That we worship Him in like manner as the Father:

That we be baptized into Him, as well as into the Father:

That by his Power we believe, by his Operation we be born again, and by his Gift be illuminated with the Holy Spirit; and preserved in the true Faith:

That we acknowledge Him to be the Creator and Restorer of all Things:

And

And lastly, that we honour Him; as He who gives Men Life, who appoints them to die, and who raises them from Death by his own Power, either to give them eternal Life, or to punish them with eternal Damnation.

1. That all the Holy Scriptures inculcate upon Men this Faith in Christ.

In the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, (ver. 7.) it is said of John the Baptist; He came for a Witness; that is, to bear witness of the Light, that all Men through him might believe: And ver. 12. John says, But as many as received Him, to them gave he Power to become the Sons of God, even to them that believe on his Name. From hence therefore it appears, wherein the chief Business, and Scope of St. John's whole Office did consist; to wit, that all should believe in Christ the Son of God: which was likewise the principal Employment of Moses, and of all the Prophets after him. St. Paul well explains this of John the Baptist, saying, * John verily baptized with the Baptism of Repentance, saying unto the People, That they should believe on Him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus. When they heard this, (or the Words of John, recommending them to Christ) they were baptized in the Name of the Lord Jesus. Likewise the Holy Scriptures testify of Moses *, that he had no other Design, but to recommend Faith in Christ, Rom. x. 4. where Christ is celebrated as $\pi \nu \lambda \theta$, the End of Moses, and of the Law. Moreover, all those Passages concerning Christ in the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, refer us (as we have seen above) to the Writings of Moses: And that the rest of the Prophets and Servants of God, made this also their principal Business, and the very End of their Office, is sufficiently understood from our former Collation of the Words of St. John with other Places of Holy Scripture: Therefore St. Peter saith, Acts x. 43. To Him (to Jesus) give all the Prophets witness, that through his Name whosoever believeth in Him, shall receive Remission of Sins.

2. That Christ sends not Men to any other, but calls them to Himself.

Whereas all the Prophets and Apostles in the Old and New Testament, remit Men to another, viz. Christ; Christ does not send them to any other, but calls Men to himself, requiring from them Faith in himself, as may be seen, among others, from the following Testimonies: God so loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son; that whosoever believeth in Him should should not perish, but have everlasting Life*. I am the Bread of Life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me, shall never thirst †. If any Man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink. He that believeth on me, as the Scripture hath said, out of his Belly shall flow Rivers of living Water ‡. Jesus said to the Man born blind, Dost thou believe on the Son of God? He answered and said, Who is he, Lord, that I might believe on him? And Jesus said unto him, Thou hast both seen him, and it is he that talketh with thee. And he said, Lord, I believe: and he worshipped Him ||. Jesus saith moreover: I am the Resurrection and the Life: He that believeth in me, tho' he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth, and believeth in me, shall never die. While ye have Light, believe in the Light, that ye may be the Children of Light ††. And, †† He that believeth on me, believeth not on me, but on Him that sent me. And he that seeth me, seeth him that sent me. I am come a Light into the World, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in Darkness. And, ||| Ye believe in God, believe also in me. *the Way, the Truth, and the Life: No Man cometh unto the Father, but by me. * Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else believe me for the very Works sake. Verily, verily I say unto you, he that believeth on me, the Works that I do, shall he do also, and greater Works than these shall he do, because I go to my Father.* From these, and other Places, in which, as we said, Christ doth not remit us to any other, but simply requires that we should believe in Himself, there is not only manifestly a vast Difference between Christ and all the Servants of God; but it appears also from thence, that Christ speaks not after a vulgar manner, concerning the placing of our Faith in Himself; but expresses it usually in such a way, that every intelligent Person may easily perceive it is not lawful for any created Being, how high soever, to arrogate any such Thing to himself; nor is it likely, if He did make this Claim, that He should obtain such Testimony from the Heavenly Father, as to require us to hearken to Him. Wherefore the Jews mistaking Christ for a meer Man, often interpreted his Discourses for Blasphemies, and for that Cause endeavoured to stone Him: And certainly they would have been look'd on as Blasphemies, had they been spoken by bare

bare Man, or meer created Being. This is to be well and diligently noted, because hence it clearly appears, that it will be no Objection to say here, that the Jews were also required to believe in Moses and the Prophets * ; yet 'twill not from thence follow, that these were any other than meer Men. We further recommend to such, as, in the Fear of God, desire to examine the Holy Scriptures in their Original Language, attentively to consider, (1.) that St. John the Evangelist no where uses this Phrase, πιστευει εις τον, credere in quem, to believe in One, but when the Discourse is of God or Christ. (2.) That he is wont to use that other Phrase, πιστευει τον, credere cui, to believe One, sometimes of God and Christ, and sometimes of Things created. Wherein 'tis to be observed, (3.) That when Christ commands Men to believe Him, (sibi) (and does it in the Dative Case †) He does not then any way deny, that they ought to believe in Him, but requires only in those Places, that at least Faith ought to be given to his Words, as to the Words of a Prophet: Both are therefore suitable to Christ, that we believe in Him as God, and that we believe Him as a Prophet. (4.) 'Tis plain from the Gospel of St. John, that the

Jews

150 Christ the Sum and Substance

Jews well understood, * that He must be God in whom they were to believe. For when Christ had said, This is the Work of God, that ye believe on Him whom he hath sent; the Jews answer'd, What Sign shewest thou then, that we may see and believe thee? Whereby they signified, that they did not so much as believe Him and his Words, so far were they from persuading themselves to believe in Him. But Christ, not regarding this Answer, constantly urges in the following Verses, 35, 40, and 47. that it was their Duty to believe in Him. (5.) The Jesús, who began to believe in Christ, † but had not yet attained to a firm and full Faith, are remarkably for this Reason only said to believe Him, (πιστευόντας αὐτῷ) ver. 31. which shews, that Faith in Christ Jesús includes in it a full Trust and Perseverance in his Word. (6.) The Pbarisees said to the Officers, ‡ Have any of the Rulers, or the Pbarisees believed on Him? By which Words they declare, that from the Answer of the Officers, [never Man spake like this Man, Joh. vii. 46.] They did infer that they (i. e. the Officers) acknowledged Jesús for the Messiah sent from God, and so believed in Him, (as is said also of some of their || Rulers :) Which Honour they would would by no means permit should be given to Jesus. (7.) When it was inquir'd concerning John the Baptist, why the Scribes and Pharisees would not receive Him as a Prophet; Three of the *Evangelists speak not otherwise of this Matter, but in the Dative Case, saying; Quare non credidistis ei? Why did you not believe Him? (8.) 'Tis remarkable, that the Phrase πιστεύω εις θεόν, to believe in God, in the Books of the New Testament, especially in those of St. Paul, has a respect to the Faith of Abraham, as he was the Father of all the Faithful; of whom it is said, והאמין ביהוה credidit in Jehovam, [vel in Jehova] He believed in the Lord, (Gen. xv. 6.) (that is, by his Faith he acquiesc'd as it were in Him) which way of speaking is afterwards often used in the Writings of the Old Testament. From these and other like Observations, 'tis evident, the Divine Glory in Christ was held as a Fundamental, when St. John, and other Servants of God say concerning Him, in the Holy Scriptures, that we ought to believe in Him, or in his Name, as is affirm'd of those who had received Him, and thereby had obtain'd Power to become the Sons of God †. 'Tis to be consider'd also on this whole Subject, that Christ does not

remit Men to any other, in whom they ought to believe, (as the Prophets remitted them to Christ) but simply directed their Faith in Himself, without any Difference between their believing in Him, or in the Father. Nay, He not only requires, (as was above observ'd) and as other Prophets did, that his Words should be believed, and he himself receiv'd for a True Prophet; but exhibits Himself as the Saviour of the whole World, as the Life, as the Resurrection, nay, as He in whom we ought not only to believe, but whom we ought also to honour and adore with Divine Worship. Now did ever any of the Prophets, or Servants of God act thus? Or, how could this be done by any created Being, without the Guilt of Idolatry? Pray what should we think, if any Man should appear before us, and say, I am the Resurrection; I am Life Eternal; I am the Truth, &c.? or if any mortal Man should suffer himself to be adored with Divine Worship? But all these Things will appear still more plain, from the following Considerations.

3. That the Apostles have required the same Faith in Christ our Lord.

The Apostles, with one Mind and with one Mouth, required this same Faith in the Lord Jesus. In the Acts of the Apos- tles,

bles, * The Keeper of the Prison said to Paul and Silas, Sirs, what must I do to be saved? And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved and thy House. Nor does this want any Demonstration; for 'tis manifest, the whole Office of the Apostles was to publish the Name of the Lord Jesus to every Creature under Heaven, and so to refer all Men to Faith in the Lord Jesus †. Nay, they did not rest in this, that they should remit Men to Christ, but powerfully also shew'd, as was said above, that all the Prophets gave Testimony to this Jesus: and not only gave Testimony, but also constantly affirmed, that whoever believed on Him, should receive Remission of Sins through his Name ‡. And St. Paul saith, We preach not our selves, but Christ Jesus the Lord, and our selves your Servants for Jesus sake ||. Now let any Man judge what kind of Faith in our Lord Jesus the Apostles require, and consider whether such a Faith can possibly be placed in any created Being, without the Guilt of Idolatry. Wherefore the Divine Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ, is most powerfully demonstrated by this, that all Men, as St. John speaks in the Beginning of his Gospel, ought to believe in Him; nor

* Chap. xvi. 30.

‡ Acts x. 43.

† Rom. i. 16.

|| 2 Cor. iv. 5.

nor is any thing more requir'd to a full Conviction of the Mind, that this Argument is unanswerable; than that those Places of the Old and New Testament, where Faith in Christ is required, should be diligently searched out and examin'd.

4. That this whole Faith consists of such Particulars, as are not to be attributed to any created Being.

But that all Contradiction may be entirely removed, the Reason of the Faith that is required in the Lord Jesus shall be now particularly consider'd: We shall easily understand, that such a Faith cannot be lodg'd in any created Thing, without the Sin of Idolatry. For all those Arguments, which have been so clearly propos'd to us hitherto out of the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, are a Foundation for this Doctrine; when he declares that the Scope of the Testimony of John the Baptist was, that all Men should believe. But what were they to believe? The same Evangelist shews it, Ch. xx. 31. viz. That Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that Believing they might have Life through his Name. I say, what were they to believe? That which John had ascertain'd in the very Beginning of his Gospel, to wit, that the same Jesus, of whom John the Baptist witnessed, the Eternal Word of God, by whom all Things, according to Moses, were made, is the Life and the Light of Men. Can you now imagine, that such a Faith can be placed in any created Being?

5. That Faith is to be given to Christ, not as a Minister, but as the Lord of our Salvation.

All the Holy Scriptures demonstrate, that Faith is to be placed in Christ, not as a Minister, but as the Lord of our Salvation, as He, who not only publishes Salvation, but does Himself give and confer it. Therefore John is called his Fore-runner, who was not to go before a Man, or any other of God's Servants, but before the Lord himself *. And lest any one should object, that in Luke i. 76. the Words are concerning the Lord, and not God, let him read the whole xlth Chapter of Isaiah, and see with his Eyes, that this Lord, whose Præcursor [Fore-runner] John was to be, is called, not once, but often, Jehovah, that is, the essential and by himself subsisting God. This is He, of whom it is said in Malachi, † Behold, I will send my Messenger, and he shall prepare the Way before me. The Holy Scripture also is wont commonly to express the Word יהוה Jehovah, [Lord] in Greek by the Word κ'ieu. But that we may rightly

* Luke i. 76.

† Chap. iii. 1.

156 Christ the Sum and Substance

ly perceive, what the Apostles of our Lord understood, when they called Christ the Lord, St. Paul explains it, * saying, To us there is one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all Things, and we by Him: Now could this be said of any created Being? We have already most evidently demonstrated the contrary. Likewise the Testimonies we have now alledg'd teach, that Faith is required in Christ as in a Saviour, who can indeed rescue us from Death and Destruction, who can enlighten us with the Light of Life, translate us into an eternal Communion with God, nay, can raise all Men whatsoever from the Dead; wherefore He is called $\alpha\iota\omega\tau\omicron\upsilon$, the † Author of eternal Salvation. Now may we not wonder, and stand amazed, that any can be so rash, as to attribute all these great Things to a Being, that is itself created?

6. That we are commanded to live and die to Christ, is likewise an Evidence of his Divinity.

Further let us consider, that Faith in Christ, according to the Scriptures, comprehends in it, that we must live and die to Him †. Now can this be perform'd without Idolatry to any created Thing, between whom, and the Almighty Maker of Heaven and Earth, there is so vast a Difference? To whom should we live, and to whom should we die, but to Him, who gave us our Life, and who, as our Creator, has the Right and the Power to deprive us of it?

7. What is signified by those Expressions.

As Faith in Christ requires that we should live and die to Him, so the Holy Scripture explains to us, how this is to be understood, both by clear Declarations, and by remarkable Examples. For not only St. Paul, * in the afore cited Place, says; The Life which I now live in the Flesh, I live by the Faith of the Son of God; (which certainly is spoken after such a manner, as can by no means be reconciled with that Faith which a Man shall place in any created Thing, without the Sin of Idolatry:) but the Example of St. Stephen also teaches, that, as Jesus Christ commended his Spirit into the Hands of his Heavenly Father, so He, worshipping the Lord Jesus, said; Lord Jesus receive my Spirit †. Does not St. Peter say, ‡ Let them that suffer according to the Will of God, commit the Keeping of their Souls to Him in well-doing, as unto a faithful Creator: Therefore how can it be thought lawful

* Gal. ii. 20.

158 Christ the Sum and Substance

lawful for a Man to commend his Soul to One who is not the Creator, without the Sin of Idolatry? Is not therefore the Divine Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ, most effectually again demonstrated by this Argument?

8. That our Duty to renounce all Things for Christ's sake, gives Testimony also of his Divine Glory.

Moreover, Faith in Christ requires, that we should renounce all Things, even Life itself, for his sake. Concerning this, see clear Testimonies of Scripture*; not to mention the Apostles of our Lord, who confirm the same every where in their Epistles, in the clearest and plainest Words. But where did ever any Servant of God require, in the Old or New Testament, such Renunciation for his own sake, and teach Men that, forsaking Father and Mother, and their own Lives, they should adhere to Him with their whole Heart? Moses heretofore spake of Levi; † Let thy Thummim and thy Urim be with thy Holy One, whom thou didst prove at Massah, and with whom thou didst strive at the Waters of Meribah. Who said unto his Father and to his Mother, I have not seen him, neither did he acknowledge his Brethren, nor know his own Children: for they

* Matt. x. 37, 38, 39. Luke xiv. 16, &c. chap. xvii. 33. John xi. 25. † Deut. xxxiii. 8, 9.

they have observed thy Word, and kept thy Covenant. They shall teach Jacob thy Judgments, and Israel thy Law. In which Place Moses likewise teaches and requires a forsaking of all Things, and that as a necessary Part of a true Levite, out of whose Mouth the Law was to be sought: But he by no means directs such a Renunciation for his own sake, which yet Christ did for his, and by that very thing confirm'd his Divine Glory and Majesty. And truly, that no created Thing, how extraordinary and excellent soever, could require such a Renunciation to be made for his own sake, will still further appear from the following Considerations.

9. That Christ is to be loved above all Things, is also a Testimony of his Divinity.

For from that entire Renunciation which Christ requires for his own sake, it follows of course, that He is to be loved above all Things, if at the same time our Faith in Him be sincere. For He himself expressly says, * He that loveth Father or Mother more than me, is not worthy of me, &c. And St. Paul says, † If any Man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be Anathema, i. e. accursed and abominable, and let him be shut out from Communion with God; and he adds, Maranatha, i. e.

i. e. The Lord cometh; viz. to Judgment, to execute Sentence against him who loves not the Lord Jesus: and in this manner, the Love of Christ is every where extolled above all Things. Now would it not be manifest Idolatry in any one, to magnify a Creature above all Things? Certainly, the first and great Precept in the Law is, *Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy Heart, and with all thy Soul, and with all thy Mind. Now as it plainly appears from the Testimonies before cited, that we ought to love Christ with all our Heart, and with all our Soul, and with all our Mind; how then can it be lawful for us to esteem Him a meerly created Being? The second Commandment, says Christ, is like unto this; Thou shalt love thy Neighbour as thy self. But now he requires that we should love Him (Christ) more than our Neighbour, yea, than our selves, and our own Life; and subjoins, he that does not this, is not worthy of Him. Wherefore, 'tis necessary we should know from hence, that the Love of Christ relates to the first Table of the Decalogue, and that the Son of God, Jesus Christ, is equal to God his Heavenly Father in Divine Majesty and Glory.

10. The Obligation of putting our Trust in Christ, as in God himself; is an Indication likewise of, his Divine Glory.

Faith in Christ, in like manner, requires that we should place a solid and full Trust in Him. For we do not read in any Place of Scripture, that the Trust to be repos'd in Him, is to be circumscrib'd with any Limitations; but rather it is manifest, both from the Old and New Testament, that a full and absolute Trust, as we said, ought to be placed in Christ, after the same manner as in the living God. Thus it is written in Isaiab; * I have sworn by my self: the Word is gone out of my Mouth in Righteousness, and shall not return, that unto me every Knee shall bow, every Tongue shall swear. Surely, shall one say, in the Lord have I Righteousness and Strength: even to Him shall Men come, and all that are incensed against Him shall be ashamed. That Christ here speaks in Isaiab, the Prophet, no Man that calls himself a Christian should in the least doubt of, when he considers that these Words are by St. Paul † expounded concerning Christ; not to insist, that the same may be understood from the Old Testament itself: since this is the Name of Christ, by which He shall be called, The Lord our Righteousness, Jer. xxiii. 6. therefore God in his Word, has so great a Regard for his own Glory, and so often execrates those, who place their Trust and Confidence in Man, and make Flesh their Arm; * how could it be, that all the Holy Scriptures should constantly inculcate to us, that we ought to place all our Hope and Confidence in Christ; and that not only in the Necessities of the Body, but especially in those of the Soul †, and in short, in all Things where none but the eternal and living God can administer Help to us? to wit, because Christ redeems and delivers us from Sin, from Death, the Devil and Hell. Was it lawful for the Children of Israel, even in outward Distresses, to confide in Moses; Joshua, or any other Deliverer, given to them for a Type? Were they not most strictly, and almost continually called off from putting their Trust in Men, and instructed and requir'd to place their Confidence only in the Lord? And this was indeed then, and is at all Times most necessary; because human Nature labouring under so great Corruption, is inclin'd to nothing more, than such kind of Idolatry towards Men, and reposing that Affiance in the Creature, which is due to God alone. What therefore is more evident, than that it would be a most grievous Sin against the first Commandment in the Decalogue, to place our Trust in Christ, which we are commanded to do plainly, and without any Limitation, in all our Necessities of Body and Soul, if Christ were not of the same Essence, Majesty and Glory with the Father? Nay, in this the true Essence of Faith consists, that it entirely abandons all Trust and Confidence in Things created, and relies not on any Thing visible or invisible, present or future; but flies for Succour to Him, who is above all created Beings, and of infinite Omniscience, whereby He can truly know and understand all our Necessities; * Omnipotence, That no Calamity can be so great, from which He is not able to deliver us; Love, † that He is always ready to assist us; ‡ and if these high and divine Properties belong not to Christ, Faith in Him is only a meer Shadow, Fallacy and Delusion: nay, if those Properties were wanting in Him, that great, full, and unlimited Trust, which the Holy Writings claim for Him, would occasion thereby gross Idolatry. For which Reason, doubtless, the Scriptures make mention of those divine Properties, when they exhort us to Faith and Trust in Christ : as St. Paul does of his Omnipotence, saying ; Our Conversation is in Heaven, from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile Body, that it may be fashion'd like unto his glorious Body, according to the Working whereby He is able even to subdue all Things unto himself *.

II. That we are commanded to give our Hearts unto Christ, is another Argument to confirm this Assertion.

Moreover, 'tis most certain, and without Controversy, that we ought not to devote our Heart unto any created Thing. When therefore the Scripture says, † My Son, give me thy Heart ; we easily understand God is there meant, because He desires to possess the whole Soul, and that nothing else should deprive Him of it. But now St. Paul shews, ‡ that Christ dwells in our Hearts by Faith : And 'tis plain from the whole Context, that by these Words He has respect to the Tabernacle and Temple of the Old Testament, and that He would have our Hearts to be such Tabernacles, Temples and Habitations, in which the Glory of the Lord, that is Christ, might make his Abode. But are not our Hearts to be the Temple and Habitation of God || ? Consider what our Saviour says on this Subject; If a Man love me, he will keep my Words, and my Father will love him; and we will come unto him, (i. e. my Father and I) and make our Abode with him †. Is not this a most clear Testimony of the Divine Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ?

12. A farther Confirmation hereof is, That we are to serve Christ, in Righteousness, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost. Nor does Faith in Christ less require that we should serve Him; and that in Righteousness, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost ‡. But is it lawful to serve any created Being, besides God? Does not Christ himself say, || Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and (N. B.) Him only shalt thou serve: And,  No Man can serve two Masters. If you say you can serve two Masters, provided they are not repugnant, but subordinate to one another; that Objection will here be of no force: for we find it set down in clear Words; The Kingdom of God is Righteousness, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost, Rom. xiv. 17. This is no other Thing, than to serve Him in Spirit and in Truth; to surrender up our selves to Him with our whole Heart, and to direct to Him the internal Worship required in the New Testament, in the Power of the Holy Ghost? And who can sufficiently express what it is to serve One in Righteousness, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost? This is also appointed in such a manner, that it cannot, nor ought ever to be attributed to any Thing that is created; being that in which the real Dignity of God properly consists, which He suffers not to be taken from him.

13. That the Honour of Religious Worship to be performed to Christ, is also an Attestation of his Divine Glory.

Faith in Christ, requires also that we should worship Him. For we read, Joh. ix. 35, 38. that Christ not only taught the Man who was born Blind, to believe on Him as the Son of God, but also receiv'd the Honour of Adoration from him, after he had said, Lord, I believe; which surely after his so humble Behaviour He would not have admitted, had it not been due to Him, being of the same Essence, Majesty, and Glory with the Father. An Angel refus'd to receive this Honour from St. John, saying, * See thou do it not; worship God. Christ himself, as was above alledg'd, had told us his Mind; † Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve. And in Isaiab. † it is said most emphatically; I am Jehova,
(the

(the Lord) that is my Name: and my Glory will I not give to another, neither my Praise to graven Images *. How could our Saviour, both in his State of Humiliation, and after his Exaltation at the right Hand of God †, have received the Honour of Adoration, due to God alone, which He was so zealous to vindicate, if it had not belong'd to Him? Wherefore this again is a certain Testimony, that Christ is not to be accounted of as a meer created Being, but as One, who being of the same Essence, and of equal Majesty and Glory with the Father, is with Him to be adored. Whence all the Angels of God, ‡ yea, all Things that are made, whether in the Heavens, or in the Earth, or under the Earth, and in the Sea, do adore Him, and give Honour, not only to Him that sitteth on the Throne, that is the Father, but also to the Lamb, that is the Son, our Saviour Jesus Christ ||.

14. Our being baptized in the Name of Christ, is also a Demonstration of his Divine Glory.

Nor does it less confirm our Doctrine, that we are baptized, not only in the Name of the Father, but also of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Nay, in the Scripture mention is sometimes made of Baptism in the Name of Jesus Christ alone * : St. John gives us a fundamental † Reason, why we are baptized in the Name of the Son and of the Holy Ghost; as well as of the Father, to wit, because these Three, in whom we are baptized; are One. From the same Foundation also, St. Paul comprises these Three, who are One, together; concluding his II^d Epistle to the Corinthians in this manner : ‡ The Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the Love of God, and the Communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all. Amen. And elsewhere || he makes mention of the Mystery of God, and explains it (ὁ πατήρ, ὁ υἱὸς καὶ ἅγιος πνεῦμα) of the Father and of Christ; to declare thereby the Unity of the Divine Essence.

It is further observable, that as Christ did institute Baptism, so he also instituted the Holy Supper : But is it the Work of a Creature to institute Sacraments, and by them to engage Men to himself, and as it were bind them to his own Person ? Nay, Christ is not only He that did institute Baptism, but He also who baptizes with the Holy Ghost  ; or He who bestows and pours out the Holy Ghost. But can this be ascribed to any other than the living God ? He it is also who not only can work Faith, but also increase and finish it ;

which is at the same Time necessarily joined with the Baptism of the Holy Ghost, which is performed by Him, and is manifested from clear Testimonies of Scripture*. Now Faith is not a human Operation, but is the Gift of God †; which therefore if Christ gives, strengthens, encreases, and consummates, He must necessarily be, not merely a created Being, but the true, essential, and living God. He it is of whom it is written; ‡ Christ loved the Church, and gave Himself for it, that He might sanctify and cleanse it with the Washing of Water, by the Word: that He might present it to Himself a glorious Church, not having Spot or Wrinkle, or any such Thing, but that it should be holy, and without Blemish. And, It is his Blood which can purge your Conscience from dead Works ||. Of which St. Paul also says, That God hath purchased his Church with his own Blood. When St. John, in the Beginning of his Gospel, demonstrates from Moses, that the first Creation was made by Christ; he likewise shews, that the Figure of the second Creation lay hid in the first; and that this, no less than that, was made in Jesus, and by Jesus; because †† it pleased the Father, that in Him

Him should all Fulness dwell. And as John speaks with great Emphasis concerning the first Creation, that without Him (is it in) nothing at all was made; so Christ with no less Emphasis, asserts concerning our Renovation to the Image of God, *without * me ye can do nothing*. If therefore we believe that the second Creation, Regeneration, and the Restoration of all Things, is a Testimony of no less infinite Virtue, and of the Omnipotence of God, than the first Creation was, as certainly it is: what if I should say, that the infinite Riches of the Glory of God, manifest themselves still more in the second Creation, than in the first; and it appears from clear Testimonies of Scripture, that both the first and the second Creation are assigned to Christ, and that He himself is in both of them the Alpha and Omega; Is not this a firm and strong Testimony of the Divine Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ?

15. Christ's bestowing Eternal Life, is another Proof of his Divine Glory.

'Tis no less a Testimony of Christ's Divinity, that it is He, who gives Eternal Life to those who believe on Him: for thus He speaks; † My Sheep hear my Voice, and I know them, and they follow me. And I give unto them Eternal Life, and they shall shall never perish, neither shall any pluck them out of my Hand. As it is He also, who by his own Power not only raised Himself from the dead, as He himself declares, * Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my Life, that I might take it again. No Man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of my self. I have Power to lay it down, and I have Power to take it again: but He also raises those from the Dead who believe in Him; for which there are most clear Testimonies of Sacred Scripture †. And forasmuch as He performs all these Things by his own Power, as He wrought all his Miracles by his own Power, He gave besides to them that believe on Him the Power also of working Miracles, that in his Name they should do the same Things which He did; as we have divers Examples hereof in the Acts of the Apostles. Yea, he says, ‡ Verily, verily I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the Works that I do, shall he do also, and greater Works than these shall he do, because I go unto my Father. And whatsoever ye shall ask in my Name, (N. B.) that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask any Thing in my Name (N. B.) I will do it. From all these Testimonies therefore, the Divine Majesty Majesty and Glory of our Saviour, manifestly shines forth; since the highest Operations possible, which wholly and plainly depend on the infinite Omnipotence of God, are so ascribed to Him, that no Work whatsoever can be called proper to the Deity, if such Works as the Creation of all Things, and their Renovation, and whatsoever relates thereto, can notwithstanding be boldly attributed to a Being that was itself created. But Christ has atchieved those most high and divine Works; He still performs them, and will continue to do them, as they are Works of Grace, to those that believe in Him; and as they are Works of Justice, to those who do not believe. All which Things therefore when worthily consider'd, any one will be able to perceive what a strong and invincible Argument of the Godhead of Christ may be found herein, that the whole Sacred Scripture has this for its End, that all Men may be brought to believe in Christ. But let that Man who denies the Eternal Divinity of Christ Jesus, consider what Faith the Scripture requires, as it hath been largely propounded, and he will find how impossible it is to reconcile this Faith with his Hypotheses and pre-conceiv'd Opinions. But he who nevertheless contradicts such clear, certain, and irrefragable Arguments, and busies himself himself in wresting the clear Word of God to his own Mind, and interprets it according to his own corrupt Reason, let such a one go and learn what that means; No one can say that Jesus is the Lord (Jehovah, Κεϊον, by whom are all Things, and we by Him) * but by the Holy Ghost †.

S E C T. LIV.

What farther use may be made of the Six preceeding Arguments.

THE Six Arguments, which we have hitherto deduced, demonstrate the true and essential Divinity of our Lord Jesus Christ; after so simple, unaffected, and clear a manner, that any one, whether he be learned or unlearned, may be satisfied with them: especially since they do as it were point out the Way how other Arguments also, to prove the same Thing, may be produced out of the whole Scriptures of the Old and New Testament; and how the Prophets and Apostles do unanimously testify concerning this Matter. There might also easily have been brought, from the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, divers other Arguments, no less clear and convincing than these; which, however, we omit at present, it not being our Purpose here to treat of them all. Yet we cannot but subjoin some Admonitions to what we have been speaking of, that the Mind of the Reader may be some way fortified against the violent Attacks of Falshood; and that he may be most faithfully advis'd, lest he act precipitately, in a Concern of so holy and high a Nature. It is commonly the Property of corrupt Reason, while not restrain'd within due Bounds by a superior Light and stronger Force, to search up and down how it may form some little Exception, and find out some Shift whereby it defends itself, so long as that Evasion is not remov'd: And altho' it can't in any wise confute the (contrary) Arguments in general, or in particular; nevertheless it refuses to believe the Truth shining so brightly before it, because it thinks it can yet easily pick out something here and there, which it shall be able speciously to contradict. If any one therefore shall enter into the same way of Reasoning, with respect to the Arguments above alledged, as for the sake of some secondary Matters, which may occur in them, and seem as yet doubtful to him; to entertain a Scruple in his Mind against the principal Point itself; we would from hence admonish him to observe, that the Arguments in themselves, (especially consider'd as they arise and flow one from another) another) are so strong and convincing, that they very far outweigh all such sudden Scruples. Hence it follows, that such like Scruples ought not to have more weight in the Mind, than the convincing Force of those Arguments. But God is rather to be intreated to free the Mind from those Scruples, and to render, at least, the Conviction already admitted more firm, more penetrating and lively. Nor verily would there be wanting an Opportunity and Helps, whereby a Man might get out of his Scruples, if he seriously labour'd after the single and certain Knowledge of the Truth. And here the wretched and perverse Custom of many Persons is to be lamented, who enter upon these controverted Points, (as they are called) without Prayer and humble Invocation of the great God; and as it were out of his Presence and Regard, who searches the Reins and the Heart, i. e. without a holy Fear and Veneration of so great and infinite a Majesty: What Wonder therefore is it, if a Man left to himself, and rushing into these Controversies without a pious Disposition of Mind, should, by the just Judgment of God, not be savingly convinced by the Light of Truth, nor be enlightned from above, but rather more and more blind and deceive himself, and oppose the Truth, then scoff at it, and at last last maliciously slander and revile it? Nor is there wont to follow any other than this sad Effect, when the Reins are let loose to Reason to judge of Divine Things; since all those Things, which are of the Spirit of God, appear Foolishness to the natural Man; so that he cannot perceive nor know them: which St. Paul interprets of him who has received the Spirit of the World only, and not the Spirit of God *. Did the Scribes and Pharisees perceive and know the Things which Christ spake to them; tho' they were truly Divine, and most effectual for Conviction? Did not they always contradict and revile Him? And altho' being put to Silence, they had not so much as a Word to answer, was there any Disposition left in them to receive the Truth? Does not Christ say; If any Man will do the Will of God, he shall know of the Doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of my self †: And David says, With thee is the Fountain of Life: in thy Light we shall see Light ‡. Therefore we most earnestly admonish every one, who reads these Arguments concerning the Divine Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ, deduced from the first Chapter of St. John's Gospel, and still doubts of their Divine Truth, before all Things, to give himself up wholly to

(*) 1 Cor. viii. 6.

* 1 Cor. ii. 14. † John vii. 17. ‡ Psalms xxxvi. 9.

God in constant and fervent Prayer, by which Means he may be assured of the Divine Grace and Illumination, in his further Consideration of those Arguments. And let him take good heed, that, with a sincere and honest Mind, he desire nothing else, but to believe the Word of God, and to obey it; for so God will not refuse on his Part, to communicate the sure Light of Knowledge to his Mind. Every one may be fully perswaded, that these Things were not meditated and consign'd to Writing, without many, and those serious Prayers to God; not without Fear and Veneration of His Majesty, nor without a sincere Love of Divine Truth. Wherefore also I have offer'd and concluded nothing on this Subject, but what my Mind was first most fully convinced of. Therefore I do all I can to perswade my Reader to possess his Mind with a sincere Love of Truth, and by humble Prayers to seek the Light of the Knowledge of Himself from the God of Truth: which if he faithfully performs, the most holy and most blessed Truth concerning the Divine and Infinite Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ, will most certainly carry the Victory. But the Reader ought not only sincerely to hold on in the Love of God, and Prayer in his Perusal of these Arguments, but he must also be admonish'd in general, to avoid all wrangling and petulant Disputation, and Affectation of needless Scruples, in this whole Matter. The Seraphims beholding the Glory of the Lord, cover their Faces; and Isaiab having beheld it, said, * Woe is me, for I am undone, because I am a Man of unclean Lips, and I dwell in the midst of a People of unclean Lips: for mine Eyes have seen the King, the Lord of Hosts. That the Divine Glory of Jesus Christ is here described, and that Isaiab then saw the Glory of Christ, and that he spake of Him as his proper Subject, St. John, as we observed before, declares in express † Words: From whence also a firm and invincible Argument is brought for the true and essential Godhead of our Lord Jesus Christ. But ought not this so far to admonish us, as to make us very cautious how we venture to speak of such sublime Mysteries, until our Lips are sanctified by a Coal first presented to our Mouths from the Altar of God; and then we should not do it without Fear and Trembling? From this same Foundation, let every Man also be cautious lest he utter any Thing concerning so great a Mystery, and defend that against others, which he has not conceiv'd in his own Mind, after the fullest Inquiry of his Conscience, as a Truth long medi-

tated

* Isa. vi. 2, 5.† Chap. xii. 41.

tated upon, and as it were seven times refined. How dangerous a thing is it to wander from the Truth, in so sacred a Matter; to dissemble one's Error, and if it can be propounded as probable under some fair Colour, to disperse it abroad, and upon every Occasion to stand up and maintain it? We have certainly to do with One, whose Person and Glory is interested in this whole Affair; who we can't deny is to be the Judge both of the Living and of the Dead. Is not then an Account to be given for *every idle Word? How much more shall we be judg'd and condemned for all our hard Speeches which we have spoken against Him †? Should not every one from hence be sufficiently warned, to avoid all Wrangling and wanton Contentions, in a Cause of so high a Nature, which relates to the Person and Honour of our future Judge, from whom there is no escaping? Nay, the true Lovers of God must also be admonish'd, when happening to be deceived, either by their own desultory Reason, or by others who are vers'd in Error, they have fallen into some Doubting concerning this Thing, that they do not talk imprudently to others about it; much less endeavour to instil into them the Notions to which (at present) they thus doubtfully incline. For

God

God will bring such Men out of their Errors and Doubts into the Way of Truth, (so great is his Mercy) if they shall with serious Prayers importunately request the Spirit of Truth from Him. But then all such Discourses which they have used in the Hearing of others, will bring upon their Consciences the deepest Anxiety and Remorse; and they would most willingly part with all they are worth, if that would avail, to remove the Scruples they had occasioned in the Mind of any one: But they will find to their Grief, that they cannot so easily cure the Wounds they have given to others, tho' they acknowledge the Error they admitted of, and do themselves confute the Error which they acknowledge. For it is easier by wicked Discourses to corrupt a Man, and to subvert his Faith in Christ, than it is to reform and restore him to a sound Faith. A Word once spoken advances far, and like the Plague runs from one to another, eats like a Gangrene, and vehemently hurts, before he who was the Cause and Author of it returns to a more sound Judgment, and with true Sobriety of Mind reflects on the Scandal he has given. A Word flies about never to be recalled, nor does it perish in the Air with its Sound, but flies away like a Bird; nor can it be withheld or hinder'd, but will, whether you will or

or no, be catch'd up, and again blabb'd out by others. Wherefore let every Man take good heed, learn to set a Watch over his Mouth, and be, according to the Advice of St. James, * swift to hear, and slow to speak.

What a Misery is it, that with all the subtil Contrivances and Inventions of your Reason, you can never arrive at any settled firmness of Mind?

You

You often say indeed, that you inquire after the Truth; but for all that, you will never be able to find it, as long as you deny Him who is Truth itself. This is what is declar'd in Ecclesiastes; * I said, I will be wise, but it was far from me. But with all your Reasonings about these Matters, can you indeed find Rest to your Souls? Whether you are the Followers of Socinus, or, consulting better for your selves, think fit to espouse the Errors of Arius, observing the Testimonies of Holy Scripture suffer'd too great Violence by the Hypotheses of Socinus; or whether refraining your selves from all human Names, you desire to be distinguish'd from others, as Unitarians; or whether, to outward Appearance, you are join'd to any other Congregation, which yet privily or openly denies the Divine Glory of Jesus Christ; pray examine your selves, whether in all the Arguings of your wandring Reason, the Peace of God, which surmounts all Conception, can possibly exist? O! how it were to be wish'd, you would learn to know that Reason has no Limits to her Excursions, when unrestrain'd by a higher Power: On which Subject St. Paul thus speaks; † And my Speech and my Preaching was not with enticing Words of Man's Wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of Power. And Christ himself thus ;

 * Murmur not among your selves, (because I said, I came down from Heaven :) No Man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me, draw him ; and I will raise him up at the last Day. It is written in the Prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every Man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me. The Sense of which Words none of you can comprehend, who constitute your dark and blind Reason the proper Judge in Things Spiritual, and refuse to submit your selves to God, for the Knowledge of the Light in his Light. I know very well what They answer to this: That it's not the way to know the Truth for a Man to suppress his Scruples, and presently to reject every Thing which may seem to oppose this or that Proposition : that this is rather the way to establish Ignorance and palpable Errors in the World. But to this I answer, first, That it can't be denied, that all Doubting concerning Divine Truth, arises not at all from the Image of God, (wherein Man was at first made) but from the Revolt of Adam ; and since such Doubting is not of God, it can be nothing but Sin and Iniquity in his Sight. 'Tis dreadful to say, but the Truth is, Men have so far departed from their

* John vi. 43-45.

their Creator, as to call in question his very Existence: 'tis also dreadful to think they should doubt of His Glory, who, through his immense Love to Mankind, so depressed and humbled Himself, as to become a Partaker of Flesh and Blood. But how dreadful is it, that after the Son of God was made Man, Reason, infected with the Seed of the Serpent, should dare to make a Doubt of his Glory; which He had emptied himself of, out of his ineffable Love and Humility! Wherefore he is shamefully deceived, who fancies it lawful for him to doubt of any Thing, without Sin and without Punishment. Secondly, If any one therefore has various Doubts in his Mind, he ought first of all, for that very Reason, to acknowledge the deep Depravity and the greatness of the Misery he labours under; and to let the Consideration thereof sink deep into his Mind. Thirdly, He then must pray to God to deliver him from this Misery, and, out of the Abundance of his Grace and Mercy, cause his Heart to be established; for the Apostle says, it is a good Thing that the Heart be established with Grace, Heb. xiii. 9. For 'tis the Beginning of true Wisdom, to know that we cannot be deliver'd from our Misery, unless God is pleased to deliver us. Add to this, fourthly, That a Man must not only be desirous of knowing the Truth, but but of performing it, or endeavouring so to imploy it, that God may thereby be honoured and glorified according to his Will. If this Love of the Truth be really engrafted in the Mind, then, fifthly, The Scriptures of the Old and New Testament may be as it were a Touchstone, by which any Scruple that arises in the Mind may be tried and examin'd, whether it agrees with that written Word, or not. But if a Man's Mind be so dispos'd, as to desire to know nothing but the pure Truth of God, and to be therein fruitful to the Lord; and so applies himself to the Scripture, not as a Master, but comes to the reading and searching of it, as a young Beginner and Disciple, that he may be taught thro' the Word by the Prophetical and Apostolical Spirit; then indeed he takes the right way to be deliver'd from his Scruples *. For thus, Scruples are not simply suppress'd, or ejected out of the Mind, nor is the Man detain'd in Error, or turn'd as it were into an Animal void of Reason; but the Truth is sought after in a due and just Order, approved of God. Thus meditating on the Words of Holy Scripture, comparing one Scripture with another, drawing Conclusions from thence, and weighing carefully the Force of Arguments, ought not to be esteem'd an Abuse

* Vid. the Orig. German.

Abuse of Reason, but rather those are the very Things which God himself requires to be done by us. And God cannot but command his Light to arise upon such a Man, thus anxiously solicitous about his miserable State, and humbly seeking after Truth in the Fear of God, with ardent Prayers to Him; St. Peter affirming, II^d Epist. chap. i. 16—19. We have not followed cunningly devised Fables, when we made known unto you the Power and Coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were Eye-witnesses of his Majesty. For He received from God the Father, Honour and Glory, when there came such a Voice to Him from the excellent Glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. And this Voice which came from Heaven we heard, when we were with Him in the holy Mount. We have also a more sure Word of Prophecy, whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a Light that shineth in a dark Place, until the Day dawn, and the Day-star arise in your Hearts. And so the Use of Reason is not rejected, but 'tis required only, that it be made use of in a proper and holy Order; and that we pray with David, *Open thou mine Eyes, that I may behold wondrous Things out of thy Law. But how horribly, and how dangerously corrupt Reason

* Psalm cxix. 18.

son is wont to entangle itself, nay, how apt it is to pervert the Sense of the clearest Truth, and then to vent all this its Depravity for undoubted Truth, a Man then at last rightly perceives, when being illuminated by the Light of God, he begins to be sensible of his former Errors. Hence the Son of Sirach says, * (as the German Translation hath it, to which the English agrees) I stretch'd forth my Hands to the Heaven above, and my Soul was enlightned, that I might know my Foolishness. When the uneven and abrupt By-paths of Reason are by this means clear'd up by a more sublime Light, a Man must needs wonder and stand amazed at his own Blindness, that he should but devise even any specious Contradiction against the Truth, deliver'd in the plainest Terms, and give more credit to his own Interpretation, than to the simple, pure, and clear Word of God. Then at length he begins to perceive the Judgment which is exercis'd from above, on those who do not seek the Truth seriously in the Fear of God; viz. that professing themselves to be wise, they became Fools †: and that God will destroy the Wisdom of the Wise, and will bring to nothing the Understanding of the Prudent ‡. And if this hapned to the Heathen, who never heard

* Chap. li. 19. † Rom. i. 22. ‡ 1 Cor. i. 19.

heard any Thing of the Light of the Holy Spirit, because they were contented with, or rather abused the Light of Reason, thro' their Ignorance; pray what will become of them, who have heard again and again the Divine Testimonies concerning the Blindness of Man's Heart; to whom God has yet promised he will not deny his Holy Spirit, for the right Understanding of his Word, if they seek it of Him in a due manner; who nevertheless not only make their own Reason the Judge and Interpreter of God's Word, but are not afraid even to scoff at whatever is spoke concerning the Illumination of the Holy Spirit, without which they cannot say that Jesus is the Lord, (1 Cor. xii. 3.) nor believe in Him, nor come unto Him. They please themselves in this, that they know how to use their Reason so rarely well, fancying they have Light enough for attaining the Knowledge of Divine Truth. But indeed herein also they are extremely mistaken, being as far from following the right Use of Reason, as Heaven is from the Earth; tho' nothing may seem more absurd to them, than such an Imputation. But 'tis easy to make an Experiment of this, by requiring any Person, who denies the Divine Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ, to interpret the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, from the first Verse to the End of the eighteenth; and to maintain from thence his pre-conceiv'd Notions concerning the Person of Christ. There is no need of interrupting him in his Comments, for you will find he has Work enough upon his Hands to assign any other Sense to the Words and Phrases of St. John; than what their natural Signification admits of, and to perswade any one that the Word of God, which was made Flesh, was a meer Man, or certainly a created Being; and I am perswaded that they who hear him, and see with their Eyes how greatly he labour'd to wrest the Words to his own Sense, will be very much confirm'd in the true Faith, from the simple and plain Testimony of St. John, concerning the Divine Glory of Christ. For they will understand, that He, of all others, fights most absurdly against the Truth, who would be thought so to use his Reason, as not much to regard a higher Light.

S E C T. LVI.

What ought to be thought of such, who deny the Godhead of Christ, and yet mightily pretend to good Moral Doctrine and Integrity of Life.

BUT 'tis a Thing the more to be lamented, that they who deny the Divine Glory of Him, who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life, and without whom no Man can come to the Father, should endeavour to perswade themselves, and others, that they are endued with a singular Knowledge of Morality. As indeed there are not a few so strangely blinded, that tho' they hear of some Sect, who deny the Godhead of Christ, and do not admit of his Satisfaction for the Sins of the World, but look upon Christ only as an Example of a Holy Life, do nevertheless fall upon the moral Writings of such Men, with a curious kind of Greediness, imagining they shall find something in them singular and extraordinary. And this is not to be much wonder'd at; for even in the Writings of the Pagans, blind Reason finds something of this kind to give itself Satisfaction. How great a Value has formerly been set upon upon Tully's Offices, out of which notwithstanding they who have but tasted a little of the Truth, which is in Christ Jesus, can by no means quench their Thirst; but on the contrary, they will be quickly sensible what a false, impure Foundation, and contrary to the Truth of Christ, worldly Wisdom is made to rely on in that Book. Have not some advised the joining a Treatise of Seneca with the reading of the Bible? How mightily have they thought their Minds would be compos'd, if they did but read Seneca's Book of the Tranquillity of the Mind? When yet this poor Heathen, from his insufficient Principles, could promise no other Peace, but that which the World gives; and was as remote from the Peace of God, which passeth all Understanding, as Heaven is distant from the Earth. But if mere Heathen moral Doctrine is in so great Esteem, which yet has not so much as the Name of that Virtue which ought to be the Foundation of all other Virtues, viz. true Humility; much more easily sure may a Deceit creep in under the shelter of Christ's Name, that that should be believed to be true Morality, which is exhibited not as a Heathen, but a Christian Institution of Morals. But as the Heathen Moralists were so destitute of the true Foundation, that they knew not even its first Virtue,

viz. Humility; and therefore all their moral Doctrine was nothing but Paint and Colour: So those Moralists among our selves, who do not acknowledge the Glory of Christ, have wandred very far from the Doctrine of true Morality. For they do not confess Him, who is the Life and the Light of Men; from whom, as the Source of Life and Light, a new Life, and a new Light, must be given unto Men: wherefore Faith is to be look'd on as the Foundation of all Christian Morality; not that Faith by which a Man externally professes the Name of Christ and his Doctrine, but that Faith by which Men are born anew, and of God; by which they receive the Holy Spirit, who is the Spirit of Adoption, the Pledge of Eternal Life, and who pass from a spiritual Death, into a new and spiritual Life, out of Darkness into the admirable Light of God, after such a manner, as with open Face to behold, as in a Glass, the Glory of the Lord, and to be changed into the same Image from Glory to Glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord *.

SECT.

* 2 Cor. iii. 18.

S E C T. LVII.

That all Morality, destitute of the Foundation of a living Faith, is unprofitable and insufficient. What Advice is to be given to those, who depart from this Foundation of true Morality.

WHEN this divine Foundation is not laid in the Soul of Man, all Morality with which any one exercises himself, is only external, tho' it pretend to penetrate into the interior Things of the Soul, that so you would be ready to take it even for Mystical Theology. For in such Morality as this, there is no truly Divine Virtue existing, no real new Life, no true Communion of the Soul with God; in short, there is not found in this Morality the Kingdom of God, which is Righteousness, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghost. For he that in these Things serveth Christ, saith St. Paul, is acceptable to God, and approved of Men *. All other moral Doctrine, compared with the Doctrine of St. Paul, is of no value, as having laid this Foundation, that it is not He that liveth, but Christ liveth in Him; and the Life which He

* Rom. xiv. 17, 18.

He now liveth in the Flesh, He lives by the Faith of the Son of God, who loved Him, and gave himself for Him *. I do not frustrate the Grace of God; for if Righteousness comes by the Law, then Christ is dead in vain. And thus we may say; if there be a true and sufficient Morality, that assigns not Christ as the eternal Life and eternal Light, for its Foundation, and by which a Man is not before all Things sent to believe in the Lord Jesus; as the Origin of all Life and Light, and the Lord of Glory, and to embrace Him as his only Wisdom, Righteousness, Sanctification, and Redemption; Christ is in effect no Christ, and died without Cause or Occasion. For what Occasion had there been for his Death, if Mankind could, by the Strength of their own Reason, become Righteous and Holy, and Partakers of eternal Life? If any one also shall boast of an external Probity of Life, that Boasting is of value only among those, who never experienced in themselves the Foundation of the new Birth, and the Life which is from God. For such Persons think it sufficient if they find a Man not addicted to outward Vices, because they have never known the Efficacy of Faith and Regeneration. But all those that do know it, are sensible what a vast Difference there is between those who may be said to live piously, when compared with notoriously wicked Persons, and between those who are pious after such a manner, as by true Repentance to be quickned together with Christ, raised up (with Him) and placed in the Heavens: (Eph. ii. 6. Phil. iii. 20.) We do not here say, that in such Morality, which has no true Foundation, there is nothing true to be found; but this we say, that those Truths (to wit, such as by their Speciousness deceive the Mind) are broken from their Original, and are no longer join'd with their first and clear Fountain. Nay, we say farther, that a true Foundation is here very greatly wanting, and that this Morality is destitute of all solid Ground: For the Words of St. Paul most effectually demonstrate, that true Morality cannot consist without the Knowledge of the Glory of Christ; * Without Controversy, great is the Mystery of Godliness; God was manifested in the Flesh. Altho' therefore in Heathen Books, and in others that are Strangers to this only Foundation, there are to be found some external Truths, yet many Things impure and corrupt are intermixt with them; and whoever relies only on those moral Principles, is never brought by them to the true Foundation, but stops at those Puddles and broken Cisterns,

* Gal. ii. 20, 21.

* 1 Tim. iii. 16.

Cisterns, from whence the Soul receives not the Efficacy and Virtue of the Divine Life, but builds upon another's, and upon his own sandy Bottom and Foundation; so that he may be liken'd to the foolish Man * described by Christ. Now what Advice is to be given to those who thus go astray from Christ in their Minds? No other indeed but this: Believe that the Lord Jesus is CHRIST, and that He is the Son of God, (even so as the ancient Jews well understood, that no meer Man, or any other created Being, could be strictly honour'd with that Title) and that believing this, ye shall have Life, not only after a natural Death, but even in this World a true Life, which is from God, a Life truly moral. O that Eternal Love would open your Hearts, that you might attend to this plain Counsel, and that you would not despise it, and think your selves wiser! O that you would know the Gift of God, and (N. B.) who it is, to whom you are remitted, you would ask of Him, and He would give you living Water, which should be in you a Well of Water springing up into everlasting † Life!

The SIXTH MEDITATION.

Of the Mystery of the Incarnation.

S E C T. LIX.

That 'tis to be considered, who Christ was before his Incarnation, and who He now is, after He was made Man.

CONSIDER, O my Soul, who He was, who gave Himself to be thy Saviour; who He was made, and who He now is, after He became thy Saviour. Behold,
He was, before any Thing was; He then
was

was present, when any Thing could be said to begin ; for his Appearance (or Goings forth) has been from of old, from the Beginning, from everlasting * : the eternal Word ; the eternal Life ; the eternal Light ; of the same Essence as God, and yet with God ; the only begotten Son of the Father, who is in the Bosom of the Father, from Eternity, and for ever, without any Change (or Succession) of Time, according to his Divinity ; the Maker of all Things ; the Original of Life and Light ; the Life and Light of Men even before the Fall ; shining after in the midst of Darkness, and yet the Darkness nevertheless comprehending it not ; a Light, with which any other Light compared, tho' the most pure, serene, and clear, must be called a Shadow. A Light, in comparison of which, the greatest among those that are born of Women, cannot be said to be a true Light ; a Light which was in the World, before he came into the World, yea, by which the World was made ; a Light, which alone can again illuminate Men, fallen into Darkness by the Revolt of Adam. It was He, who by Right of Creation had the whole World for his Property ; but took to him Abraham and his Seed, the People of Israel † by choice, by their Delivery out of ‡ Egypt, by the Covenant He made

* Mic. v. 2. † Deut. vii. 6, 7. ‡ Exod. xix. 4, 5, 6.

202 Christ the Sum and Substance

made with them, * by Conjunction of Blood, † to be his peculiar People; and so sent to them continually Prophets, and wise Men, and Scribes, ‡ who were all to testify concerning Him, lest when He came unto his Temple, He should not be known to them. He it was, who had Right and Power to reject a People, who refuse to keep his Covenant; and of receiving others who should believe in his Name, and of giving them Power to become the Sons of God; not meerly by some external Adoption, but rather by a true and a new Birth from God. Such a Person was thy Saviour, and yet (as I trust you have learn'd from the preceding Meditations) there have been therein but a few Things spoken concerning his great and infinite Glory. When now He was so great a Person, what was He then made? Flesh. For the Word, saith St. John, (whose divine Glory he most studiously inculcated) was made Flesh. Why is it not said, He was made Man? Because his profound Humiliation might be better understood by the word Flesh: For when the Scripture describes Men according to their vain and corruptible Condition, it calls them Flesh ||. And how can our Misery be better represented, than by considering

* Deut. xxvi. 18. † Heb. ii. 6. ‡ Matt. xxiii. 34.
 || Gen. vi. 12, 13. Ija. xl. 6. 1 Pet. i. 24. Jam. i. 10.

sidering our selves as Flesh? For which Reason the Holy Spirit, not only in this, but in other Places also, expresses the profound Abasement of the Son of God by his Incarnation, in this manner; * God was manifest in the Flesh. And, † Forasmuch as the Children are Partakers of Flesh and Blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same. Note, I pray, how this is exhibited to Thee in his Birth, as it were in an Image or outward Figure. For behold, thy Saviour being such a one as has been represented, viz. the Brightness of his Father's Glory, and the express Image of his Person, born in a Stable, a Place appointed for Beasts, and laid in a Manger, that by this outward Sign thou mightest the better consider his deep Humiliation, in condescending to enter into, and to cloath his great Majesty with our poor fleshly Tabernacle. O most wonderful Humiliation! Wert not Thou abashed in assuming our mean Flesh, O Saviour of the whole World; and after taking upon Thee human Nature, wouldest Thou be called God manifest in the Flesh, when after our deplorable Apostacy, the miserable State in which we are, is become a Shame and Disgrace to our very selves? How incomprehensible is this Humility, that Thou wouldest please to be so like unto us

* 1 Tim. iii. 16.

† Heb. ii. 14.

us in all Things, Sin only excepted! Consider then, O Soul, what thou possessest in thy Saviour, who was the eternal God, and thy Creator, and was made Flesh. Thou hast a Saviour, who is truly God, and truly Man, a Person of two Natures, infinitely different in Point of Dignity. Hence the Prophet Isaiab, among several other Names, calls him in the first Place by that of Wonderful *. For so wonderful a Thing never was known before, nor can the like to it ever exist again. He is wonderful in his Glory, wonderful in his Humility, wonderful in the Union of the Godhead with the Manhood, wonderful in his Office, wonderful in his Words, in his Works, and in his Passion, wonderful in all the Things He was conversant about. All who heard of his Birth, were justly struck with Admiration †. This Admiration of thy Saviour is the first Spark of a true Faith: the first degree in bruising under thy Feet the Head of the wily Serpent, or of carnal Reason and Prudence, as a certain pious Doctor of the Church speaks. This holy Admiration, in considering the Mystery of the Incarnation, will lead Thee farther, that thou mayst learn to know, with humbleness of Mind, and profound Veneration, what thou enjoyest thro' thy Redeemer,

* Isa. ix. 6.† Luke. ii. 18.

who chose Flesh to be his Tabernacle and Temple, in which He dwelt among Men, that by the Destruction of this frail Temple, and by the wonderful Restoration of it, Humanity might become the eternal Temple of the Deity; which will more plainly appear from the following Meditation.

The SEVENTH MEDITATION.

Of the Benefits we enjoy by Jesus Christ.

S E C T. LX.

That God has embraced us in his Son with an eternal Love, and that from hence all manner of Good is derived to us.

D O S T Thou possess any Good, O my Soul, which thou hast not from thy Saviour, by Him, and in Him? And can there any Good be named, which Thou canst not receive from Him, by Him, and in Him? In Him, πᾶν τὸ πλήρωμα τῆς Θεότητος, all the Fulness of the Godhead, of universal Grace and Truth dwells; and of his Fulness, says St. John, we do all receive, καὶ χάριν ἀπὸ χάριτος, and Grace for Grace;
so

so as Grace may be, as it were, recompensed with Grace, and so there may be no End of Grace, of Love, and of Compassion, to all Eternity. But if you would know when these Mercies to us began, you are to observe, that Love and Divine Grace in Christ Jesus never had a Beginning: For Grace was given us in Christ Jesus before the World began *. You ought to consider this Expression, The Word was in the Beginning with God, (Joh. i. 2.) For we read thus in the Proverbs of Solomon; † Then I was by Him as one brought up with Him, (אמן nourished, or according to others, Worker) and was daily my Delight, rejoicing always before Him. Rejoicing in the habitable Part of his Earth, and his Delights were with the Sons of Men. Don't you perceive what is meant by the Words, the Son of God was from the Beginning with the Father? He was the Delight and Pleasure of his Father, and as his Father loved Him, so He in like manner loved Men, and they became his Delight. For as He was the daily Delight of the Father, rejoicing always before Him, so He rejoiced in the habitable Part of the Earth, and his Delight was with the Sons of Men. And as the Father says concerning the Son; This is my Son, my beloved Son, in whom

* 2 Tim. i. 9.† Prov. viii. 30, 31.

I am well pleased; so from Eternity, ἐὐδοκίμωνος, He was well pleased, not only in the Son, but also thro' the Son, in Men, if they believed in the Name of this his only begotten Son. Moreover, this eternal Love of the Father towards Men in Christ Jesus, is so singular and wonderful, that the Son of God himself says of it; * God so loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son, (that whosoever believeth in Him, should not perish, but have everlasting Life.) And St. Paul says, † If God be for us, who can be against us? He that spared not his own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall he not with Him also freely give us all Things? If a Man gives one Thing for another, he certainly thereby lets us know, that he has an equal, if not a greater Regard to that other Thing, than to that which he gives for it. For that which is dearest and most acceptable to any one, That he usually retains. Now God not only gave his Son for us mortal Creatures, but deliver'd Him also to Death for us, and required He should taste what was due to Men for their Sins. How amazing is this Love! If God had not loved us in his Son, if the Son himself had not pursu'd us with a Love exceeding all measure, nay, if the Son had not been the very Mind of the Father, which,

* John iii. 16.

which, the Father being touch'd by the Misery of Man created by Him, was, together with Him, moved with Love and Compassion towards the whole lapsed Race: Truly we could not but say, that He shewed greater Love to us, than to his only begotten Son. But since the Manifestation of all Love centers in the Son, and all the Love of the Father rests upon Men thro' the Son, the Son himself declares concerning this Thing, that the same Love, wherewith the Father loved Him, *is in them who believe, because He is in them. If therefore the Love with which the Father loves the Son, is infinite and measureless; the Love also with which the Father loves us in Christ, is an immense and infinite Love: otherwise, how could any Man be so rash as but dare to think, that God so loves us, if we are in his Son, as He loves his own only begotten Son? O that thro' our whole Life, we might fix the Eye of our Faith on this Love, which from Eternity beheld us, not only in our Fall, and in that Misery into which we were plunged by the Fall, but which also set up an ineffable Salvation, that should accrue to us in Christ Jesus, who would translate us from Death to Life, from Darkness, Wrath, the Curse, and eternal Destruction, into eternal Light, eternal Favour, eternal Benediction, and into eternal Safety, Joy, and Glory. Yea, God knew us, according to his Omniscience from all Eternity, with this same Love, as his Blessed Ones deliver'd from all Sin, and from all the Evils arising to us from Sin, altogether immaculate and blameless, cloathed with the Glory and Majesty of his Son, bearing his Resemblance, and exulting and rejoicing before his Face for ever. This is that Love, which cloathed the Son with humble Humanity, and which so highly exalted Humanity in the Son, that he promised to place it on the right Hand of the Majesty on high; *To him that overcometh, (through Christ who strengthens him) will I grant to sit with me in my Throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his Throne. What more could be possibly desired, O my Soul, which thou may'st not find in this Love? That the Son of God should be thy Creator, should be thy Life, thy Light, which illuminates thee; that commands his Word to be revealed to thee by the Prophets and Apostles, as a Testimony of himself, the true Light; that the Angels themselves should bring thee glad Tidings, and rejoice to minister unto thee; that thou shouldst become a true Believer, obtain Pardon for thy Sins, and be again born of most perfect Intuition, and everlasting Glory: And when Christ thy Life shall be made manifest, thou also mayst be manifested with Him in Glory. I say, all these Things, and whatsoever else can be entitled to the Name of Salvation and Blessedness, thou entirely owest to this infinite Love, which manifested itself to the World in this, that the Son of God himself became the Saviour of Men, in such a manner, that He was made Man; and his most exalted Majesty dwelt in Flesh, as in his Temple, among Mortals; of which St. John says, He dwelt among us, and we beheld his Glory, the Glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of Grace and Truth.

The EIGHTH MEDITATION.

Concerning the truly Divine Order, wherein we are made Partakers of all the Benefits that accrue to us by Christ Jesus.

S E C T. LXI.

In what manner and in what Order we are to use the Benefits of Salvation, obtained by Christ for us.

IF thou desirest, O Soul, to partake of so great and inestimable Benefits in Christ, thou must observe, that the Holy Spirit himself hath shewn thee the Order by which alone, and by no other Means, thou mayst attain them. For the Scriptures testify, that no Man can be a Partaker of them, who despises the Divine Order, but will remain deprived of them through his own Default. For this Cause it is said; the Darkness comprehended it not; (viz. the Light:) and the World knew Him not; and his own received Him not. But could they indeed be so infatuated, as not to desire to be delivered out of all their Misery, and to be removed into a State of eternal Joy and Glory? They wish'd to be be altogether exempt from the Punishment of Sin ; but they desperately loved their Sins at the same Time ; and whosoever endeavoured to reclaim them from their long continued Habit of Sinning, was reckon'd by them among their Enemies. Now the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the Works of the Devil ; but they loved these Works of the Devil, and would not suffer that they should be destroyed in them. Hence it is, that Christ says ; * This is the Condemnation, that Light is come into the World, and Men loved Darkness rather than Light, because their Deeds were evil. They mightily desired to be Partakers of eternal Joy, from the carnal Notion they had of it, if it could be attain'd without Repentance and Conversion ; which being contrary to the Divine Order, they could no more be Partakers of Christ, than a Man can be enlightned, who chooses to hide himself in a dark Cell, whilst the Sun diffuses its sweet and pleasant Light throughout the World. Therefore the Holy Spirit hath appointed three important Means in the Order, by which thou mayst come to the Knowledge of every good Thing that is in Christ Jesus ; viz. 1. That you receive Christ. 2. That you believe in his Name. 3. That you be born

P 3 again

* John iii. 19.

214 Christ the Sum and Substance

again of God. That you may receive Christ, it is requisite that you acknowledge the miserable State into which you were sunk by the Fall. Sin is the Root of all Evil; from this comes the Divine Wrath and Punishment, the various Miseries and Calamities of Soul and Body, Death temporal and eternal. All those Evils are to be found out and known in their Root, that is, in Sin: For otherwise, thou wouldst desire to be deliver'd from the shameful and horrible Fruits of Sin, viz. its Punishment; but not from Sin itself. But such is the Goodness and Faithfulness of God, that He sufficiently lays before us in his Word this great and deplorable Misery of Mankind. Besides, every Man has in himself two strong Witnesses, viz. his own Conscience, and daily Experience, which bear witness far beyond all Contradiction, concerning both the internal and external Misery of Mankind. Therefore if you must necessarily believe these two Witnesses, that those Things are altogether true, which the Records of Holy Writ pronounce concerning our present Misery, then you ought also to credit their Testimony concerning the future Punishment of Sinners. Whosoever is so far convinc'd of his own Misery, will find something within him which makes him wish to be deliver'd from that Evil, how

how much soever his natural Inclination to Vice, may continually urge him to obey Sin farther, and live for ever in the Lusts thereof. Then comes preventing Grace, offer'd by God to Men in Christ, knocking at the Door of the Heart, and much desiring to be admitted. If therefore you do not refractorily bar its Entrance, but rather endeavour to make a deeper Search into the miserable State wherein you are plunged, and slacken not in the Works of Repentance; there will now begin a sharp and severe Conflict, Christ and Belial contending with one another, which shall have the Dominion over you. But if you resolve to go on with the Combat, and will not treacherously desert Christ, calling you out of Darkness into his marvellous Light, and when you plainly find no Help in your self, will receive Christ, as He who can alone rescue and deliver you from your Misery in this Fight, which sometimes is very sharp, and painful to unruly Flesh: At length Faith will spring up, which is therefore called Victory; because there will be much Conflicting, before Infidelity can be thoroughly subdued, and Faith, like a heavenly Light, and the Beginning of a Divine Life, can arise in the Heart. By such a Faith, you receive Christ as Christ, that is, as Him who appeared for this End, that He might destroy the Works of the Devil; as one, for whose sake not only your Sins are forgiven, but divine Justification also is bestowed; that for the future you may boldly and full of Confidence call God your Father. For if you have thus truly embraced Christ, you are born again of God, by this same Faith given you from above; not after a certain imaginary, but a true and real manner: the Truth of which you may certainly know, in that you will find your Mind entirely changed within you, your carnal Inclinations subdued, and the Dominion of Sin taken away; your Ears and Eyes open'd, that you may now see, know and perceive, that being translated from so great Darkness into the Light of God, and from Death unto Life, you are made a Partaker of the Divine Nature, and are become a new Creature in Christ; the Holy Spirit witnessing at the same Time with your Spirit, that you are the Son, and so the Heir of God, and a Coheir with Christ. This Order was declared by Christ, when himself preached the Gospel of the Kingdom of God; saying, * The Time is fulfilled, and the Kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the Gospel.

The NINTH MEDITATION.

How we may be instructed, from the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, to know Christ, as the Sum and Substance of the other Writings of St. John, and of all the Holy Scriptures.

S E C T. LXII.

That from the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, we may also learn after what manner in his other Writings, and throughout the whole Scripture, Christ is to be known.

IF we should now apply the several Meditations here propounded upon the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, as a Guide for our better understanding his other Writings, viz. his whole Gospel History, his Epistles, and Revelation, there would thence be suggested to us a new Meditation, larger than all that have gone before. But for Brevity's sake, we will take notice only of a few Things to the Purpose now mention'd. And in general 'tis to be noted, that the Words and Expressions which

which St. John uses in the Beginning of his Gospel, clearly discover his usual manner of writing, or the Language of the Holy Spirit which was in him. Whosoever therefore rightly comprehends the Sense of these first Verses, will much more easily understand his true Sense in many other Places, when compared with these; as it must be a great help to the solid Interpretation of the Writings of this Apostle, that he every where uses the same Way of speaking, and by this means stamps his Writings before others, with a certain peculiar Character, whereby the Sense of his Words is less liable to Misconstruction. But particularly this is, as it were, his Character; that he bears Testimony of the $\lambda\omicron\gamma\theta$, or the Word of God, which is most significantly done in this Place, to which he himself refers, Rev. i. 2. How much he was concern'd for this Title, may appear from his 1st Epistle i. 1. and chap. v. 7. Rev. i. 9. ch. vi. 9. ch. xix. 13. and ch. xx. 4. of all which Places, the plainest Interpretation is to be found in the Beginning of his Gospel. In like manner, you may see throughout his Gospel, and his other Writings, the same Names by which he here distinguishes the Son of God, given to Him upon all Occasions. In this Place he calls Him the Life: He does the same, 1st Epist. i. 2. ch.

ch. iii. 15. ch. v. 11, 20. So in his Gospel, ch. xi. 25. and ch. xiv. 6. as this was his usual way of speaking, and taken indeed from the Mouth of our Saviour himself, from which also the Beginning of his Gospel, and particularly these Expressions, to have eternal Life, to give eternal Life, did proceed. When therefore we have known from the Beginning of St. John's Gospel, that he calls the Son of God the Life, not only because he is our Creator, and therefore gives us our natural Life; nor only because after this Life, or after Death, he will give eternal Life unto those who have believed on Him, but also because He gives unto Believers the living Waters, that is, his Holy Spirit, as the Origin of a new and divine Life, in this Time of Grace; in many other Places also, where he uses the same kind of Speech, we shall the more easily perceive that this Word, and the Expressions joined with it, are not to be understood of the Life after Death; but that they every where urge and enforce the spiritual Life, (hidden to the natural Man) in this our Time of Grace. But this is the more to be regarded, because many are of Opinion, (to our great Grief!) that whatsoever is said concerning Eternal Life, belongs only to a future State: from whence arises this great Disadvantage, that they can't perceive ceive in themselves the genuine Propriety of the Kingdom of God, but deny the true Happiness of the Sons of God in this Life; and thence become so much the less solicitous of being truly found in Christ, the true Life, and of truly beginning this Life in the Time of Grace, here indeed by Faith, but continuing it hereafter by Intuition for ever and ever. Moreover, when St. John here calls the Son of God the Light, by opposing Darkness to this Light, he retains this very Manner and Form of Speech, ch. iii. 19, 20. ch. viii. 12. ch. ix. 5. ch. xi. 9, 10. ch. xii. 35, 36, 46. 1 Epist. ii. 3. When therefore he hath so clearly declared his Mind concerning the true Sense of this Word, in the Beginning of his Gospel, by the Help of this Declaration, we shall the more easily attain his true Sense of it in other Places. How comfortable therefore is it to observe, when he requires us to walk in the Light, his Meaning is, that we should walk in Christ Jesus, as St. Paul * speaks: He here testifies also that Christ is full of Grace and Truth; both which Words (Grace and Truth) he also makes use of in other Places. First, he not only uses the Word Truth, but divers ways of Speaking here and there agreeable to it; as, † to do Truth;

* Col. ii. 6.† John iii. 21. 1 John i. 6.

Truth; * to be of the Truth; † to walk in the Truth; ‡ in Spirit and in Truth; and, || there is no Truth in him. And of the Devil he saith;  He abode not in the Truth. Nor does he seldom use the Words true, truly, whose proper Signification appears from the Word ἀλήθεια, Truth, and from Forms of Speech of the same nature. The Sense therefore of the Holy Spirit being known, when it says, that Christ, full of Grace and Truth, dwells in them, we shall be the less likely to mistake it in other Places. But if we consider all these Places together, we shall be the more fully convinc'd, that the Word Truth is us'd by St. John in a far more sublime and illustrious Sense, than ever it was used by Heathen Authors, or by us now in common Conversation, where it uses almost only to be taken for the Matter of our Intellect. Contrary to which, 'tis easy to see what an Esteem St. John had for this Word; since he was taught from the Mouth of his Lord and Master, that He himself was the Truth. This is an Example, that the Beginning of St. John's Gospel may serve as a Key, whereby to interpret his other Writings. If therefore any one would apply these, or any other of St. John's Expressions, for the clearer

Knowledge of the other Writings of the New Testament, or of Moses and the Prophets, he would thereby be greatly enlightned in the true Sense of the Divine Word; to which End our preceding Second and Third Meditations might administer some Assistance. But to our foregoing Meditations, enlarged now beyond what we first intended, we here put a full stop; leaving it to the pious Reader to think farther on these Things, with a due Reverence to the Divine Word; and to take an occasion from thence so to meditate on other Places of the Holy Scriptures, that he may learn to know Christ, not superficially, but substantially and savingly, to be the Sum and Substance of the Holy Scriptures; and may thereby understand that what Tertullian affirms of the Writings of Moses, Lib. III. against Marcion, may be truly said of all Scripture; All Things in them, says he, speak of Christ, and through Christ they all speak.

SECT.

S E C T. LXIII.

What besides this Instance, more at large explained, may farther conduce to the Knowledge of Christ, as the Sum and Substance of the Holy Scriptures.

THE Specimen hitherto given, and so largely expounded, should not only instruct you how Christ may be sought for in all the Holy Scriptures, as the Sum and Substance of them; but should also serve to teach you, that you ought before all Things to be certainly inform'd concerning the Excellency of his Person, and of his Office, from the Foundation of Holy Writ. But yet, for your farther Instruction, I shall add a few Things more concerning the threefold Office of Christ.

First therefore, as to what belongs to the Office of Christ, you must carefully attend to this, That Jesus Christ is that Great Prophet sent by God into this World, openly to declare his Counsel and Will to Men; and therefore you ought to receive Him as your only Master and Teacher, to believe simply, and without any Contradiction, all that He says; and to be so firmly perswaded of this, that all his Words and Actions may be to you a Rule

and Pattern of Faith and Manners. No Man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the Bosom of the Father, He hath declared Him*.

If you lay not this for a Foundation, and will not bend your Mind to it, that like an humble and obedient Disciple you may adhere to this great Teacher, and believe from your Heart, and practise also whatsoever He himself spoke, or commanded to be declared to you by those of whom He said, He that heareth you, heareth me; and he that despiseth you, despiseth me †; all the Pains you take in seeking Christ in the Scriptures, is in vain. On the contrary, if you lay this in your Soul for a firm and immoveable Foundation, He himself, whom you acknowledge to be your Master and Teacher, will take you into his School, and under his Discipline you will soon grow up, and advance forward, and become a good Proficient: For this Cause, the Father cried out to us from Heaven, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased, Hear ye Him ‡. Observe therefore diligently, what Christ himself hath said; || My Doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me. If any Man will do his Will, he shall know of the Doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of my my self. Here then we are not to obey either Father or Mother, or any other Person more than Christ; but we must do whatsoever Things He saith to us, and prefer his Command before the Authority of all Men; tho' we should see it necessary to lose all we have, and even Life itself, for this Cause. Thus Christ's Prophetick Office ought not to be to you a bare Speculation, but it should draw you and your whole Mind unto Christ, that you may deliver your self entirely into his Hands, and become his faithful Apprentice and Scholar, and do or omit nothing, either inwardly or outwardly, but what is suitable to his Prescript. For this is He of whom Moses prophesied; * The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy Brethren, like unto me, unto Him ye shall hearken.

That you so receive Christ as that great Teacher and Prophet given by God, is indeed the Foundation; but you are to be conducted farther than this, viz. to the Knowledge of Him as the only Mediator between God and Men †; who not only instructs you concerning the Divine Essence and Will, but who is himself the Author of eternal Salvation to those that obey Him; wherefore He is also named by God, ‡ a Priest for ever after the Or- der of Melchisedeck. And this is the principal Reason why it so much concerns you to learn to know Christ in the Holy Scriptures, because you cannot come to God any other way; and all your Safety and Happiness depends upon Him alone, and upon no other whatsoever. In Him you are to acknowledge and contemplate the Length and Breadth, the Depth and Height, of the great Work of Man's Redemption. Of Him Moses, the Prophets, and the Psalms, the Evangelists and Apostles, testify with one friendly Consent. All the Sacrifices of the old Covenant do refer as Types to this Lamb of God, who presented Himself to be slain and sacrificed for the Sins of the whole World.

In this you find how remarkable a Signification the Protovangelium (or the Primitive Gospel) given unto Man in Paradise had; * and why it was so often repeated; our Forefathers built Altars, and sacrificing upon them, proclaimed the Lord whom they invoked. In this, the genuine Signification of God's Covenant with Abraham is disclosed to you; and you will understand, that from that Covenant you ought to seek the true Foundation of rightly knowing in what the Old and New Testament properly consists. In this, Mount Moriab, with all those Things which were done done upon it, will be rightly understood by you. In the History of Ishmael and Isaac, Esau and Jacob, Joseph and his Brethren, you will discover the Argument of the Old and New Testament, and some Epitome of all Ecclesiastical History. So you will still more rejoice, that Joseph was at last made known to his Brethren.

* Gen. iii. 15.

The Egyptian Slavery will represent to you your own miserable Condition; the leading the Children of Israel through the Red Sea, your Redemption by the Blood of Christ; the journeying through the Wilderness, the Days of your own Pilgrimage. Then you will find the true Paschal Lamb, and will perceive in your Heart the Posts sprinkled with his Blood. The Tabernacle, the first and second Temple, and all their Statutes, Laws, Sanctifications, and Purifications, will be revealed to you in the Word that was made Flesh, and ἐσκήνωσεν, dwelt, or pitch'd his Tabernacle among us, and in us. How greatly did David rejoice, when perceiving * the spiritual Meaning of the xivth Chapter of Leviticus, he looked upon himself as a spiritual Leper, cleansed by the Sacrifice of Christ, and sprinkled with the Hyssop of the Gospel! Thus you will know the true Joshua, leading the People of God to their Rest. Thus you will learn to understand, from the true Sense of the Spirit, the manifold Conflicts of the Children of Israel with the Canaanites; and that Samson, and other Deliverers given them by God, were Types of Christ. In this also you will more deeply consider David and his Calamities, and the Kingdom of David and Solomon, not only according to their external History, but also according to their mystical Signification in reference to Christ; and you will likewise read the Psalms of David with greater Benefit. You will consider the Babylonish Captivity, and the Deliverance from it, after a long Space of Time, as a Type also. Here you will know, that all the Writers who came after Moses; drew from Him, as from a Fountain; and therefore you'll have sufficient Reasons to read Him diligently and attentively, before all the other Scriptures of the Old Testament, and to weigh accurately all his Words; and the Epistle to the Hebrews will be helpful to you for a right Interpretation of the Books of Moses. But in all the Holy Writings, you will find the Fall of the first Man, and his Restitution by Christ, set before you in almost innumerable Types and Figures. Nay, if you truly believe in Jesus Christ, and in Him shall turn your self unto the Lord God, the Veil of Moses shall be taken away from your Heart, and you shall with open Face, beholding, as in a Glass, the Glory of the Lord; be transformed into the same Image from Glory to Glory; even as by the Spirit of the Lord *. This Knowledge will lead you still farther, and will teach you, that Christ is not only your Prophet and Priest, but your King also: For He has a Royal Priesthood, according to the Order of Melchisedeck. Then you will perceive, with the Fathers of the Church, what Depths of Knowledge lie hid in the short Description of the Priesthood of Melchisedeck †. David in Spirit beheld them ‡: St. Paul, from the Power of the Holy Spirit in the New Testament, still more clearly discloses them in his Epistle to the Hebrews ||. But the Revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ, represents to us the most clearly of all, this Royal Priesthood, and gives us a Key to all the Books of the Old and New Testament; so that you may clearly discern, as in a Picture, the Kingdom of the Lord, and of his Anointed; the Manner and Nature of its Government, Statutes, and Judgments; the glorious Splendor of this Kingdom; the heavenly Council; the secret Ways of God; the Harmony of the Kingdom of Grace and Glory; the Diversity of Inhabitants; their Sustentation, Defence, and at last their Glorification. There you will rightly learn to distinguish between the twofold State of Christ, that of his Exinanition, and that of his Exaltation; and you, as well in that, as in this, will find great Consolation. Then you will not perplex the Words of the Prophets, nor wrest them to your own preconceiv'd Opinions; but all being placed in their proper Order, you will neither derogate from the Glory of your Saviour, nor from his Exinanition that went before it. Then you will be able to distinguish the Times rightly, and in that Distinction you will plainly see, how friendly and sweetly the whole Choir of the Prophets conspire together. If your Faith be founded in the Knowledge of the Prophetick Office of Christ, if it be strengthened by the Knowledge of his Priestly Office, it will certainly be established and perfected by the Knowledge of this Royal Priesthood of Melchisedeck, as in which there is comprehended the Glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

John Arndius, in his Evangelical Postill, Sermon IV. on the first Sunday in Advent, comprehends the Testimonies of the Prophets concerning the Regal Dignity of Christ in this manner: "It is altogether fit that the King and Lord of Glory, whom all the Angels of God adore, at whose HITHERTO we have somewhat copiously enumerated the Names attributed to our Lord Jesus Christ, in the Holy Scriptures; to which any one will be able to add, at his pleasure, if more occur. I contend not about the Order in which these Names ought to be ranked. It is enough that we have the Names themselves; the Order in which they ought to be placed, serves only to render our intended Meditation upon them the more easy: so that the more prudent Persons, will even thus, in the present Recital, find Food and Nourishment to their Souls: For by what Name soever Christ is specified in the Scriptures, this Thing He truly is in effect. But in order to our Discovery of Christ in the Holy Scriptures, a diligent marking of the Characters whereby his Fore-runners and Types are distinguished, doth also conduce; which the blessed John Arndius hath thus sweetly compris'd, in his Evangelical Postill, in his First Sermon on the Third Sunday in Advent. “ All the Fore-derstanding with those Things, which the Scriptures teach you concerning Christ; but you must rather seek Christ with the most inward Desire of your Mind, and with the most passionate Love. Many Persons think they know all these Things well enough, and have ventured to write whole Books concerning them, who nevertheless have not found Christ in reality, nor made any Approaches to Him. The Pharisees thought they had eternal Life in the Scriptures, and therefore they acquiesc'd in the Search of them *. This Pharisaical Opinion still obtains too much; but Christ testifies, that Life is to be had not in the Scriptures, but in Himself: that the Scriptures testify of Him, and that this Testimony is to be received, and that we must come unto him, that we may have Life, John v. 40. (And you will not come unto me that ye might have Life) You do well in taking heed to the Scriptures, (which are a most sure Word of Prophecy) as unto a Light that shineth in a dark Place †; but you ought not to acquiesce in this, but to aspire farther, that the Day may dawn, and the Day-star arise in your Heart. 'Tis a glorious Thing to find Christ in the Scriptures, but still more glorious to find Him in your Heart; and to know, what is the Riches of the Glory of

of this Mystery, which is Christ in us, the Hope of Glory *; and what it is, to be strengthened with Might by his Spirit in the inward Man, and to have Christ dwell in our Heart by Faith, and to be rooted and grounded in Love †. If we perceive Christ in us, and our selves in Christ, then we find Christ truly, and according to the Divine Will; nor does any one find Christ truly in the Scriptures, unless he also find Him in his own Heart. Since learned Men are, for the most part, contented with remembering the written Testimonies concerning Christ, or being able to turn to them in the Scriptures, they don't consider that Christ ought to be sought and found in the Scriptures in a more sublime and excellent manner. But St. Peter instructs us how Christ ought to be sought for there; ‡ Of which Salvation (of those that believe in Christ) the Prophets have inquired, and searched diligently, who prophesied of the Grace that should come unto you, searching what, or what manner of Time the Spirit of Christ, which was in them, did signify, when it testify'd beforehand the Sufferings of Christ, and the Glory that should follow, &c. What is it that St. Peter would hereby signify? even that we ought carefully to regard the Spirit of Christ in the Men and Servants of God in the Old Testament ; for that the Spirit of Christ did truly dwell in them, that the Prophets themselves knew that this Spirit was in them ; and not only so, but that they likewise knew, that this Spirit did foretel the Coming of Christ, or the Redeemer and Saviour of all Mankind ; concerning which they were so far from hesitating, that, taking it for an undoubted Truth, they bent their Minds only to the Search and Inquiry of these three Things: 1. The bringing of Salvation to Men through Christ: for they well knew that his Kingdom was not of this World, and that He was to deliver us from Darknes and eternal Misery, to which we were liable by the Fall, and was to translate us into the Light and the Salvation of God. 2. The Time of his Coming ; which not only the Prophecies thereof from the Beginning, but the very Spirit of Christ in them foretels, as * Daniel, in the first Place, labour'd after a more accurate Knowledge of the appointed Time of his Coming. 3. The Nature of the Time of the Messiah, or what sort of Time that of the New Testament was to be : wherein the Prerogative of that was placed, before the Time of the Old Testament. Therefore, since this is the truly spiritual, mystical, and ancient Way of seeking and tracing

tracing out Christ, commended by the Holy Spirit, 'tis requisite that we should rightly understand, and enter upon the same Order and Method: But this ought to be done through the same Spirit; that is, we must be made Partakers of the Spirit of Christ, as St. Paul testifies, speaking of this Spirit; *We having the same Spirit of Faith. And, If any Man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his†. For if Christ be thus in us, then we understand the Mystery which hath been hid from Ages, but now is made manifest to his Saints‡. For this Mystery, as St. Paul here adds, || is χριστός ἐν ἡμῖν, Christ in us, the Hope of Glory. But if the same Spirit which was in them be in us, one Glory of the Lord is seen in another, and the same Image of Christ is discerned in all and every one of us. O blessed Contemplation! Would to God we might thus, with a sedate Mind, behold Christ in all others, and that we our selves may be found a clear and lucid Mirror of Him.

S E C T. LXVI.

In what Things, and especially in what manner, Christ mystical is to be sought.

IN this Order you will learn to know Christ mystical, that is, Christ in his Members; and likewise in this Sense you will find, what the Epistle to the Hebrews says to be true; * Jesus Christ the same yesterday, to day, and for ever. Where the Spirit of Christ was, there also were his Sufferings; where his Sufferings were, there also was the Hope of Glory, which was to follow his Sufferings; as St. Peter testifies in the Place just now cited. Therefore as Christ from the very Beginning was dealt with or treated in his Members, so in the same Way is He to be inquired after in all the Holy Scriptures, not only as He is the Head, and in his proper Person, but also as he has animated all his Members by his Spirit, dwelt in them, suffered, and overcome the World. For if Christ ought to be known according to his Fulness, 'tis necessary that He be known also in his Members, as in whom He alone is $\tau\acute{\alpha} \pi\acute{\alpha}\nu\tau\alpha \kappa\acute{\iota} \epsilon\iota \pi\acute{\alpha}\sigma\iota$, all Things, and in all. And without doubt, 'twas this our Saviour would teach his Disciples after

* Heb. xiii. 8.

after his Resurrection, when He said, Ought not Christ to have suffered these Things, and to enter into his Glory? And upon the same Foundation, those who persecuted the Lord, were guilty of all the righteous Blood that was shed upon the Earth, from the Blood of righteous Abel *. But as every Thing appears more plain from its Opposite; so in the Scriptures, when you shall have learn'd to know Christ mystical, or Christ in his Members, you will easily perceive a perpetual Opposition, and will discover the Spirit of Antichrist, not only in Cain, but also in his Succesors without number; how this Opposition remains constant and perpetual to the End: and thus the Truth of the Holy Scriptures is confirmed by the History of all Times, as well as by daily Experience. But this Opposition is not only observed in Persons, and their contrary Qualities, but extends itself much farther. For whatsoever is attributed to Christ, or is said of Him on one Side, the same is assigned by the other Side to the whole Antichristian Congregation, by way of Opposition; forasmuch as Satan is in all Things the Ape, or Imitator of God. Therefore if this Opposition throughout the sacred Scriptures be well observ'd, Christ is thereby the better known in them, and the Application

plication of the divine salutary Word is made the more easy. Thus in the House of Abraham, we behold Isaac, a Type of Christ, and the opposite to him, Ishmael; in the House of Isaac, Jacob, and his opposite Esau; in the House of Jacob, Joseph, and his Opposites his Brethren, not as yet humbled. As according to the Gospel of St. Matthew, * Before him shall be gathered all Nations, at the last Day, the Sheep on his right Hand, and the Goats on his left, or, the opposite Side: so in all the Holy Scriptures the two Parties are always set in opposition to one another; and there is a perpetual Strife between them, to the Day of their final Separation: from which Opposition, the Nature and Property of the Church Militant of Christ is understood, whose chief Leader and King is Christ himself; for which Reason also, when he comes to Judgment, he will be glorified in his Saints, and be admired in all them who believe †.

will be found by you. He calls those to Him, who labour and are heavy laden; and promises, that He will give them Rest, and that they shall find Rest to their Souls *; as being the true Noah, who shall comfort us concerning our Work, and Toil of our Hands, because of the Ground which the Lord hath cursed †. Whence you may be fully perswaded, that you will most certainly find Him, if you acknowledge your Sins, and your Misery as a grievous Burden; and will carry it to Him with a contrite Heart, and a true Faith in his most gracious Promise, and with a sure Confidence in his Mediatorial Office. For you will not be deliver'd from this your Load and Burden, unless you resolve to take his Yoke upon you, and to learn of Him: but not so (which must be again observed) as to receive Him for a Teacher, to replenish your Understanding and Memory, but for one who requires a Change of the Mind, in Sincerity and Truth. You must therefore study to do his Will, and that of his Father, who sent Him; for so you will truly know of his Doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether he speaks of Himself ‡. But if his Yoke seems to you to be a heavy Burden, 'tis a sufficient Sign, that you have not yet found Him; for himself testifies, that his Yoke is easy, and his Bur-

S E C T. LXVIII.

What Course is to be taken, when Christ long sought after, is not found by thee.

YOU must, in such Case, seek Christ with Prayers and with Tears, until such Time as you find by Experience, that He is not a Burden, but a Delight to you; for thus you will, as it were, constrain Him to tarry with you ‡. You will not obtain this by any natural Qualities, and the Strength of your own Reason. It is necessary that that Love, wherewith he hath loved you, and still doth love you, should be shed abroad in your Heart, by the Holy Spirit: For, saith He, if a Man love me, he will keep my Words ||. But his Love is also a Light, which kindles in you a Light of reciprocal Love, that what He requires, you will willingly do. The Love of Christ will change your Mind, and will make you a Partaker of the Mind of Christ,

Christ, that you may be conformable to Him, and that He may be formed in you. With his Love, He will bestow on you his Spirit also; and this Spirit will lead you into all Truth, and powerfully incline you unto all Good; so that for the Time to come it will be repugnant to your Temper, to speak or do any Thing, whereby you may grieve the Spirit of Christ. Therefore dismiss the Spirit of Servitude, which makes you forbear Evil, and to do Good, only out of fear of Punishment; so far as you suffer your self to be deceiv'd and ensnar'd by this Spirit, so far have you yet been from finding Christ. For the Spirit of Christ is not a slavish, servile Spirit: for he knoweth the Love of his Father, he delighteth to do his Will, and his Law is within his Heart *. Desire earnestly of God the Spirit of Adoption, by which you may cry Abba, Father. By how much the nearer this Cry of Abba, Father, shall approach to the filial Way of Crying, so much the more will it be converted, as it were, into your very Nature; and the stricter the Union of your Heart is with that of God, so as by a perpetual Conjunction, to become as it were one Spirit with Him †, with so much the greater Purity have you found Christ, and have enjoy'd Him to your Benefit and Comfort. But if it should happen, that remaining in a continual Driness of Spirit, you cannot live a Christian Life, but under great Anxiety of Mind, Fear and Terror, desiring indeed to elevate your Soul to God with a filial Spirit, but perceiving no Strength at all in your self for the doing of this, tho' you detest Sin at the same time from the bottom of your Heart: Let not this manner of God's Procedure offend you. A Grain of Wheat seems indeed to rot, after being cast into the Ground; but by that means it takes Root, springs up delightfully, and will bring forth fairer and sweeter Fruit. For you must not think, that you will ever be able fully and thoroughly to find Christ, and be a Partaker of Him, without Crosses and Afflictions. All the Holy Scriptures are a Riddle to you, while you are ignorant of the Mystery of the Cross. This is the Wisdom of God in a Mystery, even the hidden Wisdom, which God ordained before the World unto our Glory; which none of the Princes of this World knew; for had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of Glory *. This is that which St. Paul saith; We preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a Stumbling-block, and unto the Greeks Foolishness †: And which Christ says, Blessed is he whosoever shall not be of- fended in me *. Now you do stumble at that Stumbling-block, (tho' you may not be offended, that Christ was nailed to a Cross) if you do not deny your self, and take up your Cross daily, and follow Him †. The Mystery of the Cross is to be learned under the Cross, otherwise no one understandeth it. If you were to hear or read the literal Account of it for six hundred Years together, but refused to bow down your Neck to this Yoke, you will remain as ignorant, insensible, and unskilful in it, as you were before. Seek diligently, and search through all the Holy Writings, by what Means our Fore-fathers attained to Wisdom, you will not find any who did ever attain it, without taking up his Cross, if it were only a sincere Renunciation of the World, which is a Cross bitter enough to Flesh and Blood, so that a Man more willingly undergoes all outward Calamities, than this sort of Cross. He that in this World loves the Cross, and not Pleasure, this Man then fully understands the Mind of Christ, both with regard to his inward and outward State, and he himself hath the Spirit and the Mind of Christ; he knows the Poverty of the Life of Christ, and he walks with Him in the very same Way. To follow Christ in well doing, is a noble Thing; but to follow Him in

* Matt. xi. 6.

† Luke ix. 23.

268 Christ the Sum and Substance

in Suffering, yea, and that in suffering readily, is a much more excellent Thing. Not only to endure the Cross and Afflictions, but to love them also from the Heart, is a Wisdom which far excels all other Wisdom. You desire to find out the Substance of the Scripture; but do you desire to know also the Substance of Wisdom, viz. the Love of the Cross? If you are averse to this, you will perhaps have some external Knowledge of the other, but you will not relish, nor partake of it for your Delight and Comfort. Do you not hear, that you cannot become a Disciple of Christ, unless you take up your Cross daily, and follow Him? How can you persuade your self that you may be able to find Christ in the Scriptures, tho' you take not the Cross upon you? Thro' this Wisdom, which is learned only by Experience, Christ makes you a Friend of God, and a Prophet *, confers upon you a Royal Priesthood †, makes you a Partaker of the Divine Nature ‡; whatsoever you learnt of the Office and Person of Jesus Christ, before you resolved to take his Yoke upon you, was without Efficacy and Life in you. Therefore He says; Take my Yoke upon you, and learn of me ||. Many Persons complain, that the Scriptures are

* Wisd. vii. 27.

‡ 2 Pet. i. 4.

are obscure, and hard to be understood by them; for which Reason they do not willingly read them. But if you inquire into the Cause of it, you will find the Love of the Cross is wanting. Many become Divines out of Glory, few out of Love to the Cross. Where there is much of the Cross, there is much Light; where there is little of the Cross, there is much Darkness, and much Folly. St. Paul says, God forbid that I should glory, save in the Cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the World is crucified unto me, and I unto the World *. And, I am crucified with Christ †. No Man can shew you a surer and safer Way of finding Christ effectually in the Scriptures, than this is. And if you would embrace all other good Doctrines, but should reject this, you would only lay hold of his Shadow, nay, you would take up with a false Light, which would be more dangerous to you, than if you had never heard any thing at all of Him. Wherefore, if you would certainly find Christ in the Scripture, you must betake your self unto his Cross, and you will have your Desire: Take it upon you with Confidence; Fear is a hurtful Delusion of the Flesh, and deprives one of the greatest Treasure. Apply your self to Prayers, and contemplate that infinite and incomprehensible

Love, which mov'd your Saviour to deliver Himself up for you his Enemy, to the most profound Humiliation, and to the bitterest Sufferings both internal and external. Should not this excite in you a Reciprocation of pure Love, that you should in like manner abandon and lay down your Life for the Brethren, as he loved you, and laid down his *Life for you? Believe me, this Melchisedeck, after your Conflict, will suddenly refresh you with Bread and Wine, and will confirm to you a Royal Priesthood, with his most abundant Benediction. This Benediction will penetrate you so deeply, that after a short Fight you will find your self endued with a Royal and Priestly Mind. You will find that He lives and reigns in you, who overcame all Things, and that you have an Uction proceeding from the Holy One †. He will give you Power to overcome all Things, and to sit with Him on his Throne, even as He overcame, and is sate down with his Father in his Throne ‡. They likewise who find Christ in the Scripture, do not find Him in the same Proportion, or in the same Measure. If you find Him as your Bridegroom, and know that you are his chosen Bride, then indeed you find Him after the best manner. There is here no sporting with Words; here is Spirit rit and Life, the Bride is placed on his right Hand in Gold of Ophir, saith David by the Spirit *. Where, in all the Holy Scripture, is this said of any Angel? My Dove, my undefiled is but One; she is the only one of her Mother, she is the choice one of her that bear her, says Christ the Bridegroom †. This chiefest Excellence is situate in the Cross, Christ is the bloody Husband, as Zipporah called Moses in a Type ‡. 'Tis a great Mistake, to pretend to call your self the Spouse of Christ, unless you desire from your Heart to be inwardly and outwardly conformed to Him. And how can you be conformed to Him, without Afflictions and the Cross? Consider all the Promises of God throughout the sacred Records; are not they all wrapped up in the Mystery of the Cross? How therefore can that highest and most noble Degree of divine Favour, to become the Bride of Christ, be attained without the Cross? The Brands and Reproaches of the Bridegroom belong to the Bride. These are her most precious Ornaments. The more like one is to the Bridegroom in the Cross, the more like will he be to Him in Glory. In the Way of the Cross, Christ will join himself to you; He will walk with you, and will open the Scriptures to you; so that you will be ready to say

Jesus said unto her : I am the Resurrection, and the Life.

IT should seem a needless Work to do that which is the common business of Sermons on this Day, viz. to prove the Truth of our Lord's Resurrection; and, which is the sure consequence of it, the Certainty of ours. It appears superfluous to multiply Arguments to confirm an Article of Faith, into which we were all initiated in our Baptism, which we still profess to believe, which we affirm daily in repeating the Creeds, and which, on the Annual Return of this Season, we assemble on purpose to commemorate.

BUT when we consider the Lives of those who profess this Truth, who received the Sacramental Tokens of it in their Baptism, who repeat it daily in their Creeds, and meet here Annually for the solemn Celebration of it, as a fundamental Article of their Faith: when, I say, we consider the Lives of these Professors, there seems but too much reason to suspect, that notwithstanding all our Professions, many among us are not heartily convinced of it. For after all the elaborate Discourses upon this Subject, Where is that indifference for the things of the World? that Spiritual Joy, that Purity, that Heavenly-mindedness, which the Resurrection of our Lord should inspire? Where is that Self-denial, that Watchfulness over our own Hearts, and Attention to the Omnipresence of GOD; that exact Justice in our Dealing, that warm Benevolence towards all Men; and in a word, that zealous Preparation against the Day of Judgment, which an effectual Assurance of our own Resurrection would certainly oblige us to? I might ask the greater part, How they would live, if they did not believe any Resurrection? What alteration would there be in their Manners? Would they be more addicted to Pleasure, more intent upon their temporal Interest, or less careful for the Good of others, if they had never heard the Truths of the Gospel? yet they lay claim to the venerable Name of Christians, and assemble here to celebrate the Triumphs of our Lord's Resurrection. I dare not therefore say of such, that they

they do not believe it; but I fear they have not duly thought about it: they are not sufficiently apprized of the wondrous effects and consequences of this great Mystery. It is not enough that we know it by name and by hear-say. All saving Knowledge is experimental: and it is not sufficient that we know the History, but we must also feel the Power of our Lord's Resurrection: not only that He is Risen, but also that he is the Resurrection. As the Sun is Light to himself, and the great source of Day to all the Worlds around him: so is our Lord, Resurrection to himself, and the Cause and Author of Resurrection in all others.

LEAVING * therefore the History of our Lord's Rising from the Dead, as an established and acknowledged Truth: and presuming, I hope not without good Reason, upon your constant and open Profession of it: I shall at present, consider our Lord as he is the Resurrection, not only in himself, whereby he raised his own most holy Humanity, but as He works this great Work in us, being, as I said, the immediate Cause and Author of our Resurrection. This is what he plainly affirms of himself in the Text, I am the Resurrection and the Life; which

6 A SERMON upon the

St. Paul clearly explains, 1 Cor. xv. Since by Man came Death, by Man came also the Resurrection of the Dead: for as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.

THIS Resurrection to be wrought in us by Christ, is twofold; relating to the two constituent Parts of Man, the Body, and the Soul: for to these two belong two distinct Resurrections, very different from each other.

THE first Resurrection, that of the Soul I mean, is of a moral and spiritual Nature: It is the Rising of the Soul from the Death of Sin, unto the Life of Righteousness; States more different, and infinitely more important, than those of natural Life and Death: It is peculiar to the Saints of GOD: It requires our Concurrence with the operations of Grace, to which alone it is to be imputed: and blessed and holy is he that hath part in this first Resurrection; Rev. xx. 6.

THE second Resurrection, is that of the Body, after our natural Death. It does not take Place till the Day of Judgment: It is common to all Men; it is necessary and inevitable; and is the Effect of the Justice, rather than of the Grace of Almighty GOD.

OF both these Resurrections, Jesus Christ is the immediate Cause and Author:

thor: Of the first, as he is Saviour of the World; and of the second, as he is the Judge of it; for it is a Prerogative very properly annexed to his Office of universal Judge, that he should, by his own Power, summon all Mankind to his Tribunal.

THE Power of this second Resurrection from the State of natural Death, seems to have been principally intended in the literal sense of the Text, which was spoken on the account of Lazarus, whom our Lord was then about to raise from the Dead. I know, said Martba, that he shall rise again at the Resurrection of the Last Day. Jesus said unto her, “I am the Resurrection and the Life.” I have the Power of raising all Men, and therefore I can raise any of them, how, or at what time, I think fit.

THIS Resurrection from the natural Death, is, I think, commonly well enough understood in the general. We can all, by a Faith in the Omnipotence of God, form sufficient Notions of our being raised again at the Last Day with our Bodies: so that the whole Man, which acted in this Life, may be qualified for the Rewards or Punishments of the next. There is, I suppose, little difficulty in conceiving this, seeing the Experience we now have, of the Union of Soul and Body, may inform us, in a good degree, of what shall come to pass at the Resurrection of the Dead, when they shall be re-united.

BUT the spiritual Resurrection of our Souls in this Life, is a thing less thought of, and less understood by the generality of Mankind. This is one of those things of God, whereof the natural or animal Man is ignorant. It requires a spiritual discernment, and some spiritual experience for the right apprehending it. The Holy Scriptures treat of it very frequently, but no where more largely and clearly than in the second Lesson of the Morning Service for this Day, (Rom. vi.) I shall read the whole Passage, only premising that the Apostle here treats of the Death to Sin, as well as the Spiritual Resurrection: the former being always necessary to the latter, and so connected and imply'd in it, that they cannot be easily considered separately. But hear St. Paul, Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ, were baptized into his Death, i. e. into an Obligation, to be made conformable to it by dying to Sin? Therefore we are buried with him by Baptism into Death, that like as Jesus Christ was raised up from the Dead, by the Glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of Life. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his Death, we

we shall be also in the likeness of his Resurrection. Knowing this, that our old Man is crucified with him, that the Body of Sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve Sin: for he that is dead, is free from Sin. Now if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him. Let not Sin therefore reign in your mortal Body, that ye should obey it in the Lust thereof. You observe here, that the Death to Sin, is joined with the spiritual Resurrection; as a Circumstance indispensably requisite to, and implied in it; for no Person is capable of a Resurrection till he is once dead. 'Tis necessary therefore that we consider this Death here mentioned, that we enquire what the old Life is, and how it is extinguished; before we can understand any thing of the spiritual Resurrection that follows it, and the new Life to be conferr'd. The Life to be lost by this Death, is said to be that of our old Man, which is a Scriptural Phrase, signifying that nature, temper, or disposition of Mind, with which we are born, as we are the Sons of Adam, and Heirs of original Corruption, whereby, as the Scripture assures, and even our Catechism instructs us, we are the Children of Wrath. It is this innate depravation, which makes us ignorant of GOD, blind and stupid to all spiritual things, selfish, selfish, covetous, unjust, deceitful. Hence arise that Pride and Arrogance, that Envy, Malice, and Detraction, which make Men grievous to themselves and one another: From hence also all other Works of the Flesh take their Original; our Sloth, Intemperance, and all other evil Lusts, which make us odious in the sight of GOD, and utterly incapable of those pure and heavenly Delights of Piety, which constitute the proper Happiness of our Nature.

BESIDES those grosser Acts of Sin, which fall under common Observation, there is a depth of Subtilty and Wickedness, an endless train of Vanity and Self-deceit, which cannot be well described, nor rightly understood by any, whose Minds are not enlightned by Grace; for as it would be a hard matter to make a blind Man comprehend what Darknes is, at least, to give him such a Notion of it, as we have, tho' he lives in it continually: so it is alike difficult to give unconverted Sinners a right Notion of what is here meant by the old Man; because this, as most other things, is best, if not only known by its contrary. But in general we are to know, that whatever tendency there is in our Nature, to the commission of Sin, it is a part or member of the old Man; 'tis the hereditary Dis-

Resurrection of our LORD. II

Distemper of our Souls, derived from Adam, the corrupt Source of our Race. While we are yet in our natural State, unreformed by divine Grace; this lives, this reigns in our mortal Bodies. Why is this Man a Drunkard, that malicious, a third unjust in his Dealings? The reason is, because the Resurrection of Christ has not had its due Effect; the Mind is not renewed, and the old Man of Sin is yet unmortified. That corrupt Nature, which we received from Adam, is still active and vigorous: the Nature, I say, we received from Adam; which therefore is called the old Adam, bearing his Name from whom it is derived: it is also called the old Leaven, because it has infected the whole race of Mankind; as also Flesh, and the Body of Sin, which are different terms for the same thing, even the Principle of Corruption which is in our Nature.

THIS, as I said, lives and reigns in the Hearts of unregenerate Men; and would for ever reign there, for ought that we can do to hinder it, if Jesus Christ did not interpose, and by the virtue of his Sufferings and Death, communicates to Believers such Powers of Grace, as are sufficient to destroy this Root of Evil in their Souls: I say, that this corruption of our Nature is such, as we cannot possibly resist by our own Strength. It is too hard for our most serious Purposes; it bears down our feeble Resolutions like a Torrent, and renders all our Opposition fruitless and ineffectual. In vain does the Law encounter it with her impotent Discipline; in vain does she set before us her rigorous Commands and Prohibitions; in vain does she display her Rewards and Punishments. These all serve only to shew us our Guilt and Danger; but cannot work our Deliverance. The Rod of Moses cannot so expel Nature, but that she will still recur, she will still return upon us, and take her old Courses. We are still the same Men, and all our Struggles after Virtue, are like the motion of a Door upon its Hinges, still fixt to the same Place.

BUT behold a greater than Moses is come in the Gospel Dispensation, even our Lord Jesus Christ; and what the Law could not do, in that it was weak through the Flesh, i. e. our corrupt Nature, which is too violent to be controlled by the dead Letter of written Precepts: what this Law could not do, that (saith St. Paul) hath God done for us, by sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful Flesh: He has for, and through him, granted us new Powers and Abilities, whereby we are enabled to mortify, i. e. kill and destroy our corrupt Nature. Our old Man is crucified with him, (saith the same Apostle) that the Body of Sin

Sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve Sin. But this is still insufficient to make us either holy, or happy: it is at best but a negative Goodness: there is more required of us than a mere Abstinence from Vice; for example, it is not enough that we do not hate our Neighbour, but we must actually love him with a sincere Affection. We must, in a word, not only cease to do evil, but also learn to do well: and as the old Man of Sin is to be destroyed, so the new Man is to be raised up in us.

BUT this is a natural consequence of the former: If we be dead with Christ, we believe also that we shall be raised up with him. If we have been planted together in the likeness of his Death, we shall also grow up in the likeness of his Resurrection. This is the Language of the Holy Ghost; and the best Interpretation I can give you of it, is to be deduced from the following Principle, viz. “That every Act or Suffering of Christ, as it is meritorious of Grace, so also is it expressive of it: it represents that very sort, or kind of Grace, which it obtains for us.” Thus by his Death He put off all that mortal corruptible Nature, which he had received from Adam: He destroyed that Body, which was liable to Pain, Sicknes, Death, and all other Infirmities, incident to the fallen fallen State of Mankind; and thereby did He purchase for us those Graces, which are effectual for the destroying in each of us the old Adam, the corrupt Principles of Sin, derived to us from the Guilt of our first Parents. And in like manner, at his Resurrection he resumed a new Nature; his Body was raised incorruptible, impassible, and glorious, such as it now resides at the right Hand of the Father: and thereby has he obtained for us also a new Nature, a new Life, such a Frame and Disposition of Soul, as will effectually produce all kinds of Virtue, and richly abound in good Works.

THIS is the great and unspeakable Advantage which redounds to us from our Lord's Resurrection: But how few are there, that rightly value it? It produces every thing that is truly great and glorious. It confers a Divine Life. It makes us Partakers of the divine Nature, strong, by the Strength, wise, by the Wisdom, holy, by the Holiness of God. But the Men of the World relish none of these things, they have no Eyes to discern the beauty of Holiness: Almost all their imaginations and desires run in direct opposition to it: they fear the thoughts of it should make them melancholy. All their Concern is about the animal Life, all their Care is for the old Man, for his Maintenance and Support, port, and how they may make Provision for the Flesh, to fulfil the Lusts thereof. No wonder then that they feel no Joy arise in their Hearts, at the News of our Lord's Resurrection; or his assuring us, that he is the Resurrection, and that he will raise us, as he did himself. They have no Interest in it: they are not like to be Gainers by it: and therefore they see no Glories in the Gospel that relates it. But St. Paul has taught us, that if the Gospel be hid, it is hid to those that are lost.

OTHERS again, who pretend to have an higher Opinion of Virtue, and own, by their Words at least, that it is the most noble Acquisition our Nature is capable of, yet think that there is no such great Difficulty in attaining it; that there is no need of such heavenly Machinery (as they may lightly term the Mysteries of our Redemption.) Nec Deus interfit nisi dignus vindice nodus. Good Morality, they say, will carry us to Heaven: but they cannot see much Ground for believing all the abstruse Revelations of Christianity; nor how we shall be made wiser, or happier by such Belief.

BUT let these Men endeavour to live up even to their own notions of Morality. Let them try how they can acquit themselves in the Duties of Temperance, Meekness, Universal Benevolence, and a suitable Homage to the Supreme Being: and then, if

if they do not wilfully deceive themselves, they will learn by their own Experience, that they cannot do these things by their own Strength, and that they need divine Supports and Assistances, in the arduous Task of Virtue. The Gospel will then appear to them (provided they be sincere, and consequently not indisposed for the Illumination of GOD's Holy Spirit) The Gospel will then appear to them in its proper Beauty, and they will find it, according to its true Interpretation, Glad Tidings, shewing them, that Jesus Christ is ready to do that for them, which they cannot do for themselves: That by the Merits and Power of his Death, he will destroy their old Man, the Principle of Evil, that now tyrannizes in their Souls; and by the Power of his Resurrection, work their spiritual Resurrection to the new Life of Righteousness. Then shall be brought to pass the Saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in Victory The Sting of Death is Sin; but thanks be to God, which giveth us the Victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore, my beloved Brethren, be ye stedfast; unmoveable, always abounding in the Work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know, that your Labour shall not be in vain in the Lord.
